

The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to raise the necessary funds to meet its obligations.
 This is due to a combination of factors, including a decline in tax revenues and an increase in government spending.
 The second major problem is the high level of inflation, which has eroded the value of the currency and led to a loss of confidence in the government. This has resulted in a sharp decline in foreign investment and a corresponding loss of jobs.
 The third problem is the lack of political stability, which has led to a series of military coups and a general state of chaos. This has further weakened the government's ability to manage the economy and has led to a loss of faith in the government's leadership.
