LECTURES ON THE HISTORY OF LITERATURE,

ANCIENT AND MODERN.

From the German of FREDERICK SCHLEGEL.

“ Frederick Schlegel has more originality of genius than almost any other celebrated man in Germany; but, far from depending on that originality, though it promised him much success, he endeavours to assist it by extensive study. It is a great proof of our respect for the human species, when we dare not address it from the suggestions of our own minds, without having first conscientiously examined into all that has been left to us by our predecessors as an inheritance.”—Madame de Stael.

Splendidly printed by Bulmer, in one vol. imperial quarto, and illustrated by sixty beautiful plates, by Blore, Lizars, &c. Price L.5, 5s.

ESSAY ON THE ORIGIN, PRINCIPLES, AND HISTORY OF GOTHIC ARCHITECTURE.

By SIR JAMES HALL, F.R.S.
