

Victoria Earns Right to Play In Mulock Cup Semi-Finals

WESTERN WRITER WANTS UNIFORM RUGBY RULES

Capitals and Barmia will play for the intermediate honors of the O.R.F.U. at London on Saturday. Leonard Smith and Dick Leaver will be the officials. U. T. S. and Woodstock College have been ordered to play the junior final in Toronto. Rusty Bell and Bobby Hewitson are the officials.

Joe Price, the Rugby reformer of the Canadian west, has written an article of rules, which is certainly deserving of consideration from the authorities, both east and west.

In time of war prepare for peace. And so why not now during the war time when Rugby and other sports are laid aside prepare for the time when they will be again resumed? The writer especially refers to the game of Rugby football. There will be no senior Rugby in western Canada this year. The game is over before that time. The principal schools of the west are now preparing for the coming year. This should provide an opportunity for a get-together meeting on the rules of the game. It is admitted everywhere that the chief weakness of the gridiron game is the variations in the rules which are in force in different parts of the Dominion. The Quebec Rugby Union is governed by one set of rules; the Inter-O.R.F.U. by still another; and the Western Canada Union, which embraces three other leagues, has a fourth set of rules. All are aiming at the same thing, to make the game of Rugby a more open and better game, but are taking different ways of going about it. By means of a little organization, the codes of rules might become unified. If the Big Four and the O.R.F.U. insist upon playing the same again next year, war or no, it would be useless to ask them to co-operate. One or two interested and enthusiastic people connected with each organization could be selected to meet and make a compromise. A conference might be held, and when the war is finished an organization be completed which would be invaluable. This is just a suggestion, which might be worthy of consideration.

Hamilton Times: This week will be a strenuous one for members of the Tiger team, for commencing at 4 o'clock this afternoon Coach Marriott will put the boys thru a stiff drill, which will last over two hours, and the same program will be carried out on Thursday, while on Friday the boys will gather together for the weekly chalk talk given by the coach. There is not a member of the Tiger team who can concede T.R. & A.A. a chance in Saturday's battle even if Bickle and Coach Marriott have the same opinion. But despite this fact he is not going to let the team rest harder this week than ever before. At the present time the Tigers are in the best of shape, and are expected to see a fine and exciting contest with a team in action for the yellow flag. "Chicken" McKelvey suffers from a Charlie horse at the present time, but is expected to be back in tip-top shape before 2:30 on Saturday. It is doubtful who will play on the back division for the Bengals, but according to reports circulated last evening, Lutz will play instead of Jack McKelvey.

Shaughnessy is sure rejoicing over the showing his team made against Tigers on Saturday, and he thinks that if the break were even the outcome would have been different. One thing that Shaughnessy never crossed the Ottawa line for a try. This is the first time the Bengals have failed to do this stunt this season.

Ottawa Free Press: Frank Shaughnessy likes Stanny Mangan's style as a football player. Says Shaughnessy: "Don't make any mistake, this Mangan is one sweet player. He's got everything from a stiff arm to a noodle and hands and feet that work with his head. I liked him when he played in Ottawa, but he looked like a million dollars in Hamilton. He is what I call an actually good football player. That's the least I can say of him."

Jimmy Ingram, the Ottawa scimmager, was the victim of an accident in the

CORNELL HAS ONE MORE GAME TO WIN

Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day Expected to Prove Easy.

ITHACA, Nov. 16.—Slowly, but none the less surely, the machines contending for the eastern football championship are giving a convulsive spitter and go.

Two teams in the running—Cornell and Pittsburgh from the near east, and Harvard and Princeton from the north. The Cornell team, which previously had been defeated by Princeton.

Harvard and the all-around class of the team has defeated, is being generally favored by eastern critics for the championship, despite the unsavory record of the Cornell team.

It is doubtful if the middle will be cleared up, as these claimants will not meet until the Cornell team has played its last game. There are no comparative scores, as they have not played the same team.

So far as the Cornell coaches are concerned, however, they apparently do not worry about the Cornell team. They are confident that the Cornell team will win the game last Saturday, but none of them is sure.

Cornell men hunted out today that Captain Barrett leads all of the eastern teams in scoring.

OTTAWA SENATORS, THE FINISHING THIRD CROW, LIKE CHAMPIONS

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—"My squad is just starting to get right and if I had them out by Sept. 1, next year, I believe they could beat them all," said Coach Frank Shaughnessy of the Ottawa Big Four team on his return from Hamilton where the senators with their weakest line-up of the season threw a terrible scare into the juggernauts.

The fact that the Senators could only score seven points, all singles, on their home field shows just what kind of an argument the red, white and black gave them.

During the season or after the first week of the schedule, the only scrimmage practice the Ottawa received were four short brushes with the light College City League team before the Argos game in Toronto. After that, signal practice was the best they could get during the last two weeks formations had to be abandoned as on an average only ten or eleven men showed up. Despite this fact and the services of Quilty, Brophy and Fred Davies, Ottawa gave the Senators a good game.

No Big Four team has ever shown such a driving attack as the recruits from the capital did this year. They bucked every team in the league all over the field, but lacked the necessary experience to make their powerful offense effective. If football is played in the Big Four next year and Shaughnessy is coaching the Ottawa, it would behoove the team behind the scenes to acquire an enthusiasm to provide a bunch of second string men for practice. Ottawa will then have a chance of coping with Hamilton and Toronto for football honors.

The Argos and Ottawa intermediate teams are as rugged as the Big Four. Both squads are playing league fixtures each week.

Shag didn't even have half a chance in the game and the showing he made with practically a green squad and a scarcity of men at that, is as creditable as if he had won the championship. Football enthusiasm in the eastern end of the inter-provincial loop is about a quarter of what it is in the west, which accounts

Here's to the Tigers

The Hamilton Tigers announce that all their surplus of the year, including next Saturday's game at the stadium, will be to the Red Cross and other patriotic purposes. Later the Tigers are coming to play the Argos for Glad Murphy's benefit. The Argos balance this year is going to their unfortunate flying wing.

That they expect this to be one of the hardest games they have had to face.

The Ithaca have encountered so many surprises in the Penn game that they are leaving nothing to chance this year, so despite the fact that Penn has had a poor season so far, the Cornell team, which previously had been defeated by Princeton.

Harvard and the all-around class of the team has defeated, is being generally favored by eastern critics for the championship, despite the unsavory record of the Cornell team.
