

T H E

C O N T E N T S.

- Chap. I. Of the Construction of reconnoitring Boats
Page 1.
- Chap. II. Of the Construction of Boats for landing and embarking Troops on an Enemy's Coast Page 3
- Chap. III. Of Vessels proper to protect Troops while landing Page 5
- Chap. IV. Of joining three Vessels together, to be of a sufficient Force for carrying large Cannon, both to annoy the Enemy and protect Troops in landing or embarking, when the Water is smooth and shallow, as mentioned in the last Chapter Page 8
- Chap. V. Of divers Inventions : and first of rolling Breast-Works to serve as Parapets, &c. Page 10
A short Account of these rolling Breast-Works Page 12
Of the practical Construction of high Batteries made with rolling Breastworks Page 15
- Chap VI. Of scaling Ladders Page 17
- Chap. VII. Of a Bridge to cross a Ditch, whether dry or full of Water Page 19
- Chap. VIII. Of the Advantage of Feints in landing Troops, &c. Page 23
- Chap. IX. Of real Attacks : And fitting old Ships of War in a different Form, after they have been condemned as unfit for Service in the common Way
Page 29—40
Chap.