The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will give a social on Friday afternoon, to which all the ladies of the congregation and their friends are invited. It is the occasion of the opening of the new parlour, which has been in the hands of the decorators for some time, and which now presents a very beautiful and homey appearance.

MATHEWSON-BRADFIELD. St. James' Church, Morrisburg, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, September 18, when Gladys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bradfield, was united in marriage to Mr. Chester Mathewson, of this city. The Rev. Archdeacon Carson officiated. The bride, dressed in a lovely white gown, was escorted by Mr. Geo. Godfrey, as matron of honor, while Mr. F. M. Stanton was groomsmen. After a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathewson left for a trip to New York and other eastern cities.

STEWART-DEUER. Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Caroline Deuer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Deuer, 127 S. Walnut street, and David Stewart of Detroit, son of Mrs. William Stewart, Alton, Ont. The wedding took place Saturday afternoon at the Chapin Memorial First Presbyterian Church, Niles, Mich. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. P. Carpenter of South Bend, Ind. The bride wore a suit of black velvet with a corsage of sweet peas and Sunburst roses. The bride was attractive in a taupe-colored suit of broadcloth with a corsage of lavender sweet peas and Sunburst roses. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a short wedding trip, and after September 15 will be at home at 1250 Brooklyn avenue, Detroit, Mich.

PRICE-MACADAMS. A nuptial event of unusual interest was solemnized at St. George's Church, Sarnia, on Tuesday morning, when Miss Roberta MacAdams, daughter of Mr. Robert MacAdams, M.P.P., 233 N. Brock street, was united in marriage to Major Harvey Price of Edmonton, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Canon Davis. The bride, who was away by her father, was escorted by Mrs. Aubrey Poole of Detroit as matron of honor, while Major E. F. McKee of the 5th Hussars acted as groomsmen. The ushers were Major G. G. Moncrieff of Petrolia and Capt. Johnston MacAdams of Sarnia. The bride was attired in a blue cloth suit, embroidered and trimmed with white satin and small henna-colored spots and wore a small henna-colored hat. The matron of honor wore a handsome gown of blue velvet with a corsage of white roses and a small henna-colored hat. The bride and groom were escorted by a band of music. The matron of honor wore a handsome gown of blue velvet with a corsage of white roses and a small henna-colored hat. The bride and groom were escorted by a band of music. The wedding was a very pretty affair.

The bride party stood beneath an arch of white clematis, erected in the drawing-room where the ceremony took place. Pink and white asters completed the decorations of the room. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful nuptial robe of ivory satin with tulle veil beaded in pearls, falling from a cap of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and satin ribbons.

Little Miss Nadine Amos was a pretty flower girl, wearing pink crepe de chine and carrying a basket of pink and white asters in which the ring was concealed. Master Harry Craven was another quaint attendant. Miss Mary Amos, cousin of the bride, played the wedding music and Mrs. Alvin Amos sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

In the dining-room a dainty buffet luncheon was served immediately following the ceremony, pink and white asters and clematis being again used here effectively. The room, which the bride was a case of silver and to the pianist and soloist handsome pieces of silver. Mr. and Mrs. Harris left by motor for a trip to eastern points, the bride traveling in a tailored suit with taupe velvet hat. Out-of-town guests were present from London, Detroit, Forest, Byron, Stratford and Manitoulin Island.

BROWN-WALKER. An exceedingly pretty house wedding was that which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Walker, 655 Wellington street, yesterday afternoon, when their daughter, Sarah Ethel Walker, became the bride of James Clarence Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

XIII. A "DARK YOUNG MAN"

My heart beat suffocatingly in my throat. For a moment, I—Anne Travis—the usually glib, well-balanced Anne—could find no adequate word to say. "Mighty easy . . . for any man . . . to fall in love with a young girl," there were the words young Saunders had just uttered. They had been spoken, too, with an air of simple conviction that made them genuine.

I sat in my chair, looking into those blue, magnetic eyes as I tried to understand. You don't need to specify your fiancée's objections to me a second time. I already know them. And I've accepted your decision in the matter. Giving a quick little nod, I turned away from him to hide the hot tears that had sprung unbidden to my eyes. Oh, what a blundering little fool I was! Luckily we were walking along the platform close to an exit, and an empty taxi passed. I hailed it.

Two minutes later I was bowling swiftly up Fifth avenue. Well, I'd definitely repulsed this strange young man. No longer did he desire my friendship. My blundering attempt at putting matters right had proved a fiasco, and my own humiliation. The thing to do now was to forget the whole thing. I ought to borrow a little of Julia's philosophy and savour fair. They were excellent armor for the battle of life.

All of these things I told myself as the taxi darted through the traffic. What a big, crowded city New York was! The pavements swarmed with human beings. They all had doubts and troubles, these people swarming in the great metropolis. Anne Travis—was only one of many!

But of course I hadn't any definite troubles. I told myself, determinedly, I was making mountains out of molehills. Fred and Julie—oh, there was nothing in that miserable suspicion. We were in West Fifty-eighth street. My spirits rose. Soon I would reach the clubhouse of the smart dress-maker whose address Julie had given to me. I would buy the sort of frock that Julie wore. And then he gave me a great effect—perhaps greater.

The taxi drew up at the pavement's edge, paid descending, paid the driver, and went into the French modiste's. Madame bustled forward, smiling. "I explained my mission, mentioning the name of Julie. Madame's smile expanded.

"Ah, yes, I know her well. She comes here often with a dark young man, so handsome and elegant."

"Dark young man—"

"Ah, yes," I responded, with cunning. "I know him, but I forget his name."

"And I remember it—it is 'De-launay.' Was the answer that gave me a second bigger twinge of jealous pain.

of yellow organdie and carrying a basket of mauve Climax asters. Mr. Russell Walker, cousin of the bride, was best man, and during the signing of the register Mr. H. S. Walker sang "Crown" and "O Promise Me." The wedding music was played by Mr. Milton Walker.

About thirty-five guests sat down to the wedding breakfast, the dining-room being prettily decorated with autumn flowers. A unique feature were the place cards, which were hand painted, each one bearing an excellent snapshot of the bride and groom. The aunt of the bride was wearing a handsome gown of black tulle and corsage of red roses.

About 4 o'clock the bride and groom left for Niagara Falls en route to Buffalo, in a brown French velour with hat to match, stone marten fur and corsage of pink roses. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside at 17 Chester street. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a handsome brooch, to the groomsmen a watch chain, and to the bridesmaid a watch chain. Another pretty attendant was little Miss Gladys Finch of Aylmer, in an attractive frock of yellow organdie.

FINE PROGRAM BEING ARRANGED BY MUSIC CLUB FOR THIS YEAR

Artists' Concerts To Be A Feature of Season's Work.

The program now being arranged by the Women's Music Club for the coming year promises to be an exceptionally fine one. At a meeting of the executive held recently, with Mrs. Victor Blackwell, the new president, in the chair, several interesting plans were made. This year the regular fortnightly recitals will be held in the Normal School, as they were two years ago. There will, however, be several artists' recitals during the year, the first to be held early in November, when Ferdinand Pillon and Madame Pillon of Toronto will be the visiting artists.

Glee Club. The St. Thomas Glee Club, under the direction of George C. Currie, will furnish another program which is being looked forward to. Still other prominent artists who may visit London during the coming year are Eva Claire, the distinguished pianist, and Campbell McInnis, who won the hearts of London music lovers last year.

BURGESSVILLE YOUNG PEOPLE. The young people of the Baptist Church, Burgessville, held a surprise party on Monday evening, September 20, at the home of Miss Sadie Loebe, when they gave her a miscellaneous shower prior to her marriage.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

The wizard has woven his ancient
A day and a starlit night,
And the world is a shadowy, pen-
cilled mist of haze and light—
Of color and haze and light—
Archibald Lampman.

Wants Little Boy. Dear Miss Grey,—How slowly but surely the days are growing shorter, and September is bringing us those wonderful days when we long to wander in the woods and get near to nature in all her moods. I have been wondering if any of the Mail-Box readers might know of a little girl or boy who needs a good home (from 4 to 8 years, or older). I would send them to school and see they got a good education in whatever line they were best suited for. If their parents were living they could keep in touch with them; if not, I would take full responsibility. They would be brought up in a country Christian home. It is only as we grow older we realize what it has meant to us, our early training in a good home. I will include a note for the S. C. H. and a stamped envelope with Miss Grey should someone be able to help.

SCOTCH JEAN. A. Ans.—Your offer is referred to readers, Scotch Jean, and it certainly sounds good for some little boy. Hope you find just the little chap you're looking for. Thank you for the generous gift to the hospital.

Attention of Lightcliffe. Dear Cynthia Grey,—Will you kindly put a note in thanks in your column to Lightcliffe for some very welcome Yorkshire papers she was thoughtful enough to send me. E. G. Bayne, Melville, Sask.

Requests. Dear Miss Grey,—Here is another interested reader of your Page, who has come for help. Have you any more of those contents for which to which to many ask? If so, I would be most pleased if you would send them to me. Inclosed find S. C. H. dime, I. O. U. Ans.—Thank you for hospital dime. Contents mailed to you.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my first letter to the Mail-Box, but the reading of the letters of Sisters I enjoy very much. I have tried several of the recipes and found them very good. I have seen so many asking for the stocking-foot pattern, and thought if it was not asking too much I would like to have it also. I am sending addressed envelope. Please find mite for children's hospital. A LOVER OF FLOWERS. Ans.—Thank you, Lover of Flowers, for the hospital gift and kind words. Pattern mailed.

Dear Miss Grey,—I come again for help. Can anyone of the Boxites send me the song that the first lines go like this: "Green grows the laurel and so does the haw, and sorry am I for the parting of you." My grandmother used to sing it years ago. KITTY CLOVER. Ans.—Referred to readers.

Dear Miss Grey.—This is my second letter to your Mail-Box. I read in today's paper where Thistle has so kindly offered seeds to sell for S. C. H. I would like very much to have some of the mixed cosmos. So if she sends them

A Comfortable Play Suit. Pattern 3272 is here portrayed. It is cut in five sizes, 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. The trousers are finished with side closing, and with suspenders portions, under which convenient pockets are placed. The blouse is in "slip-on" style.

Thakel, serge, seersucker, gingham, galatea, linen, jean and drill are excellent materials for this style. A 4-year size will require 2 yards of 27-inch material for the blouse, and 2½ yards for the trousers.

Pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

RINSO—not a cake soap, not a washing powder—a new form of soap in granules.

SOAK the clothes; that's all.

—the very hardest things!

Children's rompers, grimy from the playground—kitchen aprons, long used curtains, towels—things you dread washing because they need so much rubbing—pile them into a tub with RINSO. Other things too! RINSO harms nothing! Let them soak over night or for three hours in the morning. Then—just rinse them. They're gleaming white and CLEAN. The gentle strength of RINSO has loosened the dirt. It just runs away. The bubbly tubful of rich RINSO suds has done all the work. Seems too good to be true, does it? Just one package of RINSO—enough for the week's wash—will prove it.

At night—soak the clothes with RINSO. Morning—rinse them out. That's all.

At your Grocer's—Today!
