

to lines of proceeding which are not always satisfactory to ourselves. We therefore claim your sympathy and special charity in construing our correspondence, and deciding on the character of our conclusions.

We are truly glad to ascertain that our relations with you are so harmonious, that in all original principles and vital measures, we are of one heart and soul!

We have in Canada an immense country before us, and whilst in some few localities the supply of the gospel is abundant, others are seriously deficient. It is to those parts of the province we keep constantly directing our attention; and we have taken up fresh posts of labor, and added to our agency additional supply, as will be seen in our despatches.

But it will be borne in mind, that in the back settlements the people can do very little towards contributing to the support of the missionary. Although on his own land, in the depths of the forest, the settler's means are equally limited with those of the English laborer and factory operative, until by long and exhausting toil, he realizes enough and a portion to spare. Your noble help, therefore, which you annually grant, is still needed, and will be in time to come, as ours is real mission ground; and whilst you contribute to Canada in reinforcing her mission
