PREMIER AND HON. MR. HAZEN
TAKE PICTOU GRIT TO TASK

From inland revenue stamps $417,196 was received from the tax on railroad and steamship tickets and embossed cheques, $549,069. Altogether $56,232,446 was received in the way of customs duties, not including war tax duties on drugs and liquors, but including the proceeds of the sale of unclaimed goods, seizures and other casual revenue.

Dual Salaries.

"Members of parliament who are officers in the volunteer forces, the same as all others are entitled to the pay and the allowance of their rank. Many do not draw their pay and others contribute it to various Red Cross and other patriotic funds, but that is according to their own wishes," was the answer given by the Minister of Militia to Mr. Hughes of Kings, who asked a question as to dual salaries drawn by members as such, and officers.

In reply to a question by Mr. F. B. Carvell, Sir Sam Hughes stated that all officers of the Canadian expeditionary force who are serving in England either belong to the C.E.F., or are attached thereto, and that the government had paid nothing for the use of land on which the camp at Vernon was located this summer.

That Mr. A. Dewitt Foster, ex-M.P. for Kings is not employed by the government in any capacity was the reply made by Sir Robert Borden to Mr. Roche Lanctot. The Premier said Mr. Foster enjoyed the same privileges in the parliament buildings as were enjoyed by any other citizen of Canada not a member of parliament. He had no box in the parliamentary post office.

Mr. MacDonald of Pictou in moving for all correspondence relating to the arrangements for the handling of freight and coal at Pictou in connection with the boats engaged in the winter service between Pictou and Prince Edward Island during 1914-15, and the present season, said that he had brought this matter up at the request of the International Longshoremen's Association. He said that in Charlottetown this traffic was handled asked if it was the government's intention to appoint a regular High Commissioner. Sir Robert Borden replied that when Sir George Perley went to England as acting commissioner, it was not intended that he should remain but when war broke out he decided to remain. He had since discharged the duties of High Commissioner and in addition a great deal of other work. The presence of a member of the government had produced closer co-operation and Sir George would remain until the war was over. Mr. E. M. MacDonald stated that business men were asking for a wider organization of the office in London. Mr. MacDonald spoke of large war orders going to the United States. But for the lack of a business organization in the High Commissioner's office, Canada might have had these orders. It had been said, he proceeded, that certain supplies were to be made in Canada they must be turned out at a price lower than that of other countries. If the proper representations had been made by the High Commissioner, the supplies would have come to Canada.

The prime minister asked for Mr. MacDonald's authority for saying that Canada must underbid other countries to obtain orders. Mr. MacDonald insisted that the prime minister added, to be more Canadians in the office, Canadian business men who had gone over in search of orders had encountered red tape.

The prime minister asked for Mr. MacDonald's authority for saying that Canada must underbid other countries to obtain orders. Mr. MacDonald insisted that the prime minister added, to be more Canadians in the office, Canadian business men who had gone over in search of orders had encountered red tape.

Assured Canada Will Have Preference.

Sir Robert Borden stated that Mr. MacDonald had made a number of assertions that were entirely without warrant. He had taken for granted that no representations had been made to the British government as to the resources of Canada for furnishing war supplies. "He was never more mistaken in his life because from the earliest weeks of the war up till now the government has made representations to the British government and the Allied governments, by letter and by cable on many and many occasions."

The government had also furnished lists of supplies which Canada could furnish and Sir Robert had personally discussed such a list with the imperial government on his visit to London. He had gone also to the International Purchasing Commission representing all the Allied governments and had taken the matter up with them. It was perfectly true that early in the war orders had been sent to the United States that might very well be sent to this country. Sir Robert had made representations in reasonably forcible terms to the British departments on this subject. He would be very much surprised to learn that any department of the British government had said orders would not be placed in Canada unless at a cheaper rate because he had the assurance of the British government that other things being equal they would give a preference to this country. He had obtained a comparative statement which in England, at the present time, was much more favorable than he had anticipated. Sir Robert pointed out that in the beginning of the war there had been a good deal of hurry and confusion in obtaining supplies that were absolutely necessary. The industrial resources of Canada were not as well understood in Great Britain then as they are now. Up to July, orders placed in the United States had amounted to 10,000,000 pounds, and those placed in Canada to 48,000,000 pounds. Sir Robert repeated the promise which had been made to him by the British government and added if the prime minister stated that the government had called the attention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to the desirability of having some organization provided by the association, which would make out the United States manufacturers sent their best men to Great Britain and the Allied governments, but the Canadian manufacturers had not displayed quite the same activity and he believed that there was some ground for believing that last summer a number of them had established an organization known as the Canadian Export Association and two managers of this had been in England for six months, thereby taking action which might with advantage have been taken earlier. He had been told that their work would be attended with some advantage. The Canadian government, Sir Robert stated, had induced the British government and the Allies to establish purchasing agents in this country, the French government having appointed the Hudson Bay Company, whose sphere though at first a little restricted had since been enlarged. The government had also repeatedly pointed out to representatives of the Allied governments in Montreal that supplies could be purchased in this country. "I do not know of any step we might reasonably have taken in the past months to bring the resources of Canada to the notice of the Allies that we have not taken," said Sir Robert.

Mr. J. G. Turritt stated that he had heard that orders for British Columbia timber had been taken through the United States. He had seen this in a newspaper.

The premier replied that a number of such rumors had reached him and upon investigation he found that ninety per cent. of them were unfounded. Sir Wilfrid said he would not find fault with the presence of the member of the government at London under existing conditions. Sir George Perley, however, was charged more with the diplomatic work of the office, and if there had been a wide-awake local man there, more service could have been rendered.

"I do not think any better business man can be found in Canada than Sir George Perley," said the premier. "I know that his time has been taken up more with matters of this kind than with diplomacy."

Mr. MacDonald instanced a large Russian shell order placed in the United States as an evidence of the fact that the War Office and the Allied governments were not properly informed of Canada's industrial resources. He stated the prime minister had practically admitted to the House last April that orders were going to the United States in as much as he stated strong representations were being made to the British government in regard to such orders. Mr. MacDonald doubted whether Sir George Perley were an exceptional business man and in conclusion had again protested against large orders going to the United States, "whose sympathy in regard to the war has become the wonder of the civilized world."

"My honorable friend himself did not know that Canadians could manufacture shells, and if he did know, then he knew more than the manufacturers themselves," said Sir Robert Borden.

The prime minister went on to point out that it was only with the greatest possible difficulty that the Canadian manufacturers had been induced to undertake the making not even of shells, but of shell cases. "There was made with me when I was in England last summer an agreement during the past six months in which the spending department of the British government has not fulfilled that promise but if any is brought to my attention I will bring it to that of the British government."

Sir Robert then gave a statement of issues of different sorts of clothing already made to the Canadian troops, and estimates of the amount required for the next year, and figures of the total purchases of such articles in Canada by the British government to show that not only were the imperial authorities purchasing Canadian clothing requirements in Canada but much of their own as well.

SUGGEST ESTABLISH MODEL FISH MARKET

Supplying Better Fish at Less Cost
sumers Subject of Inquiry Bet
Fisheries Commission — Bet
System from Atlantic Points

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—How to supply better fish at less cost to inland consumers was the subject of an inquiry commenced today by the Marine and Fisheries Commission under the chairmanship of Clarence Jamieson, of Digby. There were present H. A. Britton, of the Maritime Fisheries Corporation of Montreal; F. T. James, of Toronto; D. J. Byrne, president of the Canadian Fisheries Association; and W. Found, superintendent of fisheries. The consensus of opinion of the witnesses was that a better system of transportation from Atlantic points should be inaugurated. It was estimated that under present conditions the rates were not only high but that there was a depreciation of twenty-five per cent. in the weight of the fish when it reached the consumer. Three suggestions were made: First, the inauguration of better car services on carload and through rates with the right to open the cars and take out a portion of the fish.

BOMB SCARE
IN WASHINGTON

Fire in Laundry of Gov't Buildings Accompanied by Explosion, Drives Panic-Stricken Employees Into Street.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Fire in the laundry at the government bureau of printing and engraving this afternoon, accompanied by loud explosions, brought many hundreds of employees into a panic and spread reports of a bomb plot. The flames broke out in a small building, detached from the main structure, in which gasoline is used for cleaning the cloths used for wiping off the ink plates which print currency, stamps and government bonds. Sixty men in the building when the flames sprung up got out safely. The succeeding explosion of gasoline caused much excitement but no damage in the main structure. Two alarms of fire were turned in and the vicinity of the building, which is close to the Washington monument, was shrouded in clouds of dense smoke.

TORTURING SCIATICA

A Severe Sufferer Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Pierce darling, pains—pains like red hot needles being driven through the flesh—in the thigh; perhaps down the legs to the ankles—that's sciatica. None but the victim can realize the torture. But the sufferer need not grow discouraged for there is a cure—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new, rich, red blood, which soothes and strengthens the feeble nerves, and thus frees the sufferer from pain and restores the sufferer to cheerful activity. In proof we give the statement of Mr. Thos. D. Leinster, Wapella, Sask., who says: "I was attacked with sciatica which gradually grew worse until I was confined to my bed; for three months I had to be shifted and turned in my bed as I was utterly unable to help myself. I suffered the greatest torture from the fierce, stabbing pains that accompanied every movement. I consulted several doctors and took drugs and medicines until I was nauseated, and I began to believe I would be a continuous sufferer. Finally I was prevailed upon to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking them for about six weeks I was able to get out of bed. From that on I kept steadily improving until I was free from this terrible and painful malady."

The most stubborn cases of sciatica will yield to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If the treatment is persisted in, these pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Nineteen Years Ago

That He Could Depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to Cure Many of the Common Ills of Life.

Living eighteen miles from a drug store Mr. Carr found it necessary to keep in the house some treatment to regulate the action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

To the habit of keeping these important organs active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, when required, he attributes the good health of his large family.

Here, surely, is evidence of the value of these Pills as a family medicine to protect the members of the family who use it from the common ills so many of which arise from constipation of the bowels and torpid condition of the liver and kidneys.

Mr. James Carr, Maynooth, Ont., writes: "About 19 years ago I received an envelope containing two of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I was doctoring at the time with two doctors, and as they did me no good, I used the Pills, and by the time I had finished one box I was cured of the pain in the back and shoulders."

"We have great confidence in Dr. Chase's Medicine. I have a family of ten children and have never had a doctor in the house for any of them. We live eighteen miles from a drug store and find that these Pills cure nearly all the ordinary ills by regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels. They are all well and sound I attribute to their use and I have recommended them to hundreds and given away many a box because I believe there is no medicine so good."

By watching the action of liver, kidneys and bowels Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cleanse the system of poisons and remove the cause of biliousness, headaches, backache, lumbago, kidney disease and rheumatism. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.
