The new C. P. R. liner Minnedosa, arrived in St. John Saturday morning with a heavy mail, a large number of passengers and quite a cargo. The majority of the passengers were from the western points and were forwarded to their homes by special trains. The passengers report a fairly rough trip across and were glad to pull into the wharf and see their friends in Canada. The C. P. R. liner Minnedosa, which was a number of British brides who are making their first visit to Canada. They were arranged for the married man among the troops to go forward on the special civilian trains so they would not have to be separated from their wives and good time was made in the starting of the men on the last lap of their journey from England to their homes in Canada. The passenger list totaled 1,386, of whom 251 were officers, 647 military men of other ranks, and 488 civilians, wives of soldiers and other passengers coming from England to Canada. The discharging staff under command of Major Smith made record time in getting the men ready for their trains. They were handled in two divisions, the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia men being brought to the discharge depot in King street, where their papers were made out and the other men were looked after and the necessary military papers had been given to them. At the discharge depot the men from Nova Scotia were taken first and they were sent out on the two o'clock train for their homes. The New Brunswick men were sent forward on the 4:10 train. The first train for the west was sent forward at 5:30 on Saturday afternoon, the second at 6:00, the third at 9:30 and the fourth shortly after midnight. The first three trains carried all the civilians, officers and married men of all ranks, and the fourth carried the single men among the troops. The first train consisted of first class sleepers and carried passengers for all points in Canada. The second consisted of sleepers and coaches and carried the passengers for Toronto and Ontario points via Toronto. The third consisted of first and second class coaches and tourist cars and carried passengers for Montreal and the west. The fourth train carried the balance of the military men in number 405. All the men were given two weeks' leave and were to visit their homes before reporting at the discharge depot for their district, and the railway officials issued to each transportation ticket and a letter from there to the district depot. The train consisted of work, as each man was to be given two days' rest, and while it may have delayed their departure a little, the delay will be more than made up on the other end as he is through with his military duties. The conducting staff were: Lieut.-Col. C. B. Schreiber, in charge. Capt. W. M. Trail, adjutant.

CHATHAM EN FETE FOR HIS EXCELLENCY

Governor-General Shown All Over the Town, Met Everybody, and Made Speeches.

Special to The Standard. Chatham, Dec. 15.—His Excellency the Governor-General arrived here early Saturday morning and at once o'clock was taken for a drive about the town in Major Snowball's landau accompanied by a number of the leading citizens in sleighs. The vice-regal party was first taken to the County House where His Excellency made thorough inspection of the building. From there the Grammar School was visited and the town hall, where His Excellency met the women, where the Mayor's address was presented and a reception held. His Excellency's band played as His Excellency approached. The Opera House was filled to overflowing. The children of the public schools, St. Michael's Academy and St. Thomas' College with the Academy orchestra rendered a very pleasing programme of music and song. In reply to the Mayor's address His Excellency said he knew the time was not suitable for visit to this section, but felt that he could not delay in taking part in the joy of the people in the successful termination of the war, and to express his appreciation of the loyalty of the people of Canada to the Mother country. While other monarchs are crumbling to dust the attachment of the British Empire to the Crown now was stronger than ever. He referred to the great work of the women in the war in terms of praise, and said it stood out as one of the most effective remedies for the war, and that he had received in carrying on the war, Canada had played a remarkable part in the successful prosecution of the war, though with its termination the work was not all accomplished. The presentation of the Governor and Lieut.-Governor's medals to Miss Hilda Sewell and Miss Anna Leach and Honor Miss Flossie Chatham, Loveston and Glenelg brought reception to a close. His Excellency was heartily applauded and cheered. After the reception a visit was made to the Light Station and the Hotel New Brunswick. Leaving the hotel the party stopped in front of St. Thomas' College where students and professors were lined up. Here His Excellency alighted and placed a wreath on the monument erected by the College to the memory of its ten fallen students.

ATTENDANT TELLS HOW KAISER FLED

Just Dodged Allied Bombs Before He Left the Country—Festive Seemed to Worry Writer.

The Hague, Dec. 15.—"The flight of the Kaiser," this is the title given to the following description written by the Kaiser's own attendant. "On Tuesday, October 20, at 2:30 p.m., I received from the castle an order to come immediately to the station, and, suspecting something approaching a departure, took the necessary papers for a journey. When I arrived at the station I received a commission to prepare for the personal attendant to start at eleven o'clock that night for Spa in a court train. I arranged provisions for ten days from the castle's vast stores, where enormous treasures of food of every description had been stocked, and had them packed into the court train. On October 20, at 4 p.m., we entered Spa. The Kaiser, with his suite of sixteen gentlemen and 45 servants, continued to reside in the train. "On November 8, the Kaiser undertook a journey to the front, and, according to some delay, had remained ten minutes more, we should have been on our way, for ten minutes after that the Kaiser's train was overtaken by a motor car, and the Kaiser, in a motor car, was taken to a hospital train full of sick and wounded soldiers. "On the return journey we saw six enemy aircraft just above our train, but we were not worried, as they had thrown all their bombs into the sea. "When we returned to Spa at noon of Nov. 4, we were informed that we should leave that evening for Berlin. Our joy was great, but things turned out differently. The Kaiser, who did not comply with the request of the general staff to return to Spa as quickly as possible, as his presence could do much harm to the enemy, took up his quarters at Spa, where he previously had lived. "I had to contend with all sorts of people because the couriers who should have brought news from the Kaiser were coming down, and, in addition, meat, game, vegetables, etc., from Berlin, had not arrived. What was I to do? I told a court official that the Kaiser was coming down, and, in addition, necessary provisions were obtained. This was done to a limited extent. "On Saturday, November 9, at six p.m., we received news that the train of the Kaiser was coming down, and, with all his suite, would remain in the train. What did that mean? We asked ourselves. After some reflection, we arrived at the right conclusion—flight. About ten o'clock, when the Kaiser had left the restaurant car, I was instructed to have a first breakfast ready at 8 o'clock the following morning. The train of the Kaiser and six gentlemen of his suite, and about eight members of his traveling service, was told that a first breakfast must be ready at 8 o'clock of past four. At five o'clock the motor for the further journey (the flight into Holland) was ready. "The Kaiser's Flight. "This happened. The Kaiser left the train at five o'clock in the morning and fled in a motor across the Dutch front. We followed in the train, reaching Eysden at ten o'clock. Scarcely had the train started, and the people in the factory station opposite the train, asking the mocking question whether we wanted to go to Paris, and if so, we must take the opposite direction. "On Monday, the eleventh, at nine o'clock in the morning, we left Eysden for Maarn, via Maastrecht. Our expedition was a complete success. The train passed unharmed by an anti-aircraft ship with people endeavoring to surprise each other in howling, hissing, and shouting, and, at last, at half past one, we reached Maastrecht. We reached the Maast station at three in the afternoon, the Kaiser being received by Lieut. General von der Goltz, whose guest he now was intended. "The Kaiser seems to feel comfortable there, for he rides and tours in his motor car, and is entirely at home, in the gamekeeper told us the only thing that is lacking in the castle's estate is dancing. "Our train was not loaded on a siding, but some gentlemen of the suite remained until four o'clock. We were informed that these gentlemen would reside in the castle's estate, and, in addition, we thought we were tolerably safe. "The Interrupted Feast. "I said to my companions in suffering that we would consume what had been prepared for the war started, because it depicts the ultimate triumph of Britannia, the Britannia whom Britishers have been for generations admonishing in song to 'Rule the Waves.' "These surrender movies will be shown in both programmes in the afternoon and at night. They will be in addition to the usual show which includes a Vitaphone feature, 'The Woe of Princess Pea,' a draw comedy, 'Matt and Jeff,' a draw comedy, 'Santa Claus matinee' at 2 o'clock also the prize contest for 75c worth of imported toys—stuffed toys, machine gun, airplane, machine, miniature car, hockey sticks, dolls, etc., etc.

FIRST PICTURES OF GERMAN SURRENDER

Imperial Fleet Today Show Kaiser's Fleet Handed Over to British—Historic Event.

Simultaneously with New York and Montreal the Imperial Theatre in this city will today and tomorrow show exclusively the first motion picture of the surrender of the German High Seas Fleet to the British Grand Fleet under Admiral Sir David Beatty. This is an historic picture of the first magnitude and was caught by one of the Pathé Freres' expert camera correspondents aboard a British dreadnaught. In this picture, which gives a sweeping view of the whole situation, will be seen the battleships and battle cruisers of the German High Seas Fleet led by the Seydlitz, the Kronprinz, the Prinzess Alice, and other enemy first-class craft. A fleet of replete submarines being conducted into Harwich harbor in hazy weather, and close views of their sullen crews will also be shown. On the whole the official photographs will be intensely interesting, and possibly the most momentous film offering since the war started, because it depicts the ultimate triumph of Britannia, the Britannia whom Britishers have been for generations admonishing in song to 'Rule the Waves.' "These surrender movies will be shown in both programmes in the afternoon and at night. They will be in addition to the usual show which includes a Vitaphone feature, 'The Woe of Princess Pea,' a draw comedy, 'Matt and Jeff,' a draw comedy, 'Santa Claus matinee' at 2 o'clock also the prize contest for 75c worth of imported toys—stuffed toys, machine gun, airplane, machine, miniature car, hockey sticks, dolls, etc., etc.

NEVER FORESAW SUCH A RESULT

German Historian Candidly Reveals Country's Blunders.

London, Dec. 15.—Germany's blunders in the conduct of the war are candidly revealed by Prof. Hans Delbrück, the eminent historian, in an article of remarkable interest in the Potsdam Jahrbuch, which has just been issued. "What mistakes we made," he says, "but had as things were a few months ago I could not abandon hope that our great nation would win and would write from our enemies an armistice that would cover our frontiers. Our hope has deceived us, our pride is broken, greatly underestimated the internal disunion of our strength and the shattering of our once firm political structure. In truth, I never foresaw such a result even in the dark hours of gloomy apprehension which I experienced."

INFLUENZA STARTS AGAIN SO FREDERICTON GOES UNDER

All Schools Closed on the Twentieth—Sunday Schools Closed Yesterday—Theatres and All Places of Amusement on Wednesday Next, While Private Gatherings of All Kinds Are Prohibited—Many Cases of Pneumonia.

Special to The Standard. Fredericton, Dec. 15.—The Fredericton Board of Health at a meeting held Friday night discussed the influenza situation, and decided to re-impose the ban upon public gatherings with the exception of church services. It also was decided to establish a temporary hospital which will be open and ready for use on Wednesday next. On Monday morning the Board of Health decided that the Provincial Normal School, University of New Brunswick, Fredericton Business College and the public schools of the city should be closed after Friday, the 15th, and Sunday schools after Sunday the 16th inst., moving picture theatres and other places of amusement after Wednesday, the 18th inst. Also that private dancing parties, card parties and receptions be prohibited except by special permission of the Board of Health. These regulations will be in effect until further notice is given. Secretary Dobbins states that the situation was taken on account of the reports received from physicians which indicate that there has been a recurrence of the disease, particularly of pneumonia cases. For some time there has been an epidemic of the disease, but on the other hand there is strong public feeling against the imposition of the ban on one ground that it is unnecessary and has resulted from an agitation by a comparatively small section of the population of the city.

NEW ZEALAND HAS CURIOUS POLITICAL SITUATION AHEAD

General election in New Zealand, which has taken place under ordinary circumstances, is widely unpopular.

Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 4.—The general election in New Zealand, which has taken place under ordinary circumstances, is widely unpopular. It is regarded as certain that there is a very little doubt that it could win an election—as a government. And there's the trouble. The Liberal leader, Sir Joseph Ward, is obviously unwilling to go to the country as Mr. Massey's partner, and the reason is plain to see. If an election was held under present circumstances, the important parties in the field would be the followers of the National government, on the one hand, and the Labor party on the other hand. Many of the people who regard the National government with discontent would vote with it, since they would regard the Labor party as the worse of the two evils. But the radical section of the Liberal party would tend to vote with the Labor party. And there is this to be remembered—that in every by-election since the war began, with the exception of one, the National government candidate has been badly beaten. In the one which it did manage to win, it had the sad knowledge that 85 per cent. of its pre-war majority was wiped out, and the Labor party came within an ace of winning it altogether. Four by-elections have taken place—three have been won by the Labor party and the fourth, as above stated, just won by the National candidate and that's all. Altogether the future of the present government in New Zealand seems one which calls for a great deal of study.

HAVE LITTLE RESPECT FOR SOLDIERS' COUNCIL

Regiments Returning to Berlin Snub Stay-at-home Politicians Who Are Trying to Run Things.

Berlin, Dec. 14.—Soldiers of the first army regiment of the guard division, who entered Berlin today administered a direct snub to Herr Molkenbuhr, who is chairman of the workers' section of the workers' council. The soldiers' section of the workers' council, who are trying to run things, had a meeting at the Reichstag today. The assembled soldiers were addressed by General Grosse, former governor of Metz, who closed with a cheer for the Fatherland, in which the troops, led by their officers, Molkenbuhr then mounted the tribune and began reading a speech, whereupon the regiment stationed directly in front of the stand, saluted with arms and started toward the Brandenburg gate with its band playing. Other regiments followed, passing within twenty feet of where Molkenbuhr stood, and then returned to finish his speech. When he brought his address to an end and the square was half empty and his voice was drowned by the sound of marching feet and martial music, with an occasional shout.

MORE CAPITAL FOR CAN. GEAR WORKS

Flourishing Miramichi Industry Has Grown Beyond Its Original Capital.

Newcastle, Dec. 14.—A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held on Monday night, Vice-Pres. John Ferguson in the chair. Joseph Acker, manager of the Canadian Gear Works, Ltd., whose name is being changed to Miramichi Manufacturing Co., asked that the members take more stock in the company, in order to keep it afloat. The business had expanded far beyond the point justified by the small capital invested, and some $15,000 to $16,000 additional capital was needed to install efficient machinery and to economically attend to the growing business. As originally chartered in 1910, when the company bought out H. H. Lamont, they were authorized to issue $24,000 of common stock, and to the $20,000 of preferred was paid up, and 50 per cent. of the common had been handed back to the treasury, the remaining $4,000 of common stock had been distributed among the sixteen preferred stockholders as bonuses. The business had at first employed 10 or 12 men, now 67 drawing nearly $2,000 a week in wages, the yearly payroll being $35,000. The yearly turnover was $100,000.

OLD TIME WAITS.

It is not clearly known whether the term "waits" associated with Christmas, denoted originally musical instruments, a particular kind of music or the persons who played upon special circumstances. At one time the name "waits" was given to minstrels attached to the King's court, whose duty it was to guard the streets at night and proclaim the hour. A regular company of waits was established at Exeter as early as the year 1400, and in relation to the duties and emoluments of such persons in the reign of Edward IV., Rymer says: "A worthy that night from Mychelmas to Shrove Tuesday piped the watches within this court tower byones, in the somere nyghtes tyme; and make the bon gayte at every chamber dore and offes as well for feare of pcheves and pilfers. He sat in the halle with mynstrilles and takeh liverye at night a luffe, and for somere nyghtes if candles pike, a bushel of coles, and for winter nyghtes half a loafe of bread, a galone of ale, if candles pike and a bushel of coles."

Duty Brings Vision.

Tolstoy tells a lovely little story of two pilgrims who set out for Jerusalem. Tolstoy stopped to help a starving family. He bought a fatted calf, and started the great oven fire, and fed the sick, redeemed the mortgage on the house, and bought back the cow, horse, and ass with which the living earned. His money was all gone, and he could not hope to overtake his companion on the road, so he returned home and devoted himself again to daily duty. Yefim would not pass to help anyone. He reached Jerusalem, visited the sacred places, obtained earth from Calvary, water from the Jordan, and blessed annets every kind, but because of the throng he could not reach the Holy Sepulchre. Yet under the lamps themselves where the blessed fire burns before him, he saw a vision of Yefim wearing a halo of shining glory about his head. For Yefim had brought his body to the Holy Land, but Christ himself had come to the end of the world. And he learned that in this world God bids everyone do his duty till death in love and good deeds.

OBITUARY

In loving memory of our dear brother and son, Mr. Martin Profit, who departed this life December 10, 1917. One year has passed and still we miss him. Friends may think the wound too healed, but they little know the sorrow that lies within our hearts. Parents, Brothers and Sisters.

KEPT IT IN SAFE. Sub-Liquor Inspectors Madeline and Garnett visited a garage in Carleton Street this morning at the early hour of 1:30, and calling in a locksmith who opened the safe, found therein seventeen bottles of whiskey. The proprietor of the garage was arrested and taken to Central Station, and will appear before the court today.
