the success of the program. Last year's President, Dick Thompson, saw the need for a new type of program, and proceeded in such a manner as to give athletics a much-needed shot in the arm. He contacted Prof. Andy MacKay of our Law School, and together they devised a scheme with obvious good results, handing over almost complete control to the adminis-tration now headed by Mr. Gowie.

Spirit here at Dal is definitely on the rise, and with the help of our Freshman class, great things are ahead. A lot of new talent, both individually and as a group, will be at the disposal of the stu-dents in the coming years, and I hope it is exploited to the fullest.

If nope it is exploited to the fullest. If anyone has any suggestions regarding the Bookstore in par-ticular, or anything in general, I certainly would appreciate a ny help they could offer. I can usual-ly be found wandering about the old Residence, or the "Arts An-nex" as it is officially called, with a daze in my eyes and a cup of coffee in my hand; and if you just can't wait to help, the Coun-cil office is usually open, and if it's not, there's enough room space between the floor and the bottom of the door through which to fit a note.

Whenever conversation on the campus turns to music, someone is sure to mention the name of Nero Claudius - the man with the golden lyre. No other virtuoso on this difficult instrument has ever come close to the renown achieved by this boy from Antium. In his formative college years, Nero was something of a traditionalist, but at his apex he came very close to what moderns call "Le Jazz Hot". Those of his contemporaries and relations who survived the era he dominated — and they are regrettably few recall that in his final phase he was strangely preoccupied with torch songs. His career reached its peak in Rome in a blazing performance of his famous lyre solo against a trumpet obligato by a group of cats known as the Praetorian Guardsmen. Rome was never the same thereafter. . . . . . . . . . . . . .
