A Local Wholesaler

(Special Cable Journal of Commerch.)
London, July 16—The offerings at the wool auction saise yesterday amounted to 13,239 bales, mostly crossbreds which forms the principle amount of the selection for this series. Everything indicates that the purchases of cross-breds will quite equal last series, and if so the supply will be prefix well cleared up. The demand was brisk, the Home trade being more active on suitable parceis. United States buyers operated heavily on medium fine crossbreds and suitable parceis, the demand from that source being better than on any previous day. The few merinos brought forward were eagerly taken for the continent. Prices held firm and the buying effected a reafly
