CRISES IN LIFE.

In most lives there have been moments of more importance than hours, because they determined the character of the hours. Often single days have been of more importance than whole years, because they settled what the years should be in their character and results. The issues of a life-time, all that is most important, rest upon a few very sharp points in time.

Hundreds of the successful men of London, or any other large city, are what they are to-day, because of what took place in an hour, or a day, or possibly in a single five minutes, away back in their youth; and on the other hand myriads have sailed away into darkness, misfortune and despair, because at one given moment they did not seize the helm of their life, and steer in the right course.

Surely this is a subject of great importance to teachers of youth. They need to consider the power they have, and use it skillfully. The decision of a boy or girl may fix the character of the man or woman, and more than the character—the work, the surroundings, the temporal and the eternal history.

Here is a minister. In boyhood he determined to be a Christian; when he made that decision there was a crisis in his life. All his succeeding years balanced upon that moment and its decision; the shape of his education, after-life and his present, was moulded through it. His determination has settled the determination of many who have come under his influence. A wise, loving teacher, therefore, who can guide a lad in such a crisis to give his heart to God, may unconsciously be the means of the conversion of thousands yet unborn.

We must not forget that sometimes these decisive points in a life-time may be passed unconsciously. One cannot unconsciously decide to be a Christian, but in settling that point he may unconsciously settle, or at least make possible of settlement, a great many other issues of much importance. In thinking about the relation of religion to the future life, it must be remembered that there is a vital and necessary relation between a religious life, and all that is most important to a man in the present life. Conversion, especially in youth, cannot fail to have an important bearing upon the kind of business or work in which a man will engage, the method of doing his business or work, the character of his associates, and to the character of his future home, his influence, the hopes and aspirations by which he is to be led and sustained. He may unconsciously settle all these when he decides the question of personal closure with Christ.

But teachers need to remember that their scholar may unconsciously decide that he will not be a Christian. The surest way of settling many questions is by not meeting them. Not settling is often the most effective kind of settling; indecision is the most positive decision. This should stimulate teachers to urge upon their classes direct, personal, definite consecration to Christ.

Few decide consciously to wait till they are thirty, forty or fifty years of age, before settling the question whether they will be Christians or not, but congregations are crowded with men and women who are of that age, and not Christians. A whole life-time and an eternity beyond, are often settled in the same way. The crises pass, and are not met. They are none the less crises, none the less decisive points, on that account.

When our Lord Jesus uttered His pathetic lamentations over Jerusalem, the people were not conscious that the day of visitation had come and gone.
They unconsciously but surely crossed the line at which it became certain, in the natural order of events, that the Roman army would lay siege to the city, and the horrors of the downfall be perpetrated. There are times when not to decide upon a certain course of action is to decide against it.

Times of unusual thoughtfulness on the part of the individual or community are always crises. They come often in early life. Blessed is the youth whose parent, teacher, friend, is on the alert to help and guide him, for then he may pass that crisis safely, and find in it a fountain that shall send forth a stream that shall bless, sweeten, purify and ennoble all the life here and hereafter.—S. S. Mag.

RUM AND THE MORGUE.

By far the strongest temperance lecture of the season is the statement made by the keeper of the New York morgue that four-fifths of the five thousand bodies that reach the city dead-house every year are sent there by drunkenness! The jolly fellows who make fun of the anti-liquor agitation who they stand at the bars and drink good old whiskey—for of course no other kind is sold to excess—know only the beginnings of what rum can do; but the rough pine boxes filled with what once was clear-headed, bright eyed humanity, are just as directly the work of drink as bar-room fun is.
There may be cities in the world where men can drink spirits without injury to the body and brain, but American cities are not of them. In every country, where everybody, from the millinaire to the day laborer, is being continually impelled to begin more work than he can finish, whatever increases physical or mental excitement is a positive curse. The morgue's occupants do not all come from the lower classes, who drink bad rum; some of honorable stock have been found there too often, for alcohol is as merciless a leveler as death itself.

HOW TO SLEEP.

Baron Reichenbach, who has devoted many years of deep study to the art of bed-making, maintains that you must not always lie on your bed as it is made, under penalty of abridging your life by a great number of years.
If, says the Baron, a mere magnet exercises an influence on sensitive persons, the earth's magnetism must certainly make itself felt on the nervous life of man. Hence, he dwells on the salutary effects on the inhabitants of the Northern Hemisphere lying with our heads to the north, and those of the Southern, with their heads to the south. For travellers with short memories, we may put the rule in general terms: In whatever hemisphere you may be, always sleep with your feet to the equator, and let your body lie "true as a needle to the pole." In giving this rule the Baron has simply told us how to live a hundred years; for the polar direction of the body is, it appears, of the utmost importance for the proper circulation of the blood, and we have Baron Reichenbach's authority for stating that many disturbances in the human organism have been cured by simply placing the bolster at a different point of the compass from that it had occupied before. Let such as have hitherto been in the habit of sleeping with their heads where their feet ought to be, take to heart the example of the late Dr. Fischweiser, Madagascar, who died recently at the age of 100 years, and always attributed his long life to his faithful observance of the pole to pole position of sleeping.
The most unhealthy position, we are told, is when the body lies east and west. Some observers assure us that to sleep in such a posture is tantamount to committing slow suicide, and that diseases are often aggravated by deviations from the polar posture.

ANTI-VACCINATORS.

The wickedness of encouraging the anti-vaccination agitation could not, it is opportunely pointed out by the Globe, be more strikingly proved than by an account it printed of the origin of an outbreak of small pox in Rotherhithe.
"A leading anti-vaccinator," Escott by name, who had none of his children vaccinated, has lost his wife and two children by small pox, and four others have had the disease. Escott borrowed a suit of mourning from a friend, named Angus, to attend his wife's funeral, and returned the clothes without disinfection, with the result that the lender caught small-pox and died. Since then, nearly every house in the neighborhood has been attacked, and sixteen patients have been removed to the hospital.—British Medical Journal.

USEFUL HINTS.

Milk, if put into an earthen can, or even a tin one, will keep sweet for a long time, if well wrapped in a wet cloth.

To keep butter as hard as if on ice, take a new flower-pot, wash it clean, wrap in a wet cloth, and set it over the butter.

If a shirt bosom or any other article has been scorched in ironing, lay it where the bright sun will fall directly upon it. It will take it entirely out.

Many experienced housekeepers, in order to prevent the formation of a crust in a teakettle, keep an oyster shell in it. The shell attracts all stone particles to itself.

Borax is better than soap in cleaning the hands, and it softens the skin.
For washing the hair, cleansing brushes and combs, in extracting dirt from clothes without rubbing, in driving away ants and roaches, it is the housekeeper's friend.

An acre of water may be made more valuable than an acre of the best farming land. Here is an instance in point.
A gentleman in Sonoma County, California, has this year sold $700 worth of carp from a pond covering less than an acre. He has had the fish but two years. If you have a pond of water utilize it; if an undrained slough, make a pond by excavating it.

"Girls," said grandmother to one day, "my grandmother used to tell me, that 'one keep clean is worth half-a dozen make clean.'" This bit of wisdom is a universal truth. No one can appreciate the value of this fact unless she has experienced some of the discomforts produced by a habit of letting dirt accumulate, letting little odd jobs go until chaos itself is represented in many parts of the house.

"Why," pertinently inquires the Vermont Phoenix, "are not premiums offered by agricultural societies for fast walking horses? For all the purposes of a farm, or for general use, a fast walking horse is more to be desired than a fast trotter. A horse that can walk four or five miles in an hour will travel forty or fifty miles in a day without going faster than a walking pace, and nearly as far as an average horse will trot in a day without fatigue. A good suggestion.

INFORMATION.

SUMMER HEAT.—This is the season for Bowel Complaints. Green apples and cucumbers produce them, and Perry Davis' Pain-Killer cures them. To the troubled stomach it comes like a balm; wind is assuaged, and trouble ceases. Every druggist in the land keeps the Pain-Killer, and no father should be without it in his family.

The importance and value of Johnson's Anodyne Linctum to a family cannot be estimated in dollars and cents.
It is both for internal and external use and will prevent and cure diphtheria and all dangerous throat and lung troubles.

A one-cent revenue stamp is about all the value there is to the large packs of horse and cattle powders now sold.
If you want a strictly pure article get Sheridan's. They are immensely valuable.

BRONCHITIS.—Unless arrested, will terminate in consumption. An almost never failing cure for this complaint is found in Allen's Lung Balsam, which can be had of any Druggist, price one dollar per bottle.

A large proportion of children who die early are those whose brain development is unusually large in comparison with the body. Why is this? Simply because the functions of the body are too frail to support the waste going on in the brain consequent upon active intelligence. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is so prepared that it imparts the vital principle directly to the brain, while it assists in developing a vigorous and robust body.

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.—These loathsome ailments, including pimples, sore scalp, etc., arise from impure blood or impaired digestion. A single box of HERRICK'S SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE PILLS has been known to sweep such affections out of the system, root and branch. For sale everywhere.

THE PERUVIAN STYUP is an iron tonic, prepared expressly to supply the blood with its iron element. Being free from alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron constitution. It is an excellent substitute for wine or brandy where a stimulant is needed

SPAVIN CURED.

St. John, N.B., January 6th, 1880

Dear Sirs:
In regard to your favor of a few days ago, I would say: About one year ago a horse owned by me contracted a large Bone Spavin, for the cure of which I tried a number of the liniments and lotions advertised to cure the same, without any effect, and he became very lame. A friend of mine recommended me to try FELLOWS' LEEMING'S ESSENCE.

I acted upon his advice, and now I am happy to say the lameness has ceased and the Spavin disappeared. I now consider him entirely cured, and would cheerfully recommend FELLOWS' LEEING'S ESSENCE as the best remedy in the market for all the lameness that horses are subject to.

Yours truly,
THOMAS FRY.

RINGBONE CURED.

AUGUSTA, ME., March 8th, 1880.

Dear Sirs:
I have had occasion to use FELLOWS' LEEING'S ESSENCE on a horse so lame from a Ringbone that I could not use him. I have been using it about three weeks, and find it does all you claim for it, as the lameness is gone and the enlargement has almost disappeared. I firmly believe a few days more will make an entire cure.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES T. PARKER.
