A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO TEACHERS IN THE PREPARATION OF LESSONS.
"Outline Lessons for Bands of Mercy" are very suitable for the purpose of Sunday School or home teaching. They are simple, clear, and incisive; and the book should be found in every village library, and constantly given as a reward book to elder children.—School Guardian.
"These lessons are quite excellent; we can imagine no more valuable lectures."—G. F. S. Journal, Dec. 1907.

In answer to a memorial signed by leading men in every department of public life in England, the Dean of Westminster has agreed that a memorial of John Bunyan should be placed in the Abbey. Dr. Robinson suggested that a window depicting scenes from the Pilgrim's Progress would be a most suitable form for it to take, and he placed a window in the north aisle at the disposal of the committee for the purpose. His suggestion has been accepted by them. The cost of the window will be about £1,000.

A CLERICAL SUIT
that fits even when not tried on, is good news or out-of-town clergymen—read this from a letter just received.
"I received the suit on Friday last and am pleased to say that though it was never tried on, it is a perfect fit."
Write for samples and instructions or self-measurement.
