A childless home is a cheerless home. The maternal instinct exists in every woman, and when it is un-gratified she is deprived of much of the happiness of life. It often happens that childlessness is due to some cause which can be removed, and often is removed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The vigor and vitality which this remedy imparts to the delicate womanly organs, puts them in a condition of normal health, the lack of which is often the sole obstruction to maternity. Every woman should read Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book containing 1008 pages and 700 illustrations. It is sent entirely free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing and customs. Send 31 onecent stamps for the paper bound volume, or 50 stamps for cloth covered. Address Dr. R. V. HYGIENIC HOUSEWORK AN AID TO PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Going Up and Down Stairs With-Ease and Grace-A Seat at the Ironing Board-Exercise That Rests Nerves and Muscles,

The housekeeper will find that in almost every department of housework labor can be saved advantageously with a little thought given to the "how" of doing things and the strain and weariness resulting from many household duties avoided, says a writer in Good Housekeeping, who proceed to tell something about the metha of securing this result as follows:

Household labor is varied in its quirements and can be made an a to physical culture. Walking and down stairs can be made an executexercise for developing the muscles of the leg from the hip down and givin a good poise to the body if performed in the correct and easiest way. As usually done, with the body throw forward at the hips, the heel of the foot constantly striking, the poise of the body is lost, and a great strain put on the back, tending to incres the nervousness of the housewife. the body is carried well poised. right from the hips, the ball of the fo striking the stair first, the knees ! ing flexible both in ascending and d scending, all the good effects are of tained, and if much stair climbing done there will be a great difference i the feeling of vitality. Ascending stairs rapidly by springing from the ball of one foot to another forms an excellent means of strengthening the ankles and curing a tendency to flat feet.

Household labor involves almost nec

This can at times be remedied, in iron ing for instance, more especially in doing the smaller pieces, by means of a high seat adjusted to the ironing board. This gives one a rest for the lower part of the body. This is a great relief for those who suffer from varicose veins If the ankles are inclined to swell through too much standing, a few seconds' rest lying flat on the back with the feet slightly higher than the head will be found a preventive.

If the house is well aired in the mornng, it will be a great aid to the physical and mental vivacity of the inmates. A full development of the chest is necessary for an adequate inspiration, and with a good store of oxygen the hances of fatigue are lessened. The reathing should start at the waist, the ody expanding all around. In this vay the lungs are filled to the limit of heir capacity, and with an intense exration this can be made an excellent exercise, taken while about household duties that are advantageous to a good position of the chest and when the air

To make housework thoroughly hygienic the clothing must be worn loose and corsets discarded. The action of the body, expanding and contracting in correct breathing, demands this. It gives the woman who cannot quite decide to discard corsets altogether a chance to give her body some freedom from restriction and practice in carrying the body erect without such sup-

a Choleric Client Into the

It seems always to have lain within the power of the distinguished lawyer and humorist. Rufus Choate, to lead a choleric client from ways of anger into the paths of peace. Just before the war a southern gentleman was dining with a friend in one of the best hotels of Boston. He was of French creole extraction, and his name was Delacour, says a writer in Lippincott's Magazine. The waiter was a colored man, and the southerner gave his orders in a very domineering fashion, finding fault freely with what was put before him and the way in which itwas served. Finally the waiter became incensed and told Mr. Delacour to go to a place warm and remote. The latter sprang furiously to his feet and would have shot the offender dead if he had not been restrained by his wiser friend, who said:

"Do you suppose that I am going to "Certainly not. But do it by process

The landlord was first interviewed and the waiter discharged. That was not sufficient to satisfy the wounded feelings of Mr. Delacour. He asked who was the best lawyer in the city and was told it was Rufus Choate. Making his way to his office, he said: "Mr. Choate, I want to engage you in a case. What will your retaining fee be?"

"About $50." The check was made out and handed

JAPANESE REGALIA.

Royal Emblems Without Which the Emperor Could Not Rule. The Japanese royal emblems consist of a copper mirror, symbolic of knowledge; a steel sword, symbolizing courage, and agate jewels, representing mercy. The story of their origin was told thus by a Japanese official: The sun goddess became angry with the earth and withdrew into a cave, plunging everything into darkness. The other deities could not induce her to come out, so began to make a noise as of great rejoicing, which aroused the curiosity of the irate goddess. She finally came to the mouth of the cave to learn the cause of the uproar and was told that they had found a more beautiful goddess than herself. The sun goddess came out then, demanding to see her rival, and the crafty deities held the mirror before her, which drove all her sulkiness away.

The sword was taken by Susenoo, the brother of the sun goddess, from the tail of an eight headed serpent that had been annually devouring a beautiful girl. Susenoo placed eight great tubs of wine in his way and when he was sleeping killed him and took the sword as a trophy. The sword is kept in an apartment near the imperial bedchamber and called the Room of the Sword. The jewels have also a room to themselves, and the mirror is in charge of a priestess. The regalia have the highest significance in the eyes of the people, and it is held that no emperor can possibly rule without the three virtues which they represent. He must, moreover, hold the actual tokens, and in the imperial code it is enjoined that on the death of the sovereign his beir must take possession of them.

The "Rasin" of an Apple. One end of the apple bears, the name of "basin" and contains the remnants of the blossom-sometimes called the eye of the fruit. This part of the apple is deep in some varieties and shallow and open in others. This is the weakest point in the whole apple as concerns the question of the keeping quality of the fruit. If the basin is shallow and the canal to the core firmly closed, there is much less likelihood of the fruit decaying than when it is deep, and the evident opening connects the center of the fruit with the surface.
