YOU CAN'T FIND ONE DYSPEPIC

Who Has Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—No Case of Stomach Trouble Too Far Gone for Them to Cure.
"Yes, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured my Dyspepsia. I was a sufferer for seven years. I could not eat without suffering intense agony. I doctored some but to no avail, and I was given up to die. Five boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me completely. Now I am well and strong."
This story is of a terrible disease easily and completely cured, is told by Mrs. John F. Sellers, of Western Bay, Nfld. It teaches several lessons, the most important of which are that no case of Dyspepsia is too far gone to be beyond the reach of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and that if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure the most extreme cases of Dyspepsia, they will easily dispose of your Indigestion.
The fact remains that you can't find a dyspeptic who has used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, but you can find thousands of healthy, happy people in Canada who have once Dyspepsia but who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mop Fairs.
What is a Mop fair? The Mop fair which has just been celebrated at Stratford-on-Avon has doubtless set many people asking that question. A "Mop," in old provincial English, is a fair where servants are hired. As a matter of fact, in the old days servant hiring was one of the principal incidents at an ordinary, or statute fair. But the servants then engaged were generally only those who had first-rate qualifications; and so, in order to afford those of inferior calibre a "fair" chance of employment, a few days afterwards a second, or "Mop," fair, was held, at which the leavings, or "dregs" (as they were sometimes called), of the regular fair were "mopped up."

THE OXFORD STUDENT

Here is a tip for young men who hope to be Rhodes scholars: "To see an Oxford man walk along the 'High' is to put him down as a man absolutely devoid of further interest in this life. He doesn't walk; he hopes. To get an idea of the proper thing don a tweed suit of the most approved cut, pull a cap down over your eyes, stick your hands in your pockets and sloping your shoulders and giving weakly at the knees move with a long, gliding step, toying in by preference. You will then have attained the dignity of being a 'hot dog.'"

JAPANESE AND GOLF

Horace Hutchinson, the English writer on golf, speculates on what will happen when the Japanese take up the royal and ancient game. If they take up western sport with the speed with which they learned the western arts of war some rare champions should come out of Nippon. When the Japanese begin to apply the principles of jiu jitsu to determining the best way to apply muscular force to a golf ball some long drives may be expected.

A NEW YEAR FORECAST

Mme. de Thebes, the pet Parisian prophetess, who is no Mother Shipton, but a cultured woman of the world and a charming talker and used to be a great friend of Dumas fils, has issued her almanac for 1906. The preface runs: "I called 1904 a drab year, 1905 a scarlet year; 1906 will be a mad and bad year." She does not say whether this will apply to the weather.—Paris Letter to London World.

POWER OF WATER.

The Great Force of a Six inch Stream Can Excite.
Imagine a perpendicular column of water more than one-third of a mile high, twenty-six inches in diameter at the top and twenty-four inches in diameter at the bottom, writes Hamilton Wright in The World Today. These remarkable conditions are complied with, as far as power goes, in the Mill creek plant, which operates under a head of 1,900 feet. This little column of water, which, if liberated, would be just about enough to make a small trout stream, gives a capacity of 5,200 horsepower, or enough power to run a good sized ocean going vessel. As the water strikes the buckets of the water wheel it has a pressure of 850 pounds to the square inch. What this pressure implies is evidenced by the fact that the average locomotive carries steam at a pressure of 100 or 200 pounds to the square inch. Were this stream, as it issues from the nozzle, turned away before it like snow before a jet of steam. Huge bowlders, big as city offices, would tumble into ravines with as little effort as a clover bud is carried before the hydrant stream on a front lawn. Brick walls would crackle like paper, and the biggest skyscrapers crumble before a stream like that of the Mill creek plant.

It takes a powerful waterwheel to withstand the tremendous pressure. At Butte creek, California, a single jet of water six inches in diameter issues from the nozzle at the great velocity of 20,000 feet a minute. It impinges on the buckets of what is said to be the most powerful single water wheel ever built, causing the latter to travel at the rate of ninety-four miles an hour, making 400 revolutions a minute. The six inch stream has a capacity of 12,000 horsepower. The water for operating the plant is conveyed from Butte creek through a ditch and discharged into a regulating reservoir which is 1,500 feet above the power house. Two steel pressure pipe lines thirty inches in diameter conduct the water to the power house.

Labels on Opera Boxes.

One of the duties of the ushers in the Metropolitan Opera House which the ushers of other places of amusement are not called upon to perform is to see that the boxes in the grand tier have the proper names of their lessees affixed to them on the various nights of the week. After every performance the ushers go around from door to door, taking out the names of the lessees for that night and slipping into the brass frame the name of the man or woman who has the box for the next performance. Thus on Sunday and Saturday nights most of these brass frames are without names, for only a few persons who are in the "subscription" class ever hold their boxes on those "off nights."

When a man or woman owns a box on the parterre floor outright, as in the case of the directors of the company, their names are engraved on polished brass plates that are never removed. This enables persons who place importance on such things to announce that they had "Pierpont Morgan's box last night."—New York Press.

The Man Behind the Scenes in Russia

Perhaps the most astonishing fact connected with this astonishing situation is that no one knows who it is who orders the strikes and revolts and directs the revolution throughout Russia as a conductor directs some great orchestra—first calling for strength or fury in one direction, then hushing it down for a time; then again calling for a fresh outburst of energy in some new place, but always controlling and playing at will with each w passion as it is aroused. Not a name has emerged through the tumult. We only know that somewhere in the center of the storm must be a directing brain or brains.—London Spectator.

Movable Pulpits.

The Church of St. Paul's, in Cheltenham, England, at present boasts the only cable road pulpit in the world. There is a recessed channel some fifty feet deep, and when not in use the pulpit stands in the rear, some thirty feet from the edge of the channel. When the service has concluded and the sermon is ready to be preached the pulpit is moved to the front of the channel and waits until the pulpit moves to the front. At the conclusion of the service the pulpit is moved back to the rear, and the cable draws the pulpit to the front.

Japanese and Golf.

Horace Hutchinson, the English writer on golf, speculates on what will happen when the Japanese take up the royal and ancient game. If they take up western sport with the speed with which they learned the western arts of war some rare champions should come out of Nippon. When the Japanese begin to apply the principles of jiu jitsu to determining the best way to apply muscular force to a golf ball some long drives may be expected.

Woman's Trials.

The bitter trail in a woman's life is to be childless. Who can tell how hard the struggle may have been ere she learnt to resign herself to her lonely lot? The absence of this link to bind mortal life together, the absence of this one pledge to mutual affection is a common disappointment. Many unfortunate couples become estranged thereby. Even if they do not drift apart, one may read the whole extent of their disappointment in the eyes of such a childless couple when they rest on the children of others. To them the largest families do not seem too numerous. In other, but rare cases, the childlessness the obstacle to child-bearing is easily removed by the cure of weakness on the part of the woman. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been the means of restoring health and fruitfulness to many a barren woman, to the great joy of the household. It is a purely vegetable preparation, and is entirely free from any of the objectionable ingredients of many of the "Favorite Prescriptions" of the quack. International Bible Lesson for To-morrow.

The Baptism of Jesus.—Mark 1, 1-11.

Golden Text.—"Prepare your hearts unto the Lord and serve Him only."

We have in this lesson our Lord publicly consecrated, ordained and anointed for His ministry by the Holy Spirit. Mark links John's mission and ministry with the Prophecy Isaiah and Malachi, in verses 1, 2 and 3. In verses 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 we are told where John was, what he was doing, what and who he preached about, what he ate, how he was dressed even to his belt, and the wonderful success God gave him in leading men to repent and confess their sins that they might be forgiven; and he baptized great numbers in Jordan—an old-fashioned camp meeting revival. Jesus comes with the crowd, identifying himself with publicans and sinners, for baptism, which John refuses him. Knowing his exalted character he declares he is unworthy to do a slave's duty for him in taking off his sandals; but our Lord will fulfill this outward type of cleansing, so John baptized him. He was 30, the priestly age of consecration. Note how water was used. Levit. 8, 6. Why? He was washed God anointed him with the Holy Spirit and declared in the ears of the people that Jesus was His beloved Son in whom He was well pleased.

Don't waste time in modes of baptism. God never intended we Gentile Christians should be all of one mind as to the externals of religion; no more than He ordained the sun to make all the flowers of the field of one hue; by unknown laws He colors roses and tulips, "consider the lilies how they grow"—else He would have given us as plain directions about ordinances in the New Testament as in the Old.

The main point is, have we repented, confessed and forsaken our sin and come out publicly on the Lord's side? If we receive the Holy Spirit we rejoice in the life and love of God, and don't find fault with others.
