BIJOU THEATRE

How far is character self-formed, and how far is it inherited? In her latest masterpiece Florence Reed, the emotional screen and stage star, plays a dual role.

First she portrays a struggling young artist in the Latin Quarter of Paris, with its Bohemian life and Bohemian love. She falls into an error of conduct through human frailty. Her infant daughter, removed from every surrounding that may have influenced her young mother, is brought up and educated in the luxurious environment of a New York home. Reared and nourished in totally different circumstances from those of her mother, the young girl yet repeats the identical error of her parent.

Florence Reed, who incidentally herself is reported to support many of the theories and beliefs of modern thought, is stated to say that this latest screen offering "Her Code of Honor," is the best photoplay she has ever done. The piece is widely heralded as a story of startling interest and has been much discussed for the interesting question it presents as to the share that heredity plays in the determination of human character.

"Her Code of Honor" will be seen at the Bijou theatre today.

Marie Walcamp in the second episode of "The Red Glove" pleased the large audiences at the Bijou theatre yesterday and Charlie Chaplin, Chester Conklin, Fatty Arbuckle, Mack Swain, Lord Sterling and Mable Normand all help to make "The Musketeer of the Slums" one of the funniest comedies you ever saw.

A meeting of the Great War Next of Kin Association will be held in the G.W.V.A. rooms Thursday at 2.30.

Costs few cents! Drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right off with the fingers.

Why wait? Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your foot of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the much talked-of discovery of the Cincinnati genius.

At the conclusion of the second innings of the visiting team there was a half hour to go before test and the visitors volunteered to give the home players another knock. The knock demonstrated the vagaries of cricket for when stumps were pulled for the day there were 9 wickets down for only 14 runs.

LOCAL CRICKET CLUB

SCORED EASY WIN
