A Fifteen-to-One Chance.

An amusing story is told of a patient in one of our London hospitals in whom the sporting instinct was well developed. His ward was visited, in the usual course, by the surgeon, with a retinue of fifteen students. The surgeon described minutely the nature and extent of the disease from which the patient was suffering then, turning to the first of the students, he asked:

"Now, Mr. Sawyer, would you operate in this case?"

"No, sir, I think nat." One after another the fifteen students acacias and lemon trees. gave the same negative answer to the "Well, gentlemen," said the surgeon.

Living in Hawaii is not without its disadvantages, if a story told in the Family Herald may be believed. The natives have little idea of respectful deference, and insist on calling their employers by their Christian names. One lady, who upon her arrival was at once addressed as Jennie by the men servants, expostulated with her sister for allowing them to become thus familiar. She was assured that every effort had been made to induce them to say Mr. and Mrs., but this they steadily refused to do.

On the summit of the dismantled walls two flag staffs were raised, and detachments of representative troops with the band of the 11th Soudanese Regiment, the drums and fifes of the Grenadier Guards, and the pipes of the Highland regiments, formed up reverently round the historic spot-the gunboat "Melik" being made fast to the quay behind the Residency. In the centre were the Sirdar and his full personal staff, on the right the divisional generals and their staffs, and on the left a detachment of officers and sappers of the Royal Engineers-Gordon's old

The impressive and touching ceremony was brought to a close by the Sirdar calling upon the troops to give three cheers for her Majesty the Queen Empress and the Khedive. The cheers were given with the heartiest good will.

What may be considered as the sad side of the ceremony was then begun. The fifes played the "Dead March," the bagpipes wailed a lament, and the band play ed the hymn "Abide with Me."

When the solemn music ceased, all the general officers stepped forward and congratulated the Sirdar, and half an hou was subsequently spent in visiting the chief historical points of the ruined city, notably the delapidated remains of the steps on which General Gordon was kill-
