sheer enough to listen to the wisdom of other minds."

A great statesman whose knowledge of many subjects and consequent breadth of mind was the wonder of all he met, was introduced to a sheep rancher one day and straightway began to question him about the raising of sheep.

The rancher was astonished at the fund of previous information the questions showed.

A Latin professor happened to be in the group. "He knows just as much about archeology," said this professor. "I think he dines off encyclopedias. Tell us, senator, how you find time to read and study up so many subjects."

The senator laughed. "I don't find time to read much at all," he said, "and when I do I read mostly Congressional records and poetry."

"Well, how DO you do it, then?" persisted the rancher.

"Well," said the senator, "I guess it's just this. All my life I've made it a rule to let the other fellow talk as much as possible. And to make him talk of something he knows about. Every man you meet has some specialties that he knows more about than you do. If, instead of telling him what you know, you get him to talking on one of these specialties, you stand to learn something. I've been doing that for forty years now and I find it works pretty well."

If all of us followed the senator's rule, of course there would be trouble, because everybody would be trying to listen and there would be nobody to talk.

But as long as human nature is what it is, I don't believe there is much danger of such a dire state of affairs.

"Let the other fellow talk and make him talk of something he knows a lot about," is a motto that most of us could follow more closely than we do, to our advantage.

Joseph Emerson that prince of teachers once said, "He who is not willing to be taught by the youngest of his pupils is not fit to be a teacher."

Doubtless the reason Emerson was so great a teacher was that he realized that the youngest of his pupils COULD teach him something.

Wise though you may be, deep thinker and earnest student, every one you meet could teach you something, almost every one, a great deal.

Do you want a broad and splendid education "Without money and without price?"

Then keep silent and listen.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach grow or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix 2 cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pinex is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in vitamin and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of sufferers in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

looked at the bridegroom in a knowing way. He suddenly remembered his duty, made a little jump like a timid trout at a fly, and kissed—not the bride, but the minister!

This amusing story indicates that frequently the very seriousness of the contracting parties contributes to the gaiety, the humor, and the absurd situations occasionally witnessed at the marriage altar. It is little wonder, therefore, that funny things happen when, as is frequently the case, the wedding party regard the proceedings with humorous light-heartedness.

Sir Thomas Whitaker, the well-known temperance pioneer, tells an amusing story about his own wedding. He was then a Lancashire mill hand, was under age, and he had neither a home nor money saved, nor even a decent suit of clothes. Moreover the bride's parents were resolved to prevent the marriage. Nothing daunted, the bridegroom borrowed three pounds, rose very early one Sunday morning, before the inmates of the house were awake, surreptitiously donned his brother's best clothes, walked twelve miles to Stockport with some of his friends, bought a license from the vicar, and was married before half the people of the town had finished breakfast! When the brother awoke and found his clothes gone he was in a sad plight; and the father of the bride was in desperation on missing his daughter, and messages flew in all directions, but too late to prevent the consummation the reckless lovers were bent upon.

Between the prohibition of parents and the appeals of the bride and bridegroom the clergyman sometimes finds himself in an awkward dilemma. On one occasion the friends of the lady came to a clergyman in the East End of London, saying that the marriage would be forbidden at the last moment, and warning him against the bridegroom as a notorious pugilist, who would be likely to resent—professionally—any hesitation on the clergyman's part.

The bridegroom proved to be of middle age, while his projected wife a simple girl—had numbered only fifteen years. So when the agitated wedding party had entered the church the clergyman sent word for the bridegroom to come and see him in the vestry. Keeping a broad table between himself and the suspicious pugilist, the clergyman gave him a "piece of his mind," with considerable warmth, having arranged meanwhile to send the bride away. The man was so surprised at the unexpected collapse of his project that he adopted only a verbal remonstrance, and departed—happily, for the clergyman—with his lists in his pockets.

There is perhaps more tragedy than humor in the experience related by another clergyman. The license had been presented, and the day was fixed, and at half-past two the bridegroom appeared quite alone, young, and evidently a gentleman. He was evidently anxious as three o'clock drew near and no bride appeared.

Suddenly a young woman appeared hurrying up the aisle. Ere she reached the rails, the clock had struck three, and the book was shut.

"You are too late," I said. "I cannot marry you to-day."

"Oh, pray do!" she pleaded.

"But I cannot," I replied. "I shall be liable to punishment. It is your own fault. You must come again earlier to-morrow."

"But they never came again; and I found afterwards that the woman was a maid servant, and had been detained by her mistress against her will, because the mistress rightly felt that the marriage was a very unfitting one."

HERE IS A TALE WITH A MORAL

LITTLE EDITH HARRIS CURED OF DROPSY BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Two doctors said she would die, but to-day she is a healthy, happy girl. —Healthy Kidneys in Children the guarantee of a happy, useful life.

McTegart, Sask., March 15. (Special).—That no child is too young to have Kidney Disease even in its worst form, and that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it in any form has been abundantly proven in the case of little Edith Harris of this place.

In May, 1903, this little girl, then two years old, was so swollen with dropsy that her waist measure was increased from 18 inches to 34 inches. Two doctors said she must die. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her and to-day she is as merry and healthy a child as is to be found in the neighbourhood.

In a recent interview her father says: "Edith is better than ever. She has no return of the dropsy since she was cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. over seven years ago. She goes to school and is healthy. I always keep Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house."

There's a moral for parents in this story. Many a child has grown up to a life of pain and suffering because its kidneys were neglected. A life of health and usefulness is assured if the Kidneys are kept in order with Dodd's Kidney Pills.
