Getting Ready for Contest.

NOVA SCOTIA SCHOONERS BEING PUT IN TRIM.

Advises from Lunenburg and La Have are that vessels entered in the races are being rapidly put in trim for the contest. Lunenburg is all ablaze and the vessels representing that port are expected to arrive at Halifax early next week, according to the Morning Chronicle of Sept. 30.

Bluenose Out For Spin.

Bluenose is already ballasted, and yesterday afternoon had a trial spin out of Lunenburg harbor. She showed her usual pretty turn of speed, and Captain Walters, keen skipper that he is, was pleased with her performance, though he probably will make some further adjustments before he is satisfied that the champion is in her best racing trim. The Bluenose left her wharf at Lunenburg at one-thirty and went out as far as Cross Island, then shaping over towards Rose Bay. Captain Walters tried her on all points of sailing and seemed as pleased as ever with his swift and handsome craft. Mr. Fairwick, Zwicker, of the firm of Zwicker and Company, managing owners of the Bluenose, said at Lunenburg last night that the Bluenose would come to Halifax on Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

"It looks like a first-class race," said Mr. Zwicker. "Not as many boats as last year, but probably more interesting. The two new vessels from Lunenburg will make it exciting for the Bluenose, and then we hear that Captain Conrad has his Canada all spruced up for the contest. Four fast vessels they are."

The "Mystery Ships."

The Mahaska and Margaret K. Smith, the two "mystery ships," as some style them, are being fitted at Lunenburg for the fray. Captain Paddy Mack is reported ill and was unable to supervise the work on the Mahaska yesterday but there are plenty of eager helpers. Captain Frank Whynacht is closely attending to the work of making ready the brand new Margaret K. Smith. These two vessels will procure their ballast at Halifax, and it is said that the Mahaska may arrive here as early as Monday or Tuesday of next week in order to have plenty of time during which to trim her ballast to nicety and then sail over part of the course, so as to feel out the vessel's racing qualities. The two schooners may go out to Lunenburg harbor for a spin to-day. The Margaret K. Smith especially needs a spin for sail-stretching.

Down at La Have, Captain Joe Conrad, as keen on the schooner races as any of them, is having first-class work done on the Canada. A gentleman who was on the Canada yesterday and returned to the City last night said that the long handliner is sleek and shiny from a thorough grooming and La Have and Shelburne expect great things of her this year. The Canada is expected to proceed to-day to Lunenburg, there to haul out on the slip for that freshening of her underbody. Like the new Lunenburg vessels, the Canada will probably defer ballasting until she comes to Halifax. For the benefit of those who have not noted the dates of the various races, the following is republished: Nova Scotia races—October 7th, 9th, United States eliminations races—October 13th, 15th. International races—October 21st, 23rd.

"No Mayflower, No Race," is Boston Slogan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press)—"Boston's waterfront is in a savage mood to-day," says a special despatch to the Tribune from Boston. "The recent action of the trustees of the international fishing schooner race trophy in continuing to bar the schooner Mayflower from the international races has angered fishermen, fish dealers and shipping interests of every sort. Almost to the last man, those who have business at Boston's big fish pier are in accord on the slogan: 'No Mayflower, no race.'"

"That Captain Angus Walters, skipper of the Canadian schooner Bluenose, present holder of the international trophy, is willing to race his schooner against the Mayflower is soothing the critics, but they demand a complete backdown by the trustees. 'Just what action the American race committee, composed mostly of Gloucester men, but with two Boston members, one Provincetown and one Portland member, will take is undecided. The Bostonians declare they will vote to declare the international races off this year because of the action of the Halifax trustees. That the majority of the American committee feel pretty much the same way is rumored about the fish pier, but there are many in Gloucester who claim to know the Gloucester members may still cling to the races."

Queen Mary, LL.D.

CAPTAIN CEREMONY AT ABERDEEN.

Queen Mary visited Aberdeen on Tuesday, Sept. 12, and received the LL.D. degree from the University, after which she visited several local institutions.

Her Majesty caught the University people by surprise, arriving ten minutes before scheduled time. Rounds of cheering from the students greeted Her Majesty as she swept into the quadrangle at Marischal College. On alighting from the car, the Queen remarked with a smile: "We are early, but I will stop." She entered into conversation with one of the students, who saluted as she said: "How do you do?" Many students hustled forward with the press photographers to get snapshots of Her Majesty, who posed for the camera men.

Meanwhile the Chancellor, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, and Principal Sir George and Lady Adam Smith were informed of the Queen's arrival, and they immediately escorted Her Majesty to the special robing room.

A Picturesque Gathering.

There was a large and fashionable audience in the Mitchell Hall to witness the historic ceremony, a feature of which was the singing of "Fells Boreale Lumen" as the Queen entered wearing her train. After a prayer by Professor Cowan, the Chancellor conferred the LL.D. degree on Her Majesty, and Miss Mary Beesland, M.A., B.Sc., woman's president of the Students' Representative Council, presented Her Majesty with a beautiful bouquet of flowers, while Mr. James Hunter, M.A., B.Sc., president of the council, presented a copy of the University roll or service.

Afterwards Her Majesty visited the training class for boys and girls at St. Katherine's Club, and proceeded to Chanorry Lodge for lunch with Principal and Lady Adam Smith. Her Majesty later on paid a visit to Old Machar Cathedral, and afterwards opened the Rowett Institute at Bankhead, where she was presented with a gold souvenir key.

With the Ex-Service Men.

After tea at Chanorry Lodge, Her Majesty visited the Government Industrial Factory at Forefield, where ex-Service men are being trained in various trades, and the Orthopaedic sub-centre, where she inquired of several disabled ex-Service men about their wounds and treatment. Here Her Majesty was presented with a bouquet by a little girl named Mary Queen, daughter of a disabled soldier who is receiving treatment for a withered leg. Seeing an etching of King's College, Aberdeen, by a discharged disabled man, the Queen directed Dr. Middleton Cannon to have another etching sent to Balmoral.

The Queen afterwards motored through dense crowds to the Ruthrieston "Gate" of the city and on to Balmoral.—Glasgow Weekly Herald.

Rift in Oddfellows' Lute Over Language.

There is a schism in the Oddfellows' Grand Lodge, which is meeting in Detroit, because a bill to restore the foreign-language ritual to lodges of foreign-speaking membership was defeated last week. For nearly 70 years, the members had been allowed to use their mother tongue in the lodge, but in 1916 this was repealed and the use of the English language only in all lodge rituals was made compulsory. The present rift is between the 100 per cent. Americans, who desire English only, and the members of foreign birth who desire to speak their mother tongue.

Wisps of Wisdom.

Dream, yes. But, also, wake up! It is better to be straight than smart. Hard times are good times to work hard. The best cure for hard luck is hard work. Acting without thinking is like shooting without aiming. Do not turn your back on troubles; meet them squarely. Press steadily towards achievement. Let others chase fame. No man ever benefited himself permanently by injuring others. Business goes where it is invited, and stays where it is well treated. In the dictionary of determination there is no such word as failure. The world expects each man to do his duty. If he doesn't, both suffer. The man who does his best is a success, whether the world thinks so or not. Real happiness is cheap enough, yet, how dearly we pay for its counterfeit. Following the line of least resistance is what makes rivers and men crooked. Every man should keep a fair-sized cemetery in which to bury the faults of his friends. You may succeed when others do not believe in you, but never when you do not believe in yourself. Carry yourself with a self-confident air, and you will not only inspire others with a belief in your strength, but you will come to believe in yours.

Man and Wife Moulded by Pet Bear.

Hartley F. Upper, barrister, and his wife, of Niagara Falls, were severely injured on September 18th, in an encounter with a pet bear. Mrs. Upper, who is most seriously injured, had her scalp torn completely off. The Uppers drove out on a visit, and Mrs. Upper stayed outside, near where a big pet bear was tethered by a chain. He broke the chain and sprang on Mrs. Upper, mauling her over the body and tearing clothes and flesh to pieces. Hearing her screams, Mr. Upper rushed to her assistance, and the bear turned on him, permitting Mrs. Upper to crawl into the house. Mr. Upper was also badly mauling, and had his leg broken before the bear was shot.

Girl's Remarkable Masquerade.

Mr. John McConnell, alias "The Battling Kid," alias "Whistling Jack," who for eight years has been a gang leader and one of the "toughest" characters in the Quaker City, is no other than Miss Florence Gray (21), the granddaughter of a prominent retired Southern judge (says the Philadelphia correspondent of the Daily Dispatch).

The astonishing disclosure, which has electrified the whole city, followed a punch delivered without warning by Charles Weaver, an unruly member of the gang, which broke the "Battling Kid's" nose. "Whistling Jack" had Weaver arrested. He was tried, found guilty, and about to be sentenced to one year's imprisonment, when he suddenly "sprang" on his gang leader.

The girl, as John McConnell, was the leader of Philadelphia's "Iron Gang," and her adventures for eight years would turn Tom Sawyer pale with anxious admiration. She spent her week-ends in jail. She swam the Delaware River twice, did exhibition boxing, appeared with a woman in a trapeze act, and earned $10 a week during the war as engineer of both a steam and an electric crane in a munition plant.

She could break hearts as well as jaws. Three times she wooed and won the flowers of Philadelphia's East End, only to break the engagement to the pretty girl on each occasion. She was engaged "for keeps" to twenty-one-year-old Lettie Harrison, when the debutante came and shattered her last boyish romance.

Christianity Betrayed.

The wily Turk has once more taken advantage of divided councils among Europe's statesmen, and the Christian people of Asia are more than ever at the mercy of their ancient butchers. Red with the blood of Armenia, the Turk returns in triumph to Europe. Selfish interests among the Great Powers have given him his opening and he has won. The representatives of Britain, France, and Italy decided on September 23 that the Crescent should have full sway over Anatolia and Thrace and the Moslem uses more lord in Adrianople and Constantinople. Thus is Christianity betrayed in the house of its friends and the blood of martyred Armenians shed in vain.—Catholic Register.

King Edward's Faith.

To put your hand in a pot of boiling lead, and to take it out without being any the worse for its perilous bath, seems impossible. This ordeal was performed years ago by Lyon Playfair upon no less a personage than King Edward, then Prince of Wales, and studying under Playfair at Edinburgh.

Playfair, telling the story of Grand Duke, explained that he first made the Prince wash his hands in ammonia to get rid of any grease upon them, and then said: "Now, sir, if you have faith in science, you will plunge your right hand into that cauldron of boiling lead and ladle it out into the cold water which is standing by."

"Are you serious?" asked the Prince.

"Perfectly."

"If you tell me to do it, I will."

"I do tell you," said Playfair, and the Prince immediately ladled out the liquid with perfect impunity.

Beauty Without Grit Without any harm to the teeth

Don't try to whiten teeth with grit that scratches the enamel. That's harmful. Use a soft polishing agent—the Pepsodent agent. Then combat the decay film twice daily in this new, effective way.

That's what millions of people the world over are doing, largely by dental advice. Look about you and see the beautiful teeth that result.

Clouded by film

Teeth are clouded by a film. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. Stains enter it, then the film, it left, forms the basis of dingy coats. That's why teeth lose luster. Film is also the basis of tartar.

Most tooth troubles are now traced to that film. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germes breed by millions in it.

They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Stays on teeth

Under old methods, much of that film remained on teeth. It made teeth cloudy. Night and day it threatened serious damage. That's why so many brushed teeth discolored and decay. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

Now dental science, after long research, has found two film combatants. Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists almost the world over are urging their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on five modern requirements. The name is Pepsodent. These two great film combatants are embodied in it for daily application.

Old ways wrong

Pepsodent also aids Nature in two essential ways. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva.

Ask for the test

We send to every home that asks a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent.

Send the coupon for your family's sake, then watch the delightful effects.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids that cause decay.

Every use of Pepsodent thus gives manifold power to Nature's great tooth-protecting agents. Old-time tooth pastes had the opposite effect. They reduced mouth alkalinity, reduced the starch digestant with every application. That was due to their soap and chalk.

We urge you to see and feel these effects, then judge how much they mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch these delightful effects for a few days and you will always want them. Cut out the coupon now.

Cameras That Discover Stars.

When, as happened recently in the case of Plaskett—that immense star which is 52,560 millions of miles from the earth, and the light of which has taken 10,000 years to reach us—a heavenly body is discovered, it is the result alone that amazes us. Yet sometimes the means such result is achieved are little less wonderful.

In general, stars are discovered by observation, either alone or in combination with deduction. One is seen in the heavens where none others have been noticed before, or some careful watcher detects a peculiarity about a known star, and arrives at the conclusion that it has a mysterious companion.

The most fascinating discovery in these circumstances is that the companion is an enormous body with little brilliancy or none at all. Such a body, causes Angol, in the constellation of Perseus, to be classed as a variable star. Owing to the occasional interposition of a companion, which cuts off part of its light, it waxes and wanes periodically. A similar irregularity led to the discovery of the planet Neptune, the existence of which was established by mathematical analysis before it was known to human sight.

But many heavenly bodies have been discovered by photography. Light has a continuing action on a sensitive plate, which will record it, no matter how faint it may be, if the exposure is long enough. In this way, stars invisible even through the most powerful telescopes are marked on charts of the heavens.
