There, gentlemen and ladies, you have it. If you will call off the series and give scores stand as official and save a great deal of time and trouble for all The dope certainly points to a hard-fought series and (sadly enough for me) another victory for the Athletics. On the theory that we should always root for the best team to win, we ought to be rooting for the Ath-

pulling hard for the Boston Braves. This is because of the natural desire to see a perenniel winner deand the natural sympathy one has for a team that has won by nerve and courage and brains and surmounted great obstacles. It is not that we do not like the Athletics. We do. They are perhaps tinest crowd of gentlemen and athletes in the baseball business.
