

33rd Battalion Men Are Bitterly Aroused At Liner's Sinking

Nothing Since Battalion Organized Has So Stirred Members' Ire As This Last Brutality of Kaiser Wilhelm's Henchmen—Want To Get Away To Wreak Vengeance.

The sinking of the Lusitania has aroused the men of the 33rd Battalion probably more than anything that has yet happened in the war area since they were mobilized, and they are more than ever anxious now to get to the firing line and strike a blow against the Germans. At the camp today the outrage was the one topic of discussion, and officers and men are eagerly awaiting any action the United States may take.

"Acts of this kind will stimulate recruiting more than ever," said Lieut. Col. Wilson to The Advertiser this afternoon. "The sinking of the Lusitania has aroused the whole nation, and the men cannot get into action quick enough to suit them. They will remember this and many other German outrages, and when they get a chance will certainly do everything they can to avenge them. I cannot understand the attitude of the American Government. It has sided with the Kaiser, but this outrage should cause them to take some definite action."

Sergeant Finch, of the Pioneers, who came to London from Chicago to enlist, declared that it is up to the American Government to do something, and do it quick.

"From a military standpoint one can't imagine what the Germans hope to gain by the number of outrages they have perpetrated. What they are doing is to arouse against themselves the enmity of the whole world. When the time comes for making peace they will find that the nations will remember such things as these and that they will pay dearly for them."

NOTABILITIES OF NEW YORK MISSING

A. G. Vanderbilt, Financier, Authors and Playwrights Included in List.

WIVES ACCOMPANY SOME Mrs. Hubbard Was With Husband On Way To Investigate War.

[Canadian Press.] New York, May 8.—Many persons notable in the business or social life of New York City were among those whose names were missing from the list of survivors of the Lusitania made public by the line here, and at Queenstown.

Of those not reported as being saved, Alfred G. Vanderbilt is one of the most widely known. Inheriting the bulk of the estate of his father, estimated at $100,000,000, he is one of the wealthiest men of New York. Mrs. Vanderbilt, at her home here, was trying today to obtain any news that might show that her husband was saved.

Edmund Hubbard, editor of the Philadelphia Aurora, and publisher at East Aurora, N. Y., is known throughout the country as "The Editor." He intended to conduct an investigation into the war, and was accompanied by Mrs. Hubbard.

ELBERT HUBBARD.

Charles Frohman, theatrical manager and producer, whose name had not been included among the survivors, was another passenger. He was accompanied by Justus Miles Forman, playwright and author.

Charles Klein, one of the best-known American playwrights, also accompanied Mr. Frohman.

Among others whose names had not been included in the list of survivors were: Commander J. Foster Stackhouse, U. S. N., retired, who started for Europe in connection with his work for the Belgian relief committee; and Mr. J. C. Hopkins, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding Drydock Company, who was said to have gone aboard on a business trip in connection with shipbuilding.

C. Cheever Hardwick, of East Orange, N. J., of the firm of Burr & Hardwick, importers.

Gerald A. Letts, an importer and dealer in antiques.

Herman A. Myers, head of the feather-importing house of H. E. and S. Myers.

Dr. F. S. Pearson, president of the Pearson Engineering Company, who sailed with his wife for a visit to England. Dr. Pearson was interested largely in Mexican railroads.

Herbert Stuart Stone, elder son of the general manager of the Associated Press, is another American passenger not accounted for. Young Mr. Stone was well known as the one-time head of the book-publishing firm of H. E. & S. Stone & Co., and the founder and editor of the Chap Book and the House Beautiful, two successful magazines.

Dr. McCrear will deal with some problems of the war.

Fancy work, clothes for children and home cooking will also be featured in the sale. Lunch will also be served during the day at the tea booth, which will be in charge of the ladies of the club. Everybody is welcomed and members of the club promise exceptional bargains.

RECRUITING STEADY.—Recruiting is continuing steadily at the fair grounds and it is expected that this week's number will make a new record as well as swelling the total of enlistments in London to over 1,500. Recruits are coming in from all points in the district, many of them being young men who are leaving farms, but many are coming in from surrounding towns where they have been working in stores.

MOTHERS' DAY AT EMPRESS AVENUE.—The Mothers' Day service at Empress Avenue Church tomorrow, May 14, in the morning the pastor will take for his theme "The Mother of the Church." In the evening Mrs. McKenzie will preach. The mothers will have complete charge of this service. OFFICERS INSTALLED.—Sunbeam Juvenile Temple, No. 6, International Order of the Bells, will hold its annual meeting Tuesday evening. The following officers were elected and installed: Past chief templar, Harry Torney; chief templar, Cecil Leppard; vice-templar, Heta Martin; chaplain, Eva Renwick; marshal, Martha Ziepe; secretary, Roy Mosely; treasurer, Arthur Roberts; financial secretary, Isabel Renwick; guard, Myrtle Ziepe; superintendent, Miss Robbins. The meeting closed with prayer at 8:15.

ORNAMENTAL GATES.—Ornamental gates for Thames Park, just south of the Ridout street bridge, will be erected this summer. Residents of the vicinity have asked that the park be beautified, and it is the intention of the park commission to plant a considerable amount of shrubbery there this year. Good progress is being made on the construction of the base-line diamond at the Chelsea Green Park, and while no formal opening is scheduled, it is expected to be ready for use by the middle of next week.

CLEAN STATUES' NOSES.—The little "statues" surrounding the big fountain in Victoria Park have had their noses cleaned. In other words, they have been scraped away and been given a fresh dress. The fountain, which has been an institution of the park since its waters were turned on in 1884, has been a source of endless coats of paint bestowed upon it. This has been mopped, coat after coat, until there was more than a quarter of an inch of paint covering the most of the fountain. This has all been scraped away this year, and the 1915 trimmings were put on "right next the skin."

41 JOIN 33RD IN WEEK.—Sixty-one recruits have joined the 33rd Battalion this week. This makes a new record. It is expected that this number will be surpassed next week. Capt. Pearce is now in charge of the recruiting as Major Rance is working with the regiment on its practical work at Carling's Creek. Up to today 1,457 recruits have joined the 33rd. Recruiting will go on steadily, as there are the vacancies to fill which were created by the recent draft of base company, and the transports to be organized.

ENTERTAIN MEMBERS.—Court Forest Queen, No. 648, Ancient Order of Foresters, has entertained a large number of members and their friends in A. O. F. Hall, Dufferin Block, on Thursday evening. Bro. Hugh McPherson occupied the chair, and gave a short and very interesting address, after which a program of musical numbers was put on. A number of piano selections by Mr. Howard were highly appreciated, especially his work in the chapel chimed, as were quartettes and solo numbers by the Kenwick Male Quartette. Miss Waite and Mr. Burt contributed both vocal and instrumental numbers. Robert Langton's violin solos were of very high order, his rendition of "The Rosary" being exceptionally good.
