

ROYAL DANDELION COFFEE.

Ask Your Grocer For It.

FALSELY TRUE.

"I've often been told that," replied Hugh, with a short laugh. "I was thinking, however, that if you want my candid opinion about the case, I'll give it—though I haven't the least right to have an opinion at all, as you know."

"Never mind; give it," replied Kemp. "I've said before that I believe Miss Fielding will do whatever she is made to do. Very well. Make her marry you."

"But I don't want to marry her against her will!" cried Kemp indignantly.

Hugh made no rejoinder, but again fixed his eyes on the clouds.

"Surely you don't imagine that that is what I want?" persisted the other, still more hotly.

"No," said Hugh, biting his lip. Then he threw another glance at Miss Fielding.

"What I meant was that it probably would be her will as soon as you had made her do it."

"And her will, too, if Felton made her marry him?" asked Kemp breathlessly.

"I've told you what I think," replied Hugh, rather abruptly, and he refused to answer another question on the subject.

At this moment Lord George, thinking that he had made his attentions sufficiently conspicuous, sauntered up to a group of people with Miss Fielding, and gradually detached himself from her.

Kemp was at her side. You haven't spoken to me all day!" he said reproachfully.

Daisy gave him a swift, surprised glance. She had lost her excited manner, and was looking rather depressed; in answer to his remark she only sighed.

"Has Felton been boring you?" Kemp asked daintily.

"A little," she replied in a very low tone.

"I am going to row bow going home," he went on with nervous haste. "Do you care for sitting in the bows of a boat?"

"Yes," she answered indifferently. "I shall be very pleased."

"Let us come and get our seats, then," he said. They walked to the boat in silence.

"Put this coat around you," he went on, handing her a light overcoat as she took her place.

Daisy accepted it in the same mechanical way and laid it on the cushions where she was going to sit. She seemed hardly to notice Kemp; but presently, feeling that there was a book in one of the coatpockets, she drew it out. "Browning!" she said, and began to turn over the leaves at random.

Suddenly she looked up. "Did you underline that?" she asked quickly, pointing to a verse which was thickly scored under.

Kemp glanced over the page and read the lines from "A Pretty Woman."

But for love, why, you would not, Sweet, Though we played you, Paid you, betrayed you, In a mortal— for you could not, Sweet!"

"No, I certainly didn't," he replied. "The book isn't mine—I don't read Browning. It belongs to Mr. Julian. Those must be his sentiments."

"Do you think that could be true of any one?" asked Daisy, not raising her eyes, and speaking in an almost imploring tone.

"I shouldn't like to think it could be," said Kemp, very low.

Daisy fell back upon the cushions, and hardly spoke another word during the homeward journey. She seemed to be intent upon the book, and kept her face hidden behind it all the time.

Afterward, when he was alone, Kemp took up the Browning with the intention of reading the poem through. As he glanced at the page he started violently and grew pale. It had been fair and smooth when she had called him to look at it, but now it was blistered and blotched with tears.

IV.

Three nights later, Kemp and his friend pushed their way into a crowded drawing-room, and, after a seemingly hopeless glance among the throngs of dancers, the latter observed, in his calm, imperturbable way, "There's Miss Fielding, Kemp, by the window."

Kemp looked across. Daisy was standing almost opposite to them, listening to the devoted whisper of Lord George, with whom it was evident that she had been dancing. Even at this distance she looked pale and weary, and the smile on her lips was a very sad one. She looked—unhappy girl—as though she had been crying.

Kemp pushed his way to her side, almost seized her programme as soon as he had greeted her, and began scribbling his initials upon it with feverish impetuosity.

"He may have one for me, mayn't he, Miss Fielding?" said Hugh, glancing over his friend's shoulder.

"Oh, yes!" said Daisy, in rather a strange tone, and, taking the card, she handed it to him.

Their glances did not meet, and the young man wrote his name against only one waltz, then bowed and walked away.

"Do you like my friend Julian?" said Kemp suddenly, wondering why he had never thought of asking her the question before.

"It doesn't much matter whether we like him or not," said the girl. "He doesn't like us." She still spoke strangely and looked unlike herself.

"Oh, that's nonsense!" returned Kemp, more emphatically than politely.

"It may be," said Daisy. "But it's true. Mamma doesn't like him."

She added irrelevantly.

"And you always follow her in your likes and dislikes?" ventured Kemp, not without intention.

"Why shouldn't I?" said Daisy, recklessly, almost defiantly. "Since weak people must submit to some one, what does it matter to whom they submit?"

"Don't speak like that!" exclaimed Kemp entreatingly. "I am sure you don't feel that."

"I do feel it!" cried the child bitterly. "I feel that it doesn't matter what I want, since I haven't will enough to find out a way to get it."

Kemp felt unutterably puzzled and pained at her manner, her words, the strange, despairing sadness of her face. They could not continue the discussion just then, however, so he made no answer. He did not want to dance with any one but her, and when their first dance was over he went and seated himself by Lady Fielding, and presently Daisy's partner brought her back to them.

THE LODGES COLUMN.

Gleanings from Within and Without the Fraternities.

Masonic.

Meetings next week—Wednesday, St. John's Royal Arch Chapter, No. 3; Thursday, St. John's Lodge, No. 209a.

The various city Lodges have again resumed labor, and the prospects for a progressive winter's work were never better. In all of them, harmony prevails; they are at peace, one with the other, and not even the semblance of a cloud has appeared to hinder that fraternity of thought and feeling which should always prevail amongst the brethren. So mote it be!

The District Superintendent of Royal Arch Masonry for London, R. ex-Comp. A. B. Munson, purposes paying St. John's Chapter, No. 3, of this city, an official visit on Wednesday evening next. We feel sure that the high esteem in which the Companion is held by all who know him will ensure him a hearty welcome on the occasion referred to, and more especially from St. John's Chapter members.

The Grand Z. M. Ex-Comp R. B. Hungerford, of this city, recently visited the Chapters in Belleville and Trenton and intends at an early date to visit and inspect the work of the banner Chapter of Ontario—No. 1, of Kingston.

On Thursday evening next, an emergency meeting of St. John's Lodge, No. 209a, will be held, at which W. Bro Davis will confer the Entered Apprentice degree. Immediately following the work, the Grand Chaplain, R. W. Bro Rev Dr Armstrong will deliver his celebrated lecture on "The Moral Aspects of the Order."

The brethren of the other city lodges, also from surrounding lodges, are extended a cordial invitation to be present on the occasion. The lecture is one which should be heard by every craftsman in the jurisdiction. It is calculated to arouse in the breasts of every Mason a feeling that has, in too many cases, been permitted to lie dormant, and to make him think more than ever he has done of the institution with which he is privileged to be connected. In the Grand Chaplain's hands the subject is treated as it has never been before in Canada, and a very large turn out should greet him on Thursday night next.

Right Wor Bro Dr Whitehead, D D G M, of St. Clair District, A F & A M, accompanied by Right Wor Bro Dr Armstrong, D D, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Canada, instituted a lodge at Port Lambton, a few evenings since, which will be known in future as St. Clair Lodge. Brethren from Marine City, St. Clair City, Mooretown, Courtright and Wallaceburg were present in goodly numbers, and a pleasant and enjoyable time was spent. After the business of the evening had terminated the brethren of Port Lambton entertained their visiting friends to a sumptuous repast at the Macdonald House. The new lodge starts out under the most favorable auspices, and the sister lodges will no doubt extend their hearty congratulations to St. Clair Lodge, and wish it a long and successful life.

Stevenson Lodge, A F & A M, No. 218, Toronto, celebrated its twentieth anniversary the other evening. Among those in attendance were D D G M, R W Bro W. Roaf, and P D G M, R W Bro E. T. Malone. The brethren spent a very pleasant evening. There was a very large attendance.

Right Worshipful Bro Whitehead, D D G M, accompanied by Wor Bros T. O. Currie and J. H. Evans, and Bros J. Pool, J. Toohill and Moses Purser, of Stratford, visited St. John's Lodge, No. 81, A F & A M, Mt. Brydges, on Tuesday evening, and were received in a right royal manner. A large number of the brethren of Mt. Brydges and vicinity were present, and the exemplification of the second and third degrees was done in a very satisfactory manner.

R. W. Bro Rev Dr Armstrong, of Moore, the Grand Chaplain, has promised to deliver a lecture to the Brethren of Ionic Lodge, Toronto, on or about the third week in November.

The Hamilton brethren have decided to celebrate the festival of St. John the Evangelist by holding a grand Masonic ball there on Friday evening, Dec. 20, 1889, in the armory of the Thirtieth battalion.

The brethren of Alexandria Lodge, No. 158, Old Springs, have sent a cordial resolution to the widow and family of the late P. M. brother J. W. Ford, of Petrolia, whose death is sincerely mourned by the members.

The Masonic Brethren of Paris entertained some of their Brantford, St. George and Woodstock Brethren at Paris the other night. After the Lodge exercises, during which three candidates were initiated in the mysteries of Masonry, an adjournment was made to Oliver's refreshment rooms, where a most enjoyable time was spent with speeches and songs. Those present from Brantford were—R. W. Bro Rev R. Ashton, V. W. Bro H. B. Rothwell, Bros C. V. Howell, S. C. Passmore, John H. Campbell, Joe J. Inglis, Jr., A. E. Farley, Chas. McK. Nicot and P. Wheelan.

There died during the week, F. J. Bowen, of Hamilton, who at one time belonged to this city, and who was initiated in St. John's Lodge, No. 209a. He removed to Hamilton and affiliated with Strict Observance Lodge, under whose auspices a funeral took place on Tuesday last. Bro Bowen was also an active member of the Independent Foresters.

On Tuesday evening last R. Wor Bro W. G. Duff, D D G M, of Seaford, paid an official visit to Lebanon Forest Lodge, No. 123, A F & A M, Exeter. During the evening two candidates were raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. The work was exemplified by Wor Bro H. Spackman, W. M., for the first candidate, and by R. Wor Bro Duff for the second, both acquitting themselves in a very masterly way. After the business was concluded the lodge was closed and the visiting brethren invited to partake of an oyster supper, which was being prepared at the Commercial House. About thirty of the brethren sat down, and all did ample justice to the delicacies. Bro Spackman opened the toast list by calling on the brethren to drink a toast to Right Worshipful Grand Lodge of Canada, coupling the name of Bro Duff thereto, to which Bro Duff replied in a very suitable manner; after which the following toasts were proposed and replied to:—The Press, Bro W. Saunders; the Agricultural interests, Bro J. W. Treuman; song, Bro J. McLaughlin; Britannia Lodge (Seaford), Bro W. J. Fear; song, Bro Duff; Lebanon Forest Lodge, Bro H. Spackman; Host and Hostess, Bro H. Hawkshaw, the whole concluding by all the brethren singing "God Save the Queen." Among some of the distinguished visitors present, beside Bro Duff, D D G M, of Seaford, we notice Bro W. J. Fear, W. M., of Britannia Lodge, No. 170, Seaford, and Bro J. W. Treuman, P. M., St. James Lodge, No. 73, St. Mary's. The funeral of V. W. Bro John Dale, the deceased postmaster of Thorold, took place on Tuesday under Masonic ceremonies. Mr. Dale was a very active member of the Order.

Sir Daniel Gooch, Bart., M. P., who died in London the other day, was for 27 years chief locomotive engineer to the Great Western Railway, and became Chairman of the Board of Directors of that Company. He was one of the original shareholders of the Great Eastern steamship, and finally became one of her purchasers for the purpose of utilizing her in laying Atlantic cables. He was returned to the House of Commons in 1865 as member for Crickdale, and was created a Baronet in 1866 after the laying of the Atlantic cable. He was a prominent Mason, having been Grand Word-Bearer of England and Provincial Grand Master of Berks and Bucks.

The members of St. Bernard Commandery, K. T. of Chicago, purpose paying a visit to the bandsmen of the 13th Battalion, in Hamilton, next summer, and give an exhibition drill in conjunction with a concert got up by the band. The Chicago Knights will make this summer trip, and bring along with them their wives and a concourse of Masons and friends. There is no doubt the event will be a memorable one, as the occasion will be taken advantage of by the city Masons, and a grand reception given to the visiting brethren and their friends.

At the banquet given by the Local Committee of Washington Knights Templar to the visitors, R. E. Sir K. W. G. Bell, of Winnipeg, responded to the following toast:—"Our Canadian fraters; bound to us by a common lineage, a common language and a common faith."

Oddfellowship.

Chorazin Lodge, No. 190, I O O F, of this city, was visited on Monday night last by about sixty members of Samaritan and Oxford Lodges, of Ingersoll, headed by Grand Marshal Bro R. H. Richards, and by the members of Iderton Lodge, headed by D D G M Bro E. Ironsides. There were also visitors from Woodstock, Hamilton, Petrolia, Thamesford and Guelph. The Noble Grand, Bro D. W. Blackwell, received the visitors in his usual courteous manner, and after the Lodge was closed an adjournment was made to the East End Hall, in the same building, where the visitors were entertained by the city Masons, and a grand reception given to the visiting brethren and their friends.

At the last regular meeting of Frontier Lodge, No. 45, I O O F, Windsor, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—"Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His divine providence to remove from our midst by death the beloved wife of our esteemed brother, Joseph Winter, therefore be it resolved that we most sincerely sympathize with our brother who has been bereft of a loving wife, and we extend to him our heartfelt sympathy in this his time of affliction and sorrow; and be it further resolved that resolutions be sent to our brother, and that they appear on the minutes of this meeting."

Bro J. T. Hornibrook, Grand Patriarch of the I O O F, will pay an official visit to Quinte and Moira Encampments, Belleville, on Tuesday evening next.

Forensic.

A meeting of Court Tecumseh, No. 11, Canadian Order of Foresters, was held in their hall in the city of St. Thomas, on Tuesday evening last, for the purpose of assisting Bro. Edward Towe, of London, High Chief Ranger of the Order, to organize a new Court, to be known as Talbot, in that city. Bro. J. E. Nicholls, D D H C R, of St. Thomas, did the preliminary work of organization, securing 24 names, 18 of whom passed the Medical Board. The following are the names of those who took part:—Bro J. E. Nicholls, D D H C R; Love, Johnstone, Moore, Streaks, Pierce and Ganeish, all P C R's. After the Court was organized the following officers were installed by the High Chief Ranger, assisted by Bro. There has been a division in the ranks of the Ancient Order of Foresters, Court Forest City, of Cleveland. All but about twenty of the membership of No. 250 have withdrawn to enter the American Order of Foresters, which differs from the Ancient Order in being independent of England. The majority who seceded claimed the ownership of the cash and the acts of the Court, but were controverted by the remnant of the old Court, who held to the property on the following section in their constitution:—"No Court within this district shall secede from the Order, disorganize or break up, so long as nine members desire to continue the organization." The old Court had $700 in a bank and the furniture of the Lodge room. The bank has been forbidden to pay the money to the seceding members.

The Independent Foresters of Highgate gave a grand concert on Tuesday night, at which Mr. W. R. Hickey, H. V. C. B., of Bothwell, presided.

The Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters is about to place a number of organizing officers in the various parts of the Northern States. Work has already been begun in New York, and Courts are expected to be organized at once in Watertown and Buffalo. The High Court of Minnesota will be organized by Dr. Oronhyatekha, S. C. R., during the first week in November. The organizing officers at work in that part have secured some of the best business men in St. Paul and Minneapolis. During the months of August and September 1,200 applicants for membership passed the Board. During the past three weeks nine new Courts have been organized—one in California, one in New Brunswick, one in Ontario, one in Michigan, and five in Minnesota.

At the regular meeting of Forest City L O B L, No. 762, Bros F. H. Wright, W. M.; George Loney and J. All the Lodges in the city and vicinity are to be invited, also the Sons of England Society.

The Deputy District Grand Master of the Orange Order in Wellington will hold a Lodge of Instruction in Palmerston on Friday, Nov. 8th.

Rev. Chas. E. Perry, Chaplain to the Orange Grand Lodge, will deliver an address to Orangemen at Palmerston on Nov. 7, the subject being the status of "female weakness" or irregularity, backache or nervous prostration should give it a trial. All druggists.

An Interesting Report.

The Inland Revenue Department has recently issued a bulletin of thirty pages, which is devoted exclusively to the subject of baking powder, and which shows that the majority of the goods on the market are adulterated and unfit for use. Bro. A. McGill, who has had charge of this important work for the Government, says that "imperial baking powder is an excellent powder." A word to the sensible housekeeper should be sufficient.

All genuine World Cigars are wrapped in tissue paper, and we caution cigar dealers to be on their guard against all spurious imitations. Jealous competitors, to mislead the public, have advertised that they control all the paper used for wrapping cigars in the Dominion. We used this wrapper in the United States before coming here, and would ask our competitors to inform the public where they copied the idea from. This trick of our petty rivals conflicts with Darwin's idea of evolution, as some men remain in their primitive state, that of the ape and the monkey. MISERY IN DAKOTA.

Mr. L. C. Carran's Sad Account of the Wretched Condition of the Farmers in That State.

From the Cleveland Leader.

Mr. L. C. Carran has returned from South Dakota, where he went to shoot for a fortnight among the lakes and sloughs in Hughes county. He makes annual pilgrimages for duck and geese to that part of America, and heretofore has shot all the game he wanted. This year, however, the lakes are mere ponds and the sloughs have dried up, leaving depressions in the earth like huge saucers. There has been no rain in Southern Dakota since May, and everything that had wings left for parts unknown, while everything that had legs, save and except man, walked away long since for fresher fields in which to operate. Mr. Carran did not get a bagful of game, but he did get a good idea of the suffering of the farmers in that desolate region.

Crops have been withered by the sun until many farmers have not enough wheat for their own use. Fields that promised well in early spring threshed out four or five bushels to the acre. The corn crop was almost a total failure, and the shriveled cobs can be rubbed to powder in the hand. Mr. Carran says that many farmers are in want for the necessities of life. They have mortgaged their lands and every living thing on them. Their plows, harrows, reapers, and even the guns with which they hunt have been pledged for money with which to purchase food and clothing. The interest demanded from them is oftentimes very high, so that they will be years in paying their debts, if ever, indeed, they are paid. Many people are leaving the country, deserting the homes they worked so hard to get, and the condition of the people from any aspect is wretched almost beyond belief.
