The result of the above race must have been one of the greatest sur-prises of the season in English racing circles. At this date we have no racing circles. At this date we have no means of knowing who all the starters were. If this youngster has beaten Don Juan (the winner of the Cesarewitch), Hackness (the favorite), Barcaldine, Girofle, etc., he must have opened the eyes of the frequenters of Newmarket pretty widely. Ben igo was an Irish colt, and has not attreed much attention since his arrival in England However, as far back as last June a writer in Bell's Life said in his paper that he would not be surprised to see Bendigo do somenot be surprised to see Bendigo do some-thing before the season was out. From the New York Morning Journal. "Aunt" Hannah M. Jackson, colored, died at No. 314 West Fifty-fourth street Wednesday night at the age of 111 years wednesday night at the age of 111 years and 6 months. The most remarkable event in the life of this good and respected old c lored lady was her death. She was not a lady servant nor cook to George Washington, nor even had the pleasure of handing that warrior a cold cup of coffee and a parallar of the warrior at the warride in the She lyzed doughnut at the wayside inn. She a so did not remember seeing General Lafayette, nor did she seed around hot coffee fayette, nor did she send around hot coffee to the gallant fremen battling with the flames of the great fire of 1837. She had not read every chapter in the bible. She did not perform a hard day's work every 24 hours up to the day of her death, and didn't want to walk ten miles daily before breakfast even if she could. But she did live an upright life, and died at the home of the four surviving children of her family of ten.
