The Weekly Monitor.

The Wednesday, August 26th, 1896.

—A few weeks ago we put on record our complaint against the injustice of the present law relating to the levying of taxes on that peculiar kind of property commonly known as income, and tried to illustrate our point by taking as an example the case of a man's investing $3000 in a farm and taking for security a mortgage. Now the principle of taxation which appears to be correct and fair is to levy taxes equally on all real estate in the county, after having ascertained the true value of such real estate. This value may be difficult to arrive at, inasmuch as real estate is worth more in some locations than others, and as assessments are made up in individual wards there is great danger of the assessors of one ward putting a higher value on the real estate lying in their ward than will the assessors of some other ward. This danger of unequal assessments of real estates in the different wards is, however, This danger of unequal assessments of real estates in the different wards is, however, supposed to be remedied by the appointment of a board of revisors, composed of three men, who straighten out the assessment of the whole county, adding to some wards and deducting from others a sufficient percentage of the valuation made by the local assessors to make the whole county assessments relatively fair and accurate. Under this system thirty-two assessors who are familiar with the property in their respective wards are sworn to estimate the real estate at its actual cash value, such value being the amount which in the opinion of the assessors it would realize in cash if offered at auction after reasonable notice. Certainly this work seems to be laid out quite correctly and a fair valuation ought to be arrived at, and it costs this county $500.00 to have it done. But like the cow that gave the good mess of milk and it is a board of the about the complete of the sound the walls laid.

On more than one occasion during the present season the Montrok has referred to the last was the last was thought that the limit had been reached. Since that date, however, Mr. Jesse Hoyt has decided the that the limit had been reached. Since that date, however, Mr. John Ross, the well-known proprietor of the saddlery establishment on Granville street, who recently sold his house to Mr. Edward Marshall, has also commenced the building of another one on the lot purchased some few weeks age from William Chipman, Eq. , which will be pushed along with such rapidity as to enable him to occupy it during the coming winter.

Again, a very pretty cottage of a story land, and it costs the control of the saddlery establishment on Granville some few weeks age from William Chipman, Eq. , which will be pushed along with such rapidity as to enable him to occupy it during the coming winter.

Again, a very pretty cottage of a story land a fair wall and the walls laid. supposed to be remedied by the appointment this county $500.00 to have it done. But like the cow that gave the good mess of milk and then kicked the bucket over, the law, after so commendably obtaining a just valuation of this kind of taxable property next goes to work and provides for the appoint ment of a board of revisors of three men. this county $500.00 to have it done. But ment of a board of revisors of three mer giving them power to change the swore ment made by the thirty-two assessor and remould it to what in their judgment i should be in order to be a correct assessment

Locke, however, who says, "He that judges without informing himself to the utmost that he is capable, cannot acquit himself of judging amiss." They doubtless think of them-selves as Shylock did of Portia and inwardly exclaim, "a Daniel come to judgment! yea, rate costs the county only $100 per year, so we may as well have it even if it does upset sessing the value of personal property is liable to less danger of incorrect valuation, but when it comes to income a difficulty arises and likewise a hardship. This is invisible property and not easy to get a full knowledge of, as it is inaccessible to the assessor, but the grievance in reference to this species of property is that the man who has his property in the form of investments payer no tax on it whatever but merely a tax on the income from it. This is wrong, as all property should be taxed whether in the form of real estate or cash. And we again submit that if the law compelled a man to make a sworn statement of his investments to the local assessors, as is the case in St. John, and then if he were taxed for his principal and not merely his income all would be well. We are sorry the Register cannot see the matter in this light and persists in discussing a matter as foreign to the income tax as the light is to darkness, but that is not our fault. We also claim less injustice would be done if after real estate is assessed an effort were made to find the rightful and real owner, and having found him tax him for his share of the property. Real estate, however, is only one phase of investment and we would have the same law apply to investments of whatever nature. We can see nothing to discuss in this matter with the Register for we are only trying to show up the evil of income taxation and the Register admits the evil so there is nothing on this point at issue between us. The rate of interest on mortgages has nothing to do with income tax, neither has the editorial in the last issue of our esteemed contemporary. an effort were made to find the rightful and last issue of our esteemed contemporary.

-THE last issue of the Royal Gazette con tains the appointment of Edwin Gates, Esq., of Annapolis Royal, to be Sheriff of this county. This is an appointment that has been anticipated for some time and is one which we venture to say will meet with the universal approval of the people of this county. Mr. Gates was the Chief Deputy Sheriff for several years and in that capacity gave good satisfaction, so the new sheriff is not at all new in his business and will doubtless continue to perform his duties in a commendable way.

This office is one of great antiquity in England. When that country was divided into counties in the reign of King Alfred, who ruled from 872 to 901, Sheriffs were appointed, and Lord Coke is authority for the statement that even when the Romans ruled England there were officers of that name. The word is derived from two Saxon words, seyre, shire or county; and reve, keeper, bailiff and remould it to what in their judgment is should be in order to be a correct assessment. Of course these three sapient men have never seen a great many of the farms of this county, know nothing of the soil, the condition of the buildings, the acreage, the quantity or quality of the produce, or the convenience of location. They never visit the various parts of the county, but seem to be imbued with the idea that as the council has given them a work beyond the ordinary power of ordinary men to perform, it has likewise endowed them with supernatural wisdom. "Mortal vision is a grievous bar to perfect judgment," and, perhaps, these revisors can judge better without the aid of their "mortal vision." We think, with Locke, however, who says, "He that judges On Thursday last the energetic company

Pleasant Social Event. A pleasant social gathering took place on Friday night at the cosy homestead of Mr. John Hicks, an esteemed resident living near this town. During the afternoon some thirty or more invited guesta arrived on the premises, when the fascinating game of croquet and other amusements were indulged in by the younger members of the assemblage, the older ones reviewing by gone days in social conversation. At the hour of six o'clock the happy gathering partook of a delicious tea, which was followed by strolls about the beautiful grounds and other pleasant pastimes. Among those present were Mr. Hicks' four sisters and his only brother, Mr. Charles Hicks.

Dominion Atlantic Ry. Excursion Season. The D. A. Rallway Company, as will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, are again commencing their series of Fall Excursions, which for the past two or more years have been much appreciated, affording, as they do, an enjoyable day's outing at an extremely low figure. These excursions have become so popular that the public have been looking forward to their announcement, and it will certainly be admitted that the season has been opened by a delightful, cheap and attractive trip. Sheriffs were formerly chosen by the people but now they are appointed by government, and hold office during good behaviour. Because the office of Sheriff is of high trust and confidence it is meet, says Dalton, that such persons as be chosen thereunto, be men of good sufficiency, and such as may attend to it, lest otherwise the King be much damaged and his people be disinherited and oppressed, and at the present day the most opulent and respectable men in each county fill this office.

We congratulate our new Sheriff heartily on his appointment and trust he may long continue to enjoy his well-deserved honors.
