about double the distance, if Halifax is the port, aud one-fourth at St. John. If the four roads are opened from the River and Lakes to the nearest sea ports in the United States, Halifax and St. John would hardly be able to stand the competition. Indeed the chief parts of the country exporting and importing produce and merchandize, would be effectually cut off by a cheaper convey-ance. Every thing above Montreal, and even a greater part of the Districts of Montreal and Three Rivers would go and come through the United States. There would only remain the the Districts of Montreal and Three Rivers would go and come through the United States. There would only remain the surplus of produce and the consumption of merchandize in this lawer part of the St. Lawrence, to support the proposed railroad when the navigation of the St Lawrence is closed. That the proposed railroad would be beneficial to the localities through which it would pass is beyond a doubt, by inducing settlements and increasing the value of land; but it is as af-fording military conveyances, that it would be chiefly valuable because and increasing the value of land; but it is as affording military conveyances, that it would be chiefly valuable to the Province and the Empire.
If the British Government sets the proper value on these possessions of the Crown and the preservation of its power and trade in the northern parts of this Continent, it is time that it should be fully prepared to maintain them, in peace and in war. A cheaper commercial communication by the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes, in the season of navigation, the command of these Lakes, and a speedier military communication when the mavigation is closed, are indispensable.
