LADY CLARK PRESENTS PRIZES AT THE U.C.C.

P. W. Beatty Wins Governor-General's Trophy for General Efficiency.

Yesterday was prize day at Upper Canada College. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Mortimer Clark, and Lady Clark were in attendance, as were also Premier Whitney and many other dignitaries.

Principal H. W. Auden gave the opening address. He spoke of "The Progress of the School During the Past Year, Both Internal and External." In concluding his remarks he stated:

"I believe then that there is a steadily-increasing belief in broad education and intellectual interests. There is certainly less conscious utilitarianism in educational matters, and the public at large seem inclined to judge subjects of instruction more by their merits and less by their market value. There is less of that spirit of what has been called 'utilitarian hithersness' abroad, and we educationalists have reason, like St. Paul, to 'thank God and take courage.' To my mind the conclusion of the whole matter is this: If we are to do justice to the enormous expansion of the industrial interests of our country, we must educate our future business men on the broadest lines possible. The possibilities of the extension of commercial interests in Canada are almost limitless. Breadth and comprehensiveness are the keynote of it. If we would be true to our heritage every institution for higher education must strive to make the training of our future merchants and manufacturers and financiers broad, all-embracing and comprehensive."

Hon. J. P. Whitney remarked that he had almost angled for an invitation to the University of Toronto, but he believed in education for all purposes, but he emphasized strongly that there were other qualities to be gotten from an educational institution than simply books. Learning and these were: First, a Christian; second, a gentleman, and, third, a scholar.

Archbishop Sweatman spoke from a clerical standpoint. He was pleased to note the increasing attention given to the religious side of learning, and he hoped that the number of students studying this line would keep on increasing.

Hon. Col. Matheson said that annexation would never be necessary so long as Canada turned out such clever men as she had been doing to look after the political interests of Canada, and he hoped that the time would never come when annexation would be required.

Other addresses were made by the following: Sir Mortimer Clark, P. W. Beatty, President Falconer, Prof. Wm. Clark, Prof. Baker, Bishop Reeve, G. R. H. Cockburn, Mayor Coatsworth and Col. Denison.
