are being shipped to the Y.M.C.A. Overseas Headquarters at the rate of 300 ten-gross cases (432,000 boxes) per month

A match is a comfort and convenience which is so commonplace that we do not appreciate it—until we are deprived of it for a while. For sixty-seven years the House of Eddy has been making matches for the Canadian public - more than 70,000,000 matches a day at the present time. And we are proud of the fact that Canadian soldiers overseas still request Eddy's Matches.

When you buy matches you may be assured of satisfaction by seeing that Eddy's name is on the box.

FASHIONS IN SLEEVES

How Scarts Are Used in Producing Sleeve-like Effects in the Latest Gowns

By Madame Francis, Famous C reator of Fashions, New York

Sleeves have become a very definite feature of evening gowns. For a while before the war" we were taken through several degrees of scarcity of material in the bodice of the formal evening dress. As a lost favor to good taste we were allowed a vision of very, very narrow shoulder straps, consisting usually of a few beads. The more conservative element of society decried this fashion, especially on young girls, whose slender—nay, even "skinny"—shoulders seemed barely able to support the shoulder straps.

That style was not pretty and could lay no claim to grace unless the wearer possessed a faultiess modeling of the figure. Even then a slight veiling of the arms and shoulders presented a more attractive picture. There is greater charm in feminine loveliness, which is concealed at least by the suggestion of tulle or other diaphanous fabric.

Extreme Decollete Not Fashlonable.

The edict of the French Government which forbade the wearing of extreme decollete by the women of that courageous country had its immediate effect on American fashlons. Women began to ask for "sleeves." These were supplied either in literal reality or by draderies of this chiffon or net, sometimes plain, sometimes beaded, again showing wonderful metallic embroidery in shades of gold or silver.

The jassing of extreme decollete was quick and sure. Low neck is worn, it is true, at the foremost functions, but even at these it is being modified. I was told by a woman who is the wife of a member of the French high commission that she was quite stunned when she arrived in Washington and found many of the women wearing extreme decollete. No such thing is seen in France, where only a round or square neck in the front of the gown is being permitted. The back and sleeves are always velled with tulle or chiffon.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I have been an Interested reader of your column for a long time and thoroughly enjoy it. I also like "My Soldier Husband," though it seems very complicated at times: I started a letter to you once and inclosed directions for a crocheted bag, as I saw some reader was asking for them, but I lost courage and didn't post it. I am inclosing the directions this time, and also a couple of recipes which someone may like. They are wartime recipes, but there is no law against them being used yet, eh?

Many of the new suit coats will be cut away to show the long peplum blouses of chiffon or georgette crepe, which add an interesting bit of color to the fronts of these suits. The hems of these blouses are usually featured in a six-inch border of chenille or wool embroidery.

Dear Miss Grey.—I wrote your page a month ago, and saw a note in the paper, so I thought I might venture to write again. I wonder why Miss Billy did not write to me? I, like many of the Mail-Box readers, knit for the soldiers, and find it a splendid pastime. As I am from the country, I would like to correspond with some country girl of 16. If she would leave her address with Miss Grey, I will write and get it. With sincere good wishes to everybody.

Why don't "Uncle Josh," "Calamity Ann" and "Mrs. Homebird" write oftener? I suppose they think they don't come under the M. S. A. now.

I see where someone wanted to know if any of the readers would like to knit a sweater. It was "Pollyanna," I think. Readers ought to be glad to get those directions, as the pullovers are easy to make and most of them look so nice. I have made three and "Gypsy's Warning." and also the answer to it.
