

SCORE POLICE METHODS GIVING PRISONERS BAIL

Lessee of Two Hotels Informs Public-Service Commission of Treatment Received—Offered Guaranteed Cheque, But No Facilities to Get Out Were Given—Government Engineer Has Bitter Complaint of Experience in Cells.

Extraordinary allegations against the methods by which the police allowed arrested persons bail, and the supply of food to prisoners in the cells at the various police stations, were made yesterday afternoon before the Ontario Public Service Commission, when F. G. Matheson, an engineer employed by the Dominion government, and F. Budd, proprietor of the Rosedale and Clyde Hotels, testified as to their treatment while under arrest. The argument at some stages of the enquiry were very heated, and Chairman Gregory remarked that the methods adopted by the police were a disgrace.

These proceedings arose out of an invitation issued by the commission to those persons who felt they had grievance against the police regarding their treatment while under arrest.

Mr. Matheson stated that in August 1918, he made a speech denouncing the methods adopted by the police, and in consequence he was asked to go to the city hall, where, without his family or friends, and it was not until the following Tuesday, three days after his arrest, that his daughter was able to approach him.

Witness complained bitterly of his treatment and alleged that seven soldiers, who were under arrest at the same time, had been kept without food and did not get any until he paid for it for them. He claimed that he was arrested after he had gone to the city hall, where the mayor was to see him and it was during this visit that he was called to the office of the chief detective and whisked away to Court street police station. There he was informed that the bail would be $10,000, but no facilities were given him to communicate with friends, and the police, who promised to phone his relatives and solicitor, did not do so.

Dirty Mug of Water.

Regarding food, Mr. Matheson stated that all he had in the station was a dirty mug of water, while the soldiers who were there had nothing since the same day. He emphasized that the treatment meted out to those under arrest, whether for minor or serious charges, was the same today as thirty years ago.

Witness further mentioned that he was sentenced to six months imprisonment for the alleged offence, and had been sent to Burwash, but an appeal was made and the conviction quashed. The government, who employed him, had never taken any action.

Inspector J. McKinney said it was the practice at all police stations to give poor prisoners food, which usually consisted of dry bread and milk, while those prisoners who had money could purchase what they liked. The food given away was charged to the city.

Mr. Budd said he was the lessee of two hotels, and on the night of Nov. 27, he was in the Rosedale Hotel when two men came in, who by some means or other got to his dining room where they found a bottle of whiskey. After some conversation the witness ordered them from the premises but they bundled him outside in the bitter cold and without an overcoat, into an automobile in which he was taken to the police station. He claimed that he was given no opportunity to speak to his wife, who was lying ill in her bedroom, and at the police station was given no chance to get bail, despite the fact that he offered a guaranteed cheque for $6000 and showed also that he owned over 50 real estate properties in the Dominion.

Witness further emphasized that the charges laid against him were false and that that day he was dismissed in the police court in front of a crown counsel, who was present in court, agreed that the case ought never to have been brought. Mr. Budd complained that the charges were treated like a dog since he was not given anything to eat from eleven p.m. until two p.m. the next day, while at the same time they did nothing to help him get in touch with his friends, as he declared.

Under the present system "stool pigeons" could plant a bottle in the lavatory of one hotel and then come back and treat the proprietor.

Wife Offers Securities.

Mrs. Budd, who gave her evidence with some difficulty, said that at midnight on the night in question, she was very sick and, as her husband did not come to bed at the usual time, she crept downstairs, and on going to the hotel part of the house, found her husband had been taken away. She made her way to the Belmont police station where she was informed that he could be released on $4000 cash bail. She did the suggested that all she had was a small amount of cash, but offered to bring her deed box with securities worth far above the bail asked, but not allowed to see her husband, and condition until six o'clock on Sunday morning trying to get friends to bail her husband out.

Constable J. Murray, of No. 5 station, who effected the arrest, said he went with other officers to the Rosedale Hotel where he saw Mr. Budd with a bottle in his hand, and after searching him and a suitcase, conveyed him to the police station, but denied that Mr. Budd had mentioned his wife.

Chairman Gregory—Do you mean to say that you have the power to go to a man's house, and, as in this case, a big taxpayer, throw him into a car, bundle him off to the station, and under the O.T.A. act, make a charge?

The constable—I use my own discretion.

The chairman—Do you mean to say that the city allows you to run around at large arresting who you like? You are the most dangerous man we've met so far, to which the constable admitted that it was his personal view of how the matter should be carried out.

The chairman—Whose instructions have you followed, for if this is a sample of the city administration it is abominable?

Sergeant Follett, station officer, said that he had done all they could for Mr. Budd.

Commissioner Somerville asked if that was the case why did he not accept the securities offered by Mrs. Budd, and he answered that nothing was done to assist the woman.

Evidence was also given regarding the employment of interpreters at the courts, and it was suggested that they be taken under the control of the city.

"Brutality of Officials."

This morning's session was devoted to the evidence and information given by a deputation of G.W.V.A. officials, who urged better consideration for returned men in civil service. Mr. A. E. MacLaurin, who explained delays in passing of national justice accounts and I. A. Rowan, K.C., who complained of "brutal conduct" and ignorance on the part of some subordinate officials of the police departments.

The deputation from the G.W.V.A. who had the commission who referred to the appointment of returned soldiers to the civil service. It consisted of W. E. Turley, provincial secretary, V. Conroy, secretary of the Toronto command, and W. W. Parry, Toronto president.

Mr. Turley suggested that the provincial government should follow the federal government in advertising vacancies by means of posters to be sent to soldier and labor organizations throughout the province.

Mr. Parry said the G.W.V.A. would like to see a more marked preference given to the returned men over civilians. In Ottawa, he said, a returned man who obtained a minimum mark on examination, was chosen for civil service positions ahead of civilians who obtained higher marks. The same rule should be put into operation in Ontario.

One-Man Commission.

The deputation suggested also that a one-man commission, composed of Mr. McCutcheon, was not satisfactory. The commission should be increased to three for the purpose of making appointments, the veterans' representatives of labor, veterans and other interests should "sit in" when appointments were being considered.

The latter part of the morning was given to a hearing of complaints from T. A. Rowan, K.C., who charged that in 1918 a man named Tomsett, who owned three teams, was arrested in an irregular manner. He was thrown into a cell, he alleged, and allowed to see no friends or relatives. When the case finally came to Magistrate Denison, it was dismissed and the police officials censured.

Inspector David McKinney said he did not remember the case. As far as he knew, only in exceptional cases were prisoners refused the privilege of seeing friends.

OAKVILLE RESIDENT DEAD.

The funeral is to take place today of the late James R. Gibson, proprietor of the Gibson House, Oakville, for the past nine years, who died on Wednesday after two weeks' illness. He was born in Toronto 69 years ago, and prior to moving to Oakville was employed with the C.P.R. as a master mechanic. He was a member of the local Masonic lodge. One son and one daughter survive.

SOCIAL SERVICE AS REMEDY FOR UNREST

New Rabbi of Holy Blossom Synagogue Speaks at Empire Club.

Social service, as a remedy for national unrest and unemployment, and as a great factor in breaking down the boundary lines between nations, thus contributing to a removal of the serious problems confronting the world today, was forcefully stated by Dr. Barnett R. Sticker, rabbi of the Holy Blossom Synagogue, in his address at the Empire Club yesterday.

Dr. Sticker, who has earned the undying gratitude of all Jewish peoples in that they were given an opportunity to come from Russia, Poland and the Ukraine to establish a democratic commonwealth in the cradle land, Palestine, stated that the breaking down of the barriers that separated the people, and that they might by service help to elevate the unfortunate.

Social progress, resulted from social service, and dated from the time when man began to live in groups. It meant a setting up of a goal toward which they struggled, they were imbued with the divine spark.

People, Dr. Sticker said, were using up the mental storehouses and intellectual batteries given by those who had built civilization, and the future generations that would be handicapped, but should benefit by turning to the storage batteries conserved. In short, there was not enough being done to conserve the intellectual heritage of the Greeks, Romans, and unless research was carried on, the world would become so practical that the alkali would eat the souls out of their bodies. Only by meeting and discussing ideas, could social progress be furthered by the two opposing forces—capital and labor.

It would not be long, the speaker continued, before every child that came into the world, would have a right to "liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The speaker said that the work of the social service is to conserve the work of the past, and to give it to the future. It is a great task, and it is a task that is being done by the Holy Blossom Synagogue.

CRAWFORD "EXPLAINS" MONCTON INCIDENT

He Says Mob of "Riotous Youths" Contained Few Returned Soldiers.

Lindsay Crawford, national president of the Self-Determination for Ireland League, has telegraphed to Canadian Press Limited, in reference to the recent demonstration against him at Moncton, N.B., that he did not say on that occasion that he was willing, as a British subject, to "kiss the flag." Mr. Crawford says: "I was trying to explain to the mob that I was quite willing to kiss the Canadian flag, but my voice was drowned by noise."

"At all our meetings," says Mr. Crawford's message, "the Canadian flag is in evidence, but it is arrant nonsense to call Canadians Britishers. It is equally ridiculous to label Moncton by describing a riotous mob of irresponsible youths as 'citizens.' Not five per cent of the mob were returned men, and there were 60 returned men at the meeting as supporters of the Self-Determination League."

Mr. Crawford again asserts that the man who put the questions at the Moncton meeting was the "local Orange leader."

RETURNED MEN AS ENGINEERS SCARCE

Education Board Committee Gives Reason for Not Employing Veterans.

Returned soldiers holding the necessary certificate for stationary engine plants are scarce, according to reports made to the property committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon. This was the reason given for not making such appointments exclusively for unemployed returned soldiers.

Past performances of contractors are to be a controlling factor in the acceptance of future tenders. In the case of the new Carlton and Earl Grey schools, Trustee Bell said the delay was a shame and would deprive the city of the use of badly-needed class rooms until February.

Mr. Pearson said that the $3,000 gained by taking the lowest tender would be insignificant compared with a loss of $10,000 involved in the delay. The business administrator was instructed to give two days' notice to speed up the work.

In the event of further delay Mr. Pearson was instructed to dismiss the contractor, including the work done under the direction of his department.

Various tenders, including one from the Vokes Company, were referred to Trustee Bell for a report on the record of the tenders.

Bad Sewer Conditions.

Disgraceful conditions were reported by Trustee Bell to exist, owing to lack of sewer connections with schools, just over the boundary line in York township.

Trustees McClelland and Bell, with W. W. Pearce, were appointed to confer with the board of control on the question of sewer connections.

W. W. Pearce gave figures to establish his claim that the building department under his administration was saving the taxpayers many thousands of dollars. The statement reported that the amount of contracts to November 20, was $183,842.50.

The total cost of draughting, if done by the outside architects, would be $36,761.

The total cost of the architect's department, including such overhead charges as interest on the administration building and other charges, amounted to $18,967, making a balance to the account of the board of education's architect's department of $17,773.

Trustee McClelland, the retiring chairman of the property committee, was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his year's service as presiding member.

ALL SUSPECTS ARE TO BE SEARCHED

Authorities Determined to Stop Illegal Carrying of Firearms.

The attorney-general's department has commenced a war against those who are carrying firearms illegally. The department has issued instructions to provincial police and high constables to be informed of the provisions of the criminal code regarding offensive weapons and given instructions to vigorously enforce them. In the case of Toronto the additional request is made that sporting goods dealers and others be visited by the police to see if they are carrying the law.

The following is the letter sent by the department, signed by Deputy Attorney-General Baryl:

"Under instructions from the attorney-general, I call your attention to the provisions of section 118 of the criminal code, which so far as applicable to the carrying of firearms, are set out in the enclosure. From this you will see that every peace officer may search any person who has reason to believe has on his person any pistol, rifle or gun, or any knife, bowie knife, etc., or has in his possession any revolver, pistol or gun (except a shot gun in the possession of a British subject, who has in his possession before a permit, contrary to the provisions of such sections of the criminal code, and may seize such weapon, which will be forfeited to the crown, to be disposed of as the attorney-general of the province may direct.

"The provisions recently to have been the great indignation of persons illegally carrying weapons, and the attorney-general desires that you will make an earnest, special and particular effort to see that this practice is stopped.

"In order to do this, it will be necessary for you to search all suspected persons, to give them notice before the nearest justice or police magistrate, and after their conviction to forward the forfeited weapons at once to the superintendent of provincial police, to be disposed of as the attorney-general may direct.

"It is urgently requested that you will do your utmost not only to carry out the foregoing instructions, but also to report cases where in your opinion weapons are being carried under a permit without what seems to you to be an adequate reason."

RADIAL PROBE POSTPONED.

The session scheduled for yesterday at Osprede Hall of the Hydro Radials Commission failed to materialize owing to I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for the Drury government, being occupied with the Ambrose Small case. The commission will, however, resume its investigations today.

Tivy, Thomas Fraser, Leslie R. Atkins, James Adams, Wm. D. McConnell, Gordon Verral, John Ambrose. Each had two to five years' service in the army.

WELL-KNOWN TORONTO MAN DIES IN WINNIPEG

Dr. R. H. Henderson of Westmount drive received a telegram from Winnipeg yesterday afternoon announcing the sudden death in that city of his nephew, Newton W. Henderson, formerly of the late J. W. Henderson of the firm of Oslar and Hammond of Toronto. Newton W. Henderson was an inspector with the firm of Oslar, Hammond and Nanton of Winnipeg, and the news of his sudden death came as a surprise to his friends in this city.

CATTL DISORDERLY, INSPECTOR REPEATS

He Takes Issue With Flynn Regarding Behavior of Man Arrested.

"What does Flynn know about this matter, and if so, how does he come to know anything about it outside of the newspaper report?" was the reply Inspector Bond gave to The World last night when asked as to the truth of the statement made by Mr. Flynn yesterday afternoon to The World that the inspector gave him authority to deny the report respecting the case of Percy Cuttl, charged with disorderly conduct.

During the afternoon Mr. Flynn telephoned The World to the effect that he had Inspector Bond's word that Cattl was not in the unemployment parade and that the statement in The World was incorrect. Having this in mind, The World again interviewed Mr. Bond with the reply quoted above.

"Let me say further," continued the inspector, "that the man who gave Cattl the three sandwiches which he could ill afford to give away, was not only a police sergeant but was also a first-class army man, a former sergeant-major who knows army men at sight. This man Cattl was not a returned soldier, and as a matter of fact was with a bunch of hoodlums who were not returned soldiers themselves. It is such men as he and the riff-raff with him who undermine the reputation of ex-service men throughout the country."

Inspector Bond stated further that Cattl was wanted upon a further charge of attempting to defraud.

Cattl came to Toronto from Aurora, and Inspector Bond heard him threaten to smash windows of a Yonge street restaurant. He told the sergeant at the police station that he had eaten a first-class army man, a former sergeant-major who knows army men at sight. This man Cattl was not a returned soldier, and as a matter of fact was with a bunch of hoodlums who were not returned soldiers themselves. It is such men as he and the riff-raff with him who undermine the reputation of ex-service men throughout the country.

ASK RECOGNITION AS RETURNED MEN

Members of Overseas Mechanics' Association Seek to Enlist Sentiment.

The Canadian Overseas Mechanics' Association is endeavoring by the address of communications to prominent men and legislators of the country to enlist sentiment favoring its agitation for recognition of its members by the government as returned men, having the status of C.E.F. members who reached Britain only.

The association points out that the members manufactured English munitions at a time when their production was of supreme importance to the safety of the empire. It further states that financial loss was sustained by the men who answered the munitions call owing to the initial slowness of the increase of wages in England and the refusal of a maintenance allowance to those who removed their families to the old land in order that they might remain in the terms of the conflict. The association requests, therefore, that in addition to the $28.75 "re-employment money" allowed them, they be accorded the following concessions:

1. That the Canadian government recognize overseas mechanics as returned men, so as to eliminate the present discrimination regarding employment.
2. That subsistence allowance of 17s 6d be paid to all overseas mechanics for each period of service during which it was withheld.
3. That the same unemployment benefit be paid to the overseas mechanics as was paid to the British munitions workers on being demobilized.
4. That 30 cents per day of service be awarded overseas mechanics to be used for re-establishment.
5. That overseas mechanics be embraced under the soldiers' land resettlement scheme.
6. That repatriation expenses be refunded to overseas mechanics who were compelled thru ill-health to return or send their families to Canada prior to the signing of the armistice, or to overseas mechanics not previously included in the repatriation scheme.

PORTABLE SCHOOL PERMIT.

The board of education yesterday took out a building permit for a one-story, portable frame school building to be erected at a cost of about $5,000 on the east side of Runnymede road near Howell street, and also one for similar portable to be built on the northeast corner of Gurn's road and McCormack street, at a cost of about $4,000.

MANY MINOR MISHAPS.

St. Michael's Hospital yesterday reported a number of very slight accidents in which fingers were burned or lacerated. There were four such cases up to six o'clock, one of them from a branch of the Bank of Commerce, and three others from plants in different parts of the city.

DECLINE TO SELL LAND FOR ABATTOIR

Property Commissioner Reports Against Disposing of Market Site.

The property commissioner reported to the board of health yesterday against selling any portion of the cattle market property to Jos. Abrams, who desired the land as a site for an abattoir. The city abattoir was not paying at present, and competition next door might make the civic industry still more of a liability.

Ald. Maxwell criticized this attitude. He believed the city should encourage industry, whether it meant competition with the city or not. The chief aim, in any case, should be the securing of cheap employment for the citizens.

The property commissioner's report was filed.

The general death rate, exclusive of still-births, for the month of November, was 21.1 per thousand of population. This is slightly higher than the rate for November, 1919, which was 20.8.

Dr. Hastings, in his report, says: "We have put our stamp of approval on money-out of the public taxation for the care of our indigent sick by subsidizing private hospitals on a per capita basis. Should we continue this method, or substitute for it the more efficient and just method of providing public ward hospital accommodation for those who wish to avail themselves of it?"

Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., thanked the committee for the hearty co-operation they had given him during the year. It had been the smoothest year of his ten years in the city hall.

A resolution was passed, on motion of Ald. Rlak, seconded by Ald. Maxwell, thanking Dr. Hastings, M.O.H., and the chairman of the committee, Ald. Conroy, for their efficient and courteous handling of the works of the committee in the past year.
