

NAMED CURATE FOR ST. LUKE'S

Rev. Cecil Harcourt of Toronto Has Been Appointed

Special Sermons Mark Sunday Services in Saint John Churches

Rev. Cecil Harcourt, of Toronto, has been appointed as curate for St. Luke's church in succession to Rev. W. E. Fuller, who has become curate of Trinity church.

Mr. Harcourt will enter on his new duties here on March 21. He is a B. A. of the University of Toronto, and has the degree L. Th. from Wycliffe College. He saw extensive overseas service as a combatant during the war, enlisting as a private in the cycling corps and obtaining his commission in active service. He was very seriously wounded and has not fully recovered from his war injuries. His poor health has prevented him from taking up full parochial duties up to the present time but during two summers he was in charge of missions in Muskoka. He has been regaining strength most encouragingly in recent months.

His wife is also a native of Toronto, and is a daughter of Bishop Holmes.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Miss Marion Royce, director of Religious Education in the Canadian Churches of Christ, who has conducted a teacher training class in the Douglas avenue Christian church throughout last week, concluded her visit in Saint John yesterday and left for Toronto on the afternoon train. She was heard in a very fine address in the Coburg street church yesterday morning and addressed the Coburg street Sunday school in the afternoon.

Her theme at the morning service was "Worship." She stressed the need for concentration of thought on the being and attributes of God, and said that it was not possible to give true worship if the thoughts of worldly things were permitted to enter the minds, but that thoughts, emotions and will must all be centered on God for true worship.

MET HUMAN NEEDS.

The prayer that Christ taught His Disciples, Miss Royce declared, met all human needs. She urged the people not to be discouraged if their prayers were not answered at once or in the way in which they looked for.

In her address to the Sunday school she spoke of the growth of the Sunday school movement from its very small beginnings, and said that the Sunday school today was making very heavy demands upon the church and upon the teacher. The importance of religious education was being brought more clearly before the people and the Sunday schools were required to be more efficient in their task.

She spoke of the lessons which had been prepared to meet the requirements of the Sunday schools and urged the general use of the lessons.

AT ST. DAVID'S

There was a special service at St. David's church last evening, which was attended by the Young Men's Club and by a number of members from the Y. M. C. A., also by a fairly large congregation.

Rev. Hugh Miller preached a sermon that was full of good advice and information for the young men in attendance. His theme was "The Challenge to Christian Young Men."

There were three special ideas that Mr. Miller presented. The first was to live the Christ life. The object of Christ's ministry was life and He appealed to His followers to live the life which was centered in Him.

The second idea was to confront others with the living Christ. This Jesus did with His disciples. Evangelism with many, the speaker pointed out, has fallen into disrepute because of its nature, but not this kind. George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., once asked John R. Mott, "Are you ever alone with a man that you do not talk with him about Jesus Christ? Think of the young men around us who need Christ; the challenge must come through the Christian young men of today, he declared.

WORLD VISION

World vision and spirit of Jesus was the last feature of this outstanding theme that was presented. Jesus, he said, lived in a small world, a world of limitations and prejudices. These he ignored and destroyed. He gave vision of a wide world kingdom and the spirit of brotherhood.

The choir rendered some fine forms of music that were greatly appreciated, such as "Lord of All Power and Might," "Thine Forever, God of Love," a mixed quartette, and "The Lord Is My Shepherd," which was rendered by the choir and by a quart.

During the coming three Sundays there will be special evening services in St. David's church, such as "The Cross as a Test of Character" and "The Magnetism of the Cross."

NEW PASTOR HEARD

Rev. W. L. Newton, M.A., B.D., minister-elect of Knox church, preached a forceful sermon in St. Columba Presbyterian church yesterday morning and conveyed greetings sent by Rev. Dr. Grant, of Toronto, to St. Columba and other continuing churches.

The message was that there was an enthusiasm in the Continuing Presbyterian church which had not prevailed for over 50 years, and that the financial situation was more than satisfactory.

Dr. Grant had said that the outlying churches need not fear either for lack of sympathy or lack of finance. He found that the trend was for many who had been induced to leave their churches to return again. He called on all Continuing Presbyterians to stand together in fellowship and confidence.

The choir of St. Columba Presbyterian church sang an anthem and Miss Viola Leggett was the organist. Mr. Newton conducted the service in St. Matthew's church in the evening and his able address was heard with appreciation by a large congregation.

AT ST. ANDREW'S

Rev. J. S. Bonnell delivered a powerful discourse in St. Andrew's church last evening on "The Men who Crucified Christ." In spite of inclement weather a large congregation was present. The sermon was the first of a series on the subject. Last evening the preacher discussed Judas Iscariot, the betrayer, and warned his hearers of the danger of betraying others into sin or crushing the higher things out of their own lives.

Mr. Bonnell pointed out that Judas was a man of passions like the average people of today. He did not join the band of disciples with the intention of playing traitor, but entered a popular religious movement in the hope of receiving merits and rewards. He described in graphic words the betrayal of Christ and Judas' subsequent remorse which cost him thirty pieces of silver from him and rushed out to hurl himself into eternal night.

AT CENTENARY

In Centenary church last night, Rev. R. G. Fulton began a series of five sermons on the life of Christ, using beautifully colored lantern slides from the pictures of Tissot to illustrate the address.

The series will be continued throughout the remaining Sunday evenings of Lent and will conclude on Easter Sunday when the story of the Resurrection will be told and the last group of pictures will be shown.

Last night Mr. Fulton's narrative dealt with the life of Christ from the Annunciation to the death of John the Baptist. There was a large congregation. The choir rendered special music.

Pin, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Werner, who chaperoned the party; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas White, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Rev. Dr. J. A. Morison Speaks of Example of Trust Fund in Chicago

In his series of Sunday morning sermons on the Great Women of the Gospel Pages Rev. Dr. J. A. Morison of St. Matthew's church spoke of Joanna, who was healed of her infirmity by the Great Physician. This led to a discussion of the subject of "Sickness As a Means of Grace."

Joanna's sickness was the means of her conversion and that her conversion was real was evidenced by the facts that she became a devoted follower of the Master and that she contributed largely of her means for the advancement of His cause.

The story of how God might use sickness as a means for the bringing of the soul to Himself, Dr. Morison observed, was beautifully set forth in Tennyson's immortal poem "The Queen of the May."

In the last stanza very beautifully did the Queen of the May express her gratitude to the Priest of God who had ministered spiritually to her needs as for months she lay on her bed of sickness.

"And that good man, the clergyman, has told me words of Peace. Oh, blessings on his kindly voice and on his silver hair And blessings on his whole long life until he needs me there; Oh, blessings on his kindly heart and on his silver head. A thousand times I bless him as he knelt beside my bed. He taught me all the mercy for he showed me all the sin. Now, though my sinning is lighted late, there's One who will let me in."

Dr. Morison suggested that the people of God ought to remember the
