SEQUEL TO STRIKE OF BOSTON POLICE

The Strikers of Five Years
Ago are Now Widely Scattered.

Boston, Oct. 21.—The Boston police force marched on Columbus Day, five years after the reorganization that followed the police strike, raising the question what had become of those who quit the force at that time. In the crowd that watched the parade were former members of the striking police who answered the inquiry.

The little men who turned in their badges and clubs on the night of Sept. 9, 1919, are now scattered from coast to coast doing work of almost every kind. There are more present policemen among them, however, whether in California or in New England, than are at any other work, notwithstanding regulations in some places against their employment.

Some 200-odd members of the old force have done no regular work since they went out, one officer of the Boston Social Club, the striking policemen's organization said. "In New Hampshire, in Maine, and in New York especially, the strikers found work at their old police duties. Some are chiefs."

One city in New England was said to have a force consisting entirely of former strikers, with one of their number as chief. Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago forces include one or more of the Boston patrolmen of five years ago.

The produce trades in Greater Boston supplied a field that has given a living to many. Banks in this city and elsewhere have employed others as special officers. Some are working as watchmen or guards, and a few are members of private detective forces.

There are painters, carpenters, bricklayers, butchers, seamen, a lawyer or two, shipping clerks, waiters, motor-men, longshoremen, chauffeurs and garage employees among the active or associate members of the club. The club has about 800 active members, it was said, and is still paying monthly dues to members in need.

The president, Michael A. Lynch, resigned two weeks ago. Thomas Mahoney, vice-president, has since been acting head.

Ask Churches To Help Fight Drugs.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(United Press)—Eminent support of churches and church organizations for the American plan for world-wide suppression of the "drug-civil" before the International Opium Conference in Geneva in November is sought by the Federal Council of Churches.

The council calls upon Christian America to support, by thousands of resolutions, the famous "American policy" calling for total eradication of opium plants except to meet medical and scientific needs. The petitions will be presented to the world conference by Bishop Charles H. Brent, one of the three American delegates appointed by President Coolidge.

The International Opium Conference was summoned by the League of Nations, chiefly through the efforts of Stephen G. Porter, then congressman from the American people.

Here's her story—"When a young girl I was knocked down by a horse and trap in London, England. I was kicked in my side and head. In later years I always had a cramped feeling in my left side if I sat too long. Five days out of seven I was never well. I underwent an operation and my doctor told me that my bottom rib was growing up over the other and caused my back to be one mass of inflammation and lumbago. He also said that my kidneys were affected. Even sweeping gave me pain. My operation took place in Brazil, South America. After my operation I had a nervous breakdown with insomnia. One time I didn't sleep for three months day or night. My doctor advised me to go home to England for a change. I stayed in England only a short time, but couldn't sleep, then came to Canada. I have been here two and a half years and have been laid up now and again. I have also been a great sufferer from ulcers in the mouth due to stomach and my food has given me trouble. One night my husband brought home a bottle of Carnol and I still

AN EXPENDITURE OF $1,728,703,000

This Amount Paid Out Last Year by Class 1 Railways in States.

Washington, Oct. 22.—(United Press)—Class one railroads of the United States spent $1,728,703,000 for fuel, materials and supplies in 1923, according to reports of the carriers to the Bureau of Railway Economics.

This total shows that the railroads rank among the best customers of the nation's industry.

"Most of this," said American Railway Association President Ashton, "went into the operation and maintenance of railroads and only a small part went into capital expenditures for equipment and additional facilities for which in 1923 there was actually paid $1,089,000,000, a large part of that sum being for contracts which included both labor and materials."

Of the reported amount, $617,000,000 was expended for fuel, or about one-third of the total expenditure. More than 28 per cent. of the total amount of bituminous coal produced in the United States in 1923 was purchased by the railroads at a cost of $919,000,000, while they also bought 5.2 of the anthracite production for $18,198,000. Fuel oil costing $78,867,000 was about one-ninth of the 1923 production in the United States. Other kinds of fuel to the value of $4,731,000 was purchased.

Six billion board feet of lumber, valued at $282,511,000, was used by the class one railroads in 1923, or 12 per cent. of the total estimated production of 40,000,000,000 board feet. As pointed out, this does not include the large amount of lumber bought by contractors for railway construction.

Steel rails, iron castings, structural iron and steel and many other articles of these materials needed in railway operation were used to a value of $464,000,000.
