FUNNY LOOKING THING, ISN'T IT?

The new Oehmichen-Peugeot helicopter No. 2, designed and piloted by E. Oehmichen, is reported to have been very successful in flights in France. The pilot did not attempt to get altitude, but confined his flying to from 10 to 15 feet from the ground. That he was able to stay aloft at even that altitude is considered a big step forward in aviation.

Death of Archdeacon Raymond Recalls Gallant Efforts of Those Who Gave Fearless Service

The death of Ven. Archdeacon W. O. Raymond, D.D., in Toronto last week, has recalled his heroic work among the sufferers in the St. John smallpox epidemic of 22 years ago. In December, 1901, and January, 1902, an epidemic of smallpox struck St. John having already attacked many centres along the Eastern coasts to the United States and Canada. Boston, Montreal, Halifax and St. John were all afflicted at the same time. In St. John the dread disease was introduced by a sailor who was suffering from it when he landed at this port. In all there were 99 cases of smallpox in St. John and 22 deaths during the outbreak.

Of the work of Archdeacon Raymond in the epidemic the St. John Globe of that date had the following account: "Rev. W. O. Raymond has been more than a month engaged in a noble work among the smallpox infected houses and for two weeks and over has been practically isolated. He and Rev. Howard Roach in working together have officiated at the death-bed of infected graves of nearly all the victims of the dread disease, observing the strict orders of the Board of Health afterwards. Talking with a Globe reporter, the philanthropic rector of St. Mary's said the time had been replete with harrowing incidents and most pathetic occurrences, known only to those in immediate touch with the infected and quarantined houses. Speaking of the nurses Mr. Raymond said their work was heroic. None shirked the most dangerous duties, it being a common sight to see a child in the worst stages of the disease being lifted and carried in the arms of these brave young women."

In Thick of Disease. Another newspaper interview with Archdeacon Raymond at that time quoted him as saying: "While I have only entered six of the quarantined houses I have been very busy in other ways, carrying things to the houses, writing letters, talking through wire doors and back doors, looking after those who have been released from quarantine, in fact, although for the sake of my family I have tried to avoid actual contact with the epidemic with the sick window of one man only a rod away from the church door and the epidemic hospital only a stone's throw away on the other side. We kept the flag flying all through however and never missed a service. Sunday or weekday. But I will have been absent myself four Sundays and Christmas Day besides." The services in St. Mary's church in that period were conducted by Rev. J. A. Richardson, now Bishop of the diocese and Rev. Mr. Craig who were rector and curate of Trinity church.

In one of Archdeacon Raymond's scrap books in the Public Library there is the original order given by the Board of Health giving authority for his entry to the hospitals and to houses where there was infection. It can be imagined that such orders were not eagerly sought by the great majority of citizens.

Rev. Mr. Roach.

Archdeacon Raymond's co-worker, Rev. Howard Roach, devoted himself to the care of the stricken. He separated himself from his people and went to live in the Marsh Bridge Mission house in Haymarket Square, giving all his time to the work among the epidemic sufferers. The very great strain which he put upon himself in that period undermined his health and he died two years later. At the time of the epidemic Mr. Roach was the pastor of the Tabernacle church and in November 1903 he became the pastor of the Main street pastorate. He had fulfilled the duties of the Main street pastorate for only one year when death came. In a very true sense he gave his life for others and he died a comparatively young man.

The first victims of the epidemic were cared for in the epidemic hospital as was then the custom, but the Board of Health, was quick to grasp the seriousness of the situation and the need for removing the sick from the city. The present isolation hospital was purchased and the sick removed there. Dr. Thomas Morris cared for the patients in the new isolation hospital. Dr. W. L. Ellis had charge of the patients in the city.

The Freeman of Jan. 11, 1902, says: "The young physicians who voluntarily offered their services in attempting to allay the malady deserves the greatest credit in the world. Dr. Morris as outside physician proved himself capable and efficient in every case. Dr. Ellis attended cases in the epidemic hospital and too much cannot be said of his valuable work. Completely isolated, separated from home and social connections, tending to the afflicted, securing the wants of the dying, doing all in his power to stay the ravages of the dread disease, he courageously gave himself up to the work of acting as house physician to smallpox sufferers."

Concerning the clergy who worked in the epidemic the Freeman says: "The reverend gentlemen who left their duties to solve by their ministrations, those stricken to death with the scourge, are worthy of the praise of all people. Rev. W. O. Raymond, Rev. H. H. Roach and Rev. James Cronin, C.S.A., fulfilled their noble duties in a manner that is beyond the pale of criticism. Many instances could be cited telling of their energy, philanthropy and good works. The many harrowing incidents and pathetic scenes known only to those in immediate touch with the quarantined district, can tell of the heroic and dangerous duties which these Reverend gentlemen performed. None shirked the most painful task, none knew the word of fear, they all showed that mercy in which their position placed them."

The Freeman continues with a reference to the work of the nurses.

ence to the Board of Health and says: "The gentlemen composing the Board of Health, Dr. Daniel, Dr. Christie, James Reynolds, John Kelly, James Ready, Secretary T. M. Burns and Inspector Howard were untiring in their efforts in allaying the malady. Now that the end of the epidemic is in sight the Board of Health can look back upon its efficacy and congratulate itself that from the first alarm to the finish it has missed absolutely nothing in its endeavor to locate and stamp out the disease."

Father Cronin worked among the sick with a devoted zeal that was unequalled. Like the other two of the clergy who gave such unselfish and heroic service, he has passed to his reward as has Dr. Morris also.

Dynamite Injures Restigouche Girl

Campbellton, Nov. 30.—The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talmadge Adams of Tide Head, recently lost two of her fingers through the accidental exploding of a dynamite cap or detonator. The child, who was nine years old, found the cap, and holding it in one hand, held a lighted match to it, with the above result. The little one was taken to the Soldiers' Memorial for treatment.

This is the second accident of this nature which has taken place in this vicinity in the past three weeks.

ONE IS KILLED IN BANDIT CAR CRASH

New York, Nov. 30.—A speeding motor car carrying three men accused by the police of shooting to death David Teko, notorious member of Kid Dropper's gang in an East Side gun battle Wednesday night, collided with a Long Island train near St. James, L. I., today, resulting in the death of one of the men and serious injury of the others.

The man who met death was Benjamin "Pinkie" Levine, and the injured Abbie Becker and Charles Kramer, all with long police records.

If the cells of the lungs were spread out they would form a surface of 480 square feet.

NEW OFFICER AT NEWCASTLE SCORES

Arrests the Alleged King of Miramichi Bootleggers, Who is Convicted.

Newcastle, Nov. 30.—In the police court here today Peter Archer, Chatham, known as "The King of Bootleggers" for this district was convicted of having liquor for sale and fined $200 and costs. Ever since the prohibition act has been in force effort after effort has been made by inspectors to get Archer but it remained for Daniel Cripps, who was appointed only last Friday, to have a conviction registered against him.

According to the evidence produced before Magistrate Lawlor, the goods were concealed about Archer's premises in Chatham. Under the barn was a vault for storing the liquor that would defy the most ardent inspector.

After removing two planks from the floor the inspector was obliged to remove first a tier of earth then one of hay, several slabs of concrete, each provided with a handle, and lastly another tier of plank. This gave access to a cellar about eight feet square but the only thing it contained was an empty thirty-gallon cask.

In the sitting room of the house was discovered a section of the wainscoting which could be removed by taking up a piece of quarter round on the floor. When the wainscoting was removed a door opened into a cupboard and the only thing it contained was one bottle of gin.

NU-RUBBER

It is the mud, slush and wet snow that wear the shine off your rubbers—they look a dingy grey color—and then sooner or later, they crack. With NU-RUBBER you can replace the protecting shine. NU-RUBBER is easy to apply. Just use the sponge and go all over the rubber with the polish. It dries quickly and your rubbers are like new. Any good dealer can supply you.
