

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1919

The Evening Times and Star

ST. JOHN, N. B., MARCH 11, 1919

The St. John Evening Times is printed at 27 and 29 Canterbury street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by The St. John Times Printing and Publishing Co. Ltd., a company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act. Telephone—Private exchange connecting all departments, Main 2417. Subscriptions—Delivered by carrier, $4.00 per year; by mail, $3.00 per year in advance.

The Times has the largest circulation in the Maritime Provinces. Special Advertising Representatives—NEW YORK, Frank R. Northrup, 303 Fifth Ave.—CHICAGO, E. J. Power, Manager, Association Bldg. The Audit Bureau of Circulations audits the circulation of The Evening Times.

USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

The St. John board of school trustees can hardly be ignorant of the fact that in permitting the superintendent of schools to have his way in regard to the perfectly proper use by the people of their own property it is running counter to the wishes of the people.

The Times prints today two letters, one from Chief Superintendent Carter and one from Mr. John T. Hawke, chairman of the Moncton school board, and editor of the Moncton Transcript. Dr. Carter's letter covers the whole ground of wider use of school buildings, and adds the significant remark that, if some additional training in citizenship and regard for public property is needed after boys and girls leave school the school building is still the place in which to gather them and give them that training.

Mr. Hawke shows that the use of the assembly hall of Moncton's finest school causes no complaint whatever, and the Times yesterday, in a communication from Cleveland, Ohio, showed how largely the school buildings there are used as social centres. This is true of all American and nearly all Canadian cities. If the foreign element of a city like Cleveland can be given the free use of school buildings and do no damage, why not trust the native product of St. John schools in their own buildings? But if no place in the world made such use of its school buildings there would still be no honest argument against such use in St. John. Only the most unreasonable prejudice—only the spirit of autocracy—could stand in the way. This is not a healthy age for autocrats, whether educational or otherwise. The school buildings of St. John belong to the people, and the people will get the use of them if they are forced to go to Frederickton to demand their rights in the matter.

THE OPPOSITION LEADER.

Hon. James A. Murray, leader of the opposition, was heard in the legislature last evening. A careful perusal of his speech, eliminating certain charges the incorrectness of which was promptly exposed by government members, there does not seem to have been any good reason why Mr. Murray should have taken up the attention of the house for a couple of hours. The tribute he paid to Sir Wilfrid Laurier was hardly more glowing than that which he paid to the Hon. James A. Murray. His charges affecting Hon. Mr. Tweeddale, Hon. Mr. Veniot and Premier Foster were so promptly refuted by those gentlemen that any further interest in his speech must have been null to the point of indifference.

Hon. Mr. Murray's real trouble is not the record of the government but his own and that of his party. He is laboring to make the people believe the present government is dishonest and inefficient, in order that public attention may be withdrawn from the glaring record set forth in the reports of royal commissions which enquired into the activities of Messrs. Murray, Baxter, Smith and Jones. With a fine show of bravado he demanded the whereabouts of the McQueen report. He will soon learn, and let us hope he will persevere that report with a due sense of proportion, remembering that it is based on sworn evidence, and that it will also be read by his constituents and the people at large.

There was a fine illustration of Mr. Murray's fairness in his treatment of Mr. Mesereau. He charged the latter with saying he had no use for royalty, and when Mr. Mesereau emphatically denied making the statement he went right on as if there had been no denial. "God help the country which has no use for royalty," bellowed Mr. Murray. What he should have said was: "God help the party that tries to cover up its iniquity by flimsy appeals to the loyalty of the gallery."

However, Mr. Murray has spoken and the sun rose this morning as usual. The Foster government still lives and the McQueen report is on the way.

OUR FOREST WEALTH.

The New Brunswick forest survey, according to the very excellent and comprehensive report of the crown lands department, of which Hon. E. A. Smith is the energetic head, has thus far covered 1,660,000 acres, or a little over 29.5 per cent of the crown lands of the province. This survey reveals some very interesting facts. The drafting of the timber plans and compiling of the timber estimates has been completed for 1,400,924 acres, or approximately 2300 square miles. The following table shows some of the results:

| | Acres. | P.C. |
|---------------------|-----------|-------|
| Soft-wood timber | 294,344 | 39.23 |
| Mixed hard and soft | 418,878 | 29.56 |
| Hardwood | 60,888 | 4.38 |
| Total | 1,024,060 | 73.14 |

This area bears merchantable timber fit for sawlogs. But there are 188,411 acres, or 13.07 per cent, of burnt over land which will give a future timber crop. Of burnt-over land where satisfactory reproduction is not yet established, there are 107,738 acres, or 7.65 per cent. The balance is barren, areas of lake and water, and cleared lands. The total area not supporting merchantable timber is 876,864 acres, or 26.86 per cent of the whole.

But the survey has gone farther and tabulated the amount of commercial sized timber estimated on 1,024,060 acres of the 1,660,000 acres, as follows:

| | Feet. | P.C. |
|----------------------|-------------|------|
| White spruce | 111,805,202 | 6.9 |
| Black and red spruce | 285,781,298 | 20.7 |
| Pine | 289,812,064 | 14.6 |
| White pine | 46,702,205 | 2.9 |
| Red pine | 19,185,215 | 1.9 |
| Beech | 165,174,477 | 10.2 |
| Hemlock | 59,142,677 | 3.6 |
| Jack pine | 5,486,622 | .5 |

| | Feet. | P.C. |
|-----------------|---------------|------|
| Total soft-wood | 579,182,740 | 60.6 |
| Yellow birch | 211,123,794 | 18.1 |
| Maple, hard | 118,079,998 | 7.8 |
| Birch | 48,190,790 | 2.6 |
| White birch | 186,642,200 | 11.4 |
| Poplar | 68,889,000 | 4.3 |
| Other hardwoods | 8,401,280 | .8 |
| Total hardwood | 636,226,260 | 39.4 |
| Grand total | 1,215,409,000 | 100 |

This estimate would give only 1,577 feet per acre for the timbered area, of which 60.6 per cent would be soft-wood and 39.4 per cent hardwood.

The report tells us that the annual cut of hardwood does not amount to two per cent of the total cut, and remarks that this shows very emphatically the need of further developing the hardwood industry.

This survey of our forest lands shows that our timber supply is very far from inexhaustible, and that conservation is necessary, while reforestation must also receive attention.

The school board got consent of the government to increase its assessment on the assurance that a vigorous effort would be made to reduce its overhead. The increase in teachers' salaries was to begin Jan. 1, 1919. Last night that increase was dated back to September, 1918. It is not a question whether the teachers should get that much more money, but whether the board should keep faith. The committee that interviewed the government has resigned. An interesting situation is thus created.

The provincial government does well to take steps to enforce better service on the Caraquee Railway. When it is known that the provincial health authorities had to intervene to enforce the cleaning of the cars in use for passengers, the public will understand to what a state the service had fallen.

The prospect of having St. John harbor taken over by the federal government on satisfactory terms is now a bright one. This will mean a great deal for port development and will relieve the city of a heavy burden which it assumed in the interests not only of St. John but of the trade of Canada.

There will doubtless be another big delegation to Frederickton this spring to present the views of the citizens to the legislature regarding the New Brunswick Power Company—its financial activities and its unsatisfactory service.

Some more New England towns have gone wet—till the national prohibition hits them next summer. Apparently the prohibitionists did not take the trouble to vote, knowing what is coming so soon.

If a Russian Bohemian started the Kannel riot he should be shot. Sir Rider Haggard gives currency to a report that the riot was begun by one of these gentlemen.

Hon. J. A. Murray is worried about the roads. He and his party have been on the downward political road for some time. No doubt there are rough places.

The long talked of tunnel under the Straits of Dover appears to be one of the possibilities of the near future.

LIGHTER VEIN.

"You'd better marry me. Eligible men are scarce."

"I suppose I could offer that as an explanation," said the girl reflectively.

The Hostess—I am going to ask you to take Mrs. Salston down to dinner. Featherstone—What shall I talk to her about?

"It will not be necessary."

Lawyer—Don't you think $25,000 cash would be punishment enough for his breach of promise?

The Aggrieved—No, indeed; I want him to marry me.

You Can Line Your Own Stove With

FOLEY'S PREPARED FIRECLAY

To be had of W. H. Thorne & Co., Ltd., Market St.; T. McAvity & Sons, Ltd., King St.; J. E. Wilson, Ltd., Sydney St.; Emerson & Fisher, Ltd., Grattan St.; Geo. W. Morrell, Haymarket St.; J. C. Logan, Haymarket St.; C. H. Ritchie, 820 Main St.; Quinn & Co., 415 Main St., Kingston, Canada.

The Urgency of the Housing Problem

Mayor R. Prieur, Pointe-Aux-Trembles

(Canadian Municipal Journal.)

The "powers that be" are beginning to realize the urgency of the housing problem, especially with regards to the laboring class, but an educational campaign, intensive and continuous, will be necessary to awaken the general public to the realization of the urgency of the problem and open the hearts to the humanitarian aspect of this all-important question.

The governments, throughout the world, knowing full well that the degree of civilization of a nation is judged by the housing of its people, have been untiring in their efforts to secure better facilities for the masses.

England has given us an excellent example of what should be done. There is not another country that has given as much thought to social hygiene as has Great Britain. During the last twenty years, last year was adopted, decrees after decrees were promulgated and regulation upon regulation made in order to lead a helping hand to the poor populations by creating garden-cities where conditions are bad, at a cost with in his means. Even to this very day when England is still bleeding from the many wounds received during the world conflict and is still staggering under the burden of an enormous public debt, she does not hesitate to call upon the public treasury for millions upon millions to continue the fight against the hovel and its evil effects.

The United States have also given practical thought to the humanitarian aspect of the housing problem and in the neighboring republic, the legislators and the capitalists have worked hand in hand to create numerous industrial cities of the good appearance, cleanliness and comfort of which have been the subject of universal admiration. We, in Canada, are astounded when we hear that, during the last twenty years, the various American housing associations have erected more than 400,000 houses to be used as comfortable homes by the great laboring classes.

France, Italy, Belgium, Germany and Hungary have their garden-cities which are not only admired by all visitors to these countries, but afford comfortable social centers for the workmen and their families.

Every great country has given deep thought to social hygiene—except Canada.

Why should our country be indifferent to human suffering? Why are we so apathetic?

Can it be said that the housing conditions which have been built in Europe and in the United States and which all other countries have endeavored to correct, are ideal in our own country? Can it be said that the houses inhabited by our laboring classes are built according to the latest dictates of scientific construction and are all that can be desired from the double point of view of hygiene and comfort? Can it be truly said that our large cities contain no hovels for human habitations?

No, a thousand times no! We should blush in shame when we read the scathing comments made by Harry Vivian less than ten years ago, concerning conditions in our own country. The eminent sociologist who is also member of parliament for Birkenhead in the British house of commons, stated in a lecture given in 1910, at Ottawa, under the distinguished patronage of Earl Grey, our former governor-general, that he had seen in the slums of London and in Winnipeg, slum districts that were worse than those of London and Dublin. His concluding remark was that "in most Canadian towns, less science and forethought is given to the care of human beings than a modern farmer gives to the raising of his pigs."

Should not this lashing remark from an expert on social hygiene have a bright effect upon us as would a cat-nine-tails upon our bare backs? Why should we fail so utterly in the accomplishment of plain humanitarian duty to that part of the urban population which numerically predominates the laboring class?

Yet since 1910 what have we done to secure healthier conditions in the dwellings of the less fortunate of our co-citizens? Nothing, or at least very little, if we consider what we should have done and the enormous task which has been left untouched.

In a preceding article we have said that the unsanitary and over-crowded condition of the hovel with its unpleasant atmosphere, is responsible for driving many men to the more congenial surroundings of the army of drunken degenerates increases alarmingly.

Basing our statements on the results of careful investigations of medical and social sciences, we now have no hesitancy in stating that the narrow, ill-ventilated unsanitary dwelling is responsible for more cases of that dreaded disease, tuberculosis, than any other cause. And this dreadful plague, it must be remembered, affects mostly adults between the ages of twenty and forty, the very time of life when they should be most useful to society. It is further proven that there are less cases in the rural districts than in the city and that in the houses that are ill-ventilated and overcrowded there is greater danger for tuberculosis than in other dwellings.

These indisputable facts plainly show that unless we take means to combat the white plague, it will prove disastrous to the very core of our population. Vital statistics for the province of Quebec show that in 1915, 8,800 persons died of tuberculosis. Of this total, 1,928 lived in the cities and 1,977 in the country districts. As we are well aware, the rural population exceeds by far the urban population. Why then should there be more deaths from tuberculosis in the cities than in the rural districts? Simply because sanitary and hygienic conditions are not the same in both cases.

Tuberculosis is an affection caused by poverty in all its various forms and aspects. It is developed mostly by unsanitary surroundings and chief among these is the over-crowded, ill-ventilated dwelling; the hovel where a half-dozen or more individuals live in dangerous proximity in narrow rooms, without a ray of sunshine in the day time and without ventilation at night—where the microbes can develop and thrive and cause the man, the woman, the child to wither away like a plant that is deprived of air, water and sunshine. Can there be greater misery than this?

As stated by an eminent French sociologist: "The doctor treats tuberculosis, but he does not prevent it." Preventative means are the surest and the most effective in checking this plague.

This is a truth which is everywhere understood—except in Canada.

It is, thanks to sanitary dwellings, well-ventilated and where sunlight has easy access, that during the last few weeks, deaths caused by tuberculosis in England have decreased by 80 per cent.

Germany has obtained similar results by adopting a policy of preventative and social hygiene.

During the last few years there has been a decrease of more than a half in the cases of tuberculosis in England and Germany. The number of cases in France, in Italy, in Belgium, in Denmark, in the United States and in Sweden, have also decreased.

In fact, there has been a notable decrease of cases wherever a war has been conducted on the hovel and the unsanitary dwelling.

During the same period the number of tuberculosis cases in the province of Quebec has increased.

Why? Madame Fiedler, who has visited every country in the world in her crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: "Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here," said she. "You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the maintenance of health and vigor, but you possess the vilest of all vital elements, but you lack organized effort to fight the dreaded malady and your crusade against the white plague, gave as the reason for this disastrous condition a few years ago: 'Never have I filled my eyes with squalor and dirt as here,' said she. 'You possess the ideal country for the