

ers commendatory are to be produced to the bishop before permission granted. Clause 3, imposes a penalty on allowing clergy of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Scotland to officiate without such permission. Clause 4, imposes a penalty on officiating contrary to decided Acts, save as herein mentioned. Clause 5, declares that persons ordained both by bishops of Scotland and England are not excepted from the provisions of this Act. Clause 6, enacts that the provisions of this Act, as to the clergy of the Episcopal Church of Scotland, be extended to clergy of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

A very awful occurrence took place at the Venerable the Archdeacon of Worcester, at Stratford-on-Avon, on Thursday, the 4th instant. The Rev. W. Pruen, A.M., Vicar of Smitterfield, near Warwick, the appointed preacher for the day, has just concluded the prayer preparatory to the sermon, when he was seized with apoplexy. He was immediately removed from the pulpit, almost in a dying state and conveyed to the house of a friend near the church. Medical aid was speedily obtained, but too late to be of any avail, as the Rev. Gentleman expired within a short time after the attack. The circumstance caused the deepest feeling in the minds of the clergy assembled, indeed of all who witnessed this sad event. What is very singular, the deceased has been known frequently to express a wish that he might die in the church when engaged in the performance of his ministerial duties, a desire which had been almost literally granted. Mr. Pruen had been presented to the living of Smitterfield about three years since by the Bishop of Worcester, in consideration of his zealous and faithful services, for a period of twenty-nine years, as curate of Fladbury, near Worcester. Morning Paper.

Accounts from all parts of the kingdom concur in representing the prospect of the abundance, which the recent seasonable weather has opened upon us, as being most gratifying. A more promising season is scarcely in the memory of man, and its fruits are already shown in a considerable decline in the price of wheat.
