

BOUND THE MOON. CHAPTER VIII.

What had happened? The cause of this singular intoxication, the consequences of which might have been very disastrous? A simple blunder of Michel's, which, fortunately, Nichol was able to correct in time.

Arden, always enthusiastic, drew conclusions which were purely fanciful. "Ah, my worthy friends," he exclaimed, "what progress we should make if on earth we could throw off some of that attraction, some of that which binds us to her; it would be like the prisoner set at liberty; no more fatigue of either arms or legs. Or, if it is true that in order to fly on the earth's surface, to keep oneself suspended in the air merely by the play of the muscles, requires a strength a hundred and fifty times greater than that which we possess, a simple act of volition, a caprice would bear us into space, if attraction did not exist."

"Yes," cried Michel, full of his subject, "destroy weight, and no more burdens!" "Well said," replied Barbicane; "but if nothing had any weight, nothing would keep in its place, not even your hat on your head, worthy Michel, nor your house, whose stones only adhere by weight; not a boat, whose stability on the water is caused only by weight; not even the ocean, whose waves would no longer be equalized by terrestrial attraction; and lastly, not even the atmosphere, whose atoms, being no longer held in their places, would disperse in space."

"That is tiresome," retorted Michel; "nothing like these matter-of-fact people for bringing one back to the bare reality!" "But console yourself, Michel," continued Barbicane, "for if no orb existed from whence all laws of weight are banished, you are still going to visit one here, and it is much less than the earth."

"The moon!" "Yes, the moon, on whose surface objects weigh six times less than on the earth, a phenomenon easy to prove." "And we shall feel it!" asked Michel. "Evidently as 200 lbs. will only weigh 30 lbs. on the surface of the moon."

"And our muscular strength will not diminish!" "Not at all; instead of jumping one yard high, you will rise eighting feet high." "But we shall be regular Hercules in the moon!" exclaimed Michel. "Yes," replied Nichol; "for if the height of the Seleneites is in proportion to the density of their globe, they will be scarcely a foot high."

"Lilliputians!" ejaculated Michel; "I shall play the part of Gulliver. We are going to realize the fable of the giants. This is the advantage of leaving one's own planet and overrunning the solar world."

"One moment, Michel," answered Barbicane; "if you wish to play the part of Gulliver, only visit the moon planets, such as Mercury, Venus, or Mars, whose density is a little less than that of the earth; but do not venture into the great planets, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune; for there the orb will be changed, and you will become Lilliputian."
