FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

Let's Talk It Over

ECHOES OF THE GIRLS' CONFERENCE.

The second largest gathering of girls ever held in the Dominion of Canada met in St. John last week, and with earnest attention listened to directions of how to form themselves into week-day clubs for "an all-round development in the fourfold life" as the handbook of the Canadian Girls in Training puts it, "physical, intellectual, social, and religious."

To those familiar with the Canadian Standard Efficiency Tests for boys, the idea will need no explanation, but for the benefit of those who have not been in touch with this great movement, it can be briefly summed up as a plan to take the Sunday School class and form the girls into a club during the week for recreation, for study, for helpfulness to others and to carry out the lessons learned from the religious teachings of the Sunday School.

Besides being a practical scheme and one which has been most carefully and prayerfully thought out, it does not call for any new organization, which is something to be thankful for in these over-organized days, but makes use of the Sunday school class as a basis from which to branch out. Here also is where the Young Women's Christian Association steps in for in their groups will be found those who, perhaps, have no church connections, and their buildings can be used for group activities.

One splendid point about the mid-week club is that the girls run it themselves. They have the advantage of a leader who can advise and assist in their Sunday school teacher, but the girls elect their own officers, choose their own name and plan their own work. The feeling of responsibility is a strong factor in any successful undertaking, and the pride taken in the achievements of a club is bound to be lessened if it is felt that older people should have the credit. "We did it all ourselves," makes a club bestir themselves for further efforts. In the standard set before girls' clubs are the following suggestions:

PHYSICAL—Health education, First Aid and Home Nursing, Physical Culture, Sports, Out-door Life (camps, hikes, picnics).

INTELLECTUAL—School and Vocational training, Homecraft (Domestic Science, Dressmaking, Millinery, and other lines of homemaking); knowledge of current events, public speaking, nature study, music, art, educational trips and lectures, hobbies.

RELIGIOUS—Daily Bible reading, public worship, group Bible study, systematic giving, self discipline.

SERVICE—Personal relationships in the Home, Church, Organizations, in the Community, leadership.

St. John was especially fortunate in the leaders sent from the National Advisory Committee, for they were bright speakers, standing emphatically for all that is high and good, and yet realizing that the joy of Christianity is one of its most important sides and that fun is not incompatible with religion.

The movement has had a splendid start in this city. It now remains for the congregations of the churches who stand back of the movement to show interest, lend encouragement and support earnestly every club which is formed, every effort which is put forth so that the girls may have the chance, their opportunity for improvement, their fun as well as—and perhaps a little more—than the boys.

BEAUTIES OF THE CATHEDRALS

Fine Lecture Given Yesterday in Natural History Society Series by Mrs. John A. McAvity on Cathedrals of France.

The beauties of the Cathedrals of Chartres, Amiens, Soissons and Rheims, were eloquently described at a lecture given yesterday afternoon in the course arranged by the Ladies' Association of the Natural History Society. Mrs. John A. McAvity read a carefully prepared paper pointing out the special wonders of each of these ancient places of worship, and slides were shown bringing the cathedrals clearly before the eyes of the large audience who enjoyed the address.

Mrs. McAvity showed how symbolism was the early language of the church, and the many symbols carved in stone or wood on the walls of the cathedrals were easily read by worshippers in the Middle Ages. Our Lady of Chartres, with its lofty spires, massive pillars and the glory of its stained glass windows is said to be architecturally perfect, entirely a house of prayer. A lovely description of the gorgeously colored glass of the 175 windows, through which the light of common day filters and flashes and flows in crimson, green and a million different colors, was given. The effect of the colors was said by one writer to be "as if one found oneself in a dark cavern lit by the light of jewels."

Views were shown of Amiens, with its irregular towers, of Soissons, the example of mixed and Gothic architecture, and of Rheims, forever associated with Joan of Arc, and with the vandalism of the Hun.

The musical programme was in charge of Mrs. R. T. McKim, and consisted of a vocal duet by Mrs. A. P. Crockett and Miss Rita Brenan, who sang "The Crucifixion" (Faure); two solos by Miss Louise Anderson, a French Carol of the 16th Century and a Song of Chartres, D. Arnold Fox gave a piano solo, The Church Scene from Faust (Gounod). The meeting opened with the playing of the Marseillaise. Mrs. McAvity, the President of the Ladies' Association, voiced the thanks of the audience to the musicians.

ANNUAL MEETING HELD YESTERDAY

North End W. C. T. U. Corporation in Session—Very Satisfactory Reports Received — John B. Eagles Elected President.

The annual meeting of the corporation of the North End W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon in the library room of the Union Hall. Reports were received from the secretary-treasurer and librarian and the election of directors and officers took place. At a meeting of the directors held on Monday evening a dividend of six per cent. was declared.

The election of directors resulted as follows: John B. Eagles, Mrs. W. W. Scott, G. H. Burpee, A. B. Farmer, Mrs. Alice Eagles, Mrs. George Steel, H. Usher Miller, F. W. Munro. The officers elected were: John B. Eagles, president; Mrs. W. E. Scott, 1st vice-president; G. H. Burpee, 2nd vice-president; A. B. Farmer, secretary-treasurer.

It was reported that the city had increased the grant from $850 to $1,000 and the salary of the librarian was increased from $450 to $550 per year.

The librarian, Miss Edwards, reported as follows:

Books added to the library during the year, 83, including "Century Dictionary" 6 vols. and the Standard Dictionary, 2 vols.

Received the usual reports and pamphlets from Ottawa.

We had 57 applicants for cards.

The circulation of books has been much less because of the influenza, and the closing of the library for five weeks.

From October to January last year the circulation was 2992, this year 1911, a falling off of 2081.

Last April 16th 17th, your librarian had the pleasure of representing this library at the first conference of librarians of the Maritime Provinces, held in the library of Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S. The meeting was called by Dr. Geo. Cuttin, President of the Acadia University, to consider how the libraries of the Maritime Provinces might be improved, to promote interest in libraries where none now existed, to organize, if it seemed advisable, a library association for the Maritime Provinces.

At the closing session the conference organized itself into a permanent body to be known as the Maritime Library Association, and a committee was appointed to draw up a form of constitution and by-laws.

One of the papers read and discussed was on "Co-operation and Library Work." As a result of that paper, we have had donated this library the "Century" and "Standard" dictionaries, and we gave to the Moncton library "Warner's Best Literature," 3 vols. having a duplicate set. Your librarian suggests that any person desiring a book other that fiction, that they may be given that privilege, thus increasing the usefulness of the library.

FORMER QUEEN OF BAVARIA DEAD

Maria Theresa Pased Out Last Night at Chateau Wildenhard.

Basel, Switzerland, Feb. 44.—Former Queen Maria Theresa of Bavaria, died last night at the Chateau Wildenhard, according to a despatch from Munich today.

The death of Maria Theresa was erroneously reported on November 18 last in a despatch from Amsterdam, a denial being issued shortly afterward. The ex-Queen was seriously ill at the time, however, and on Saturday last Munich advices stated that her condition had become very grave, and it was feared her illness would terminate fatally.

Maria Theresa was formerly an archduchess of Austria-Este of the Branch of Modena and was born in 1849. She married King Ludwig in 1868. On November 8, 1918, the Bavarian diet passed a decree deposing the Wittelsbach dynasty, forcing King Ludwig to give up his crown.
