OBITUARY

At Somerville, Mass., January 22, 1925, Mr. Samuel W. Armstrong passed away at the age of 73 years at his home on 76 Beacon St. He was born at Mt. Hanley, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong. At the age of 17 years he went to the U. S. A. and has been there ever since only on occasional visits to his native home. He was an Expressman for about 45 years and on Wednesday morning (before his death) feeling as well as usual he had gone into Boston to his office and about 10 o'clock, he and one of his men were standing outside the door watching the men shovel the snow, when his man saw that Mr. Armstrong was failing.. A taxi was called Mr. Armstrong was taken home where he was well cared for, but no loving hands or medical skill could help him. He passed away the following day at 3.30. He was laid to rest in the Cambridge Cemetry. The Pall Bearers were his three brothers and one nephew, T. H. Balsor, Brighton, Mass.; W. P. Balsor, Arlington, Mass.; Fred Balsor, New York City; F. S. Balsor, Cambridge, Mass.

Rev. Rider, from Greenwood Temple, spoke very comfortable words at the house. The Oddfellows service was then held as he was a member. The sollist at St. Paul's Cathedral sang "Abide With Me", "My Faith Looks up to Thee" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." He leaves to mourn a wife, three brothers an aged step father and two sisters.

To the bereaved wife we would bring the comforting words: "Thy Maker is Thy Husband." May He who came to heal the broken hearted speak words of comfort to her and give her the oil of joy for mourning and the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness.

The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which he was held by his many friends from New York, Boston, Lynn, Brighton, Medford, Concord, Cambridge, Somerville, Hudson East Boston, Reading and Waterfield Mass.

PROF. LIDDY LECTURES

"Crime, Its Cause and Prevention" was the subject of the lecture given by Prof. Liddy of Mt. Allison, on Fri d., the 13th, in McDonald School; it being one of the course of University Extension Lectures under auspices of Macdonald School Board..

The speaker stated that statistics showed that crime, both major and minor, was on the increase, and that crime was much more prevalent in the United States than in Great Britain, giving some reasons for this.

Prof. Liddy then went on to state that the causes for crime were usually divided into two heads, subjective and objective. Among the first, probably feeble-mindedness was the greatest single cause. Among the latter causes were defective courts, unwise legislation, poverty, unemployment, harmful social amusement, demoralization of family. Knowing these causes, it was possible to remove some of them and thus decrease crime, although the absolute prevention of crime is probably in the distant future. The hopes for the prevention of crime are to remove the causes as far as possible, and in the intelligent treatment of criminals.. Segregate the feeble-minded, improve home conditions, improve education.

In his treatment of the criminal, the punishment should be made to fit the criminal rather than the crime —substitute prison farms for jails, give indeterminate sentences rather than set lengths of time, and in the treatment keep the education of the criminal in mind. Imprisonment is almost useless if the criminal is to repeat the offense as soon as he is at liberty.

I Am Photography

NOT PURSE - PROUD, I AM WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL.

The photographic profession has found it well-nigh impossible to standardize prices for photographic portraits. A comparison of prices charged by different studios will reveal nothing to the layman unless he understands the extent to which workmanship and materials enter into figuring the cost of a dozen photographs. The knowledge of the cameraman when making the sitting. The cleverness of the retoucher's pencil. The ability of the printer to produce a pleasing print. The quality of the paper on which the portrait is printed. Style of the mounting. Judged by these factors, we believe our prices to be eminently fair. Surely DILL portraits, from five,fifty a dozen upward, are:

"NOT PURSE-PROUD, BUT WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL"

Your photograph will gladden the heart of someone. W .H. DILL, Photographer, Middleton, N. S.

BEAUTIFY HOME AND HOLD THE YOUNG PEOPLE

Lawrencetown, Feb. 16— Prof. W. S. Blair, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Kentville, was the lecturer at the Demonstration Building, Friday evening. The lecture was under the auspices of the Annapolis County Farmer's Association and was held in connection with the Agricultural Extension School.

C. S. Bothamly of West Paradise presided and the lecturer was greeted by a good sized and attentive audience.

The subject of the lecture was "Beautifying Home Surroundings" and the need and value of making more beautiful and attractive the surroundings of country homes, in order to attract and hold the young people, was clearly set forth by the speaker. Certain things were absolutely essential, he declared ,for success; and one of these was to develop a spirit of interest in the home and its surroundings, in which the young people should share an important part. They should be taught to do, and to do well the task assigned them.

Prof. Blair urged first the necessity for a nice spacious green lawn in front of the home, in which should be planted not many shade trees,and a few flower beds, more attention to be given to the borders of the lawn than to the interior. In the second place, he urged the cultivation of a spirit of tidiness. fathers and mothers setting the example. There was far too many slovenly surroundings in both country and town.

In addition to the care, to be given to the town, he recommended the institution of a kitchen garden, in which could be grown raspberries and strawberries, greatly stimulating the interest of the young, and manning even the premises in the rear of the home more attractive. In this, as well as in other things, one must go on to perfection and ability to do must be won by doing.

Because she is the daugnter-in-law of a former British prime minister, Lady Cynthia Asquith might be expected to be a keen politician—and she is.

Here is a story she tells. A woman was asked whether her husband was o Liberal or a Canservative.

"Well," was the reply, "when he's with a Liberal he's a Liberal, and when he's with a Conservative he's a Conservative."

"Yes, but what is he when he's at home?"

"Oh," said the woman, "when he's at home he's merely a nuisance."

To grow in knowledge every day,
To learn to heed what others say;
To practice what my conscience preaches,
To try to do what wisdom teaches;
To seek the truth—strive for the right
And gain my ends by love, not might.
