Reede to couer houses or such like, if tile or slate be not.

The people there to plant and to continue are eyther to liue without trafficke, or by trafficke and by trade of marchandize. If they shall liue without sea trafficke, at the first they become naked by want of linen and wollen, and very miserable by infinite wantes that will otherwise ensue, and so will they be forced of them selues to depart, or els easely they will bee consumed by the Sp. by the fr. or by the naturall inhabithantes of the countrey, and so the interpyce becomes reprochfull to our nation, and a lett to many other good purposes that may be taken in hande.

And by trade of marchandize they can not liue, excepte the sea or the lande there may yeelde commoditie for commoditie. And therefore you ought to haue most speciall re-garde of that point, and so to plant, that the naturall commodities of the place and seate, may be at to you access of Navigation for the same, or that by your owne Navigation you may carie the same out, and fetch home the supplie of the wantes of the seate.

Such navigation so to bee employed, shall besides the supplie of wantes, bee able to encounter with foreyne force.

And for that in the ample vantage of suche thinges as are brought to you out of engl. by sea, standeth a matter of great consequence, it behoueth that all humanitie and curtelie and much forbearing of reuenge to the inland people be hysed, so shall you haue firme amitie with your neyghbours, so shall you haue theire inland commodities to maintayne trafficke, so shall you waxe rich and strong in force. Diuers & seuerall commodities of the inland are not in great plentie to be brought to your handes, without the ayde of some portable or Navigable ryuer, or ample lacke, and therefore to haue
