Three Short Stories in the Funny Dialect of the Habitant.

Joe Place, who lives out on the Biddeford Pool road supplies a fair amount of innocent amusement to the people of that section.
The other day he drove into the city with a load of cordwood. On the top of the load he had some mysterious parcel in a short sack, and the contents of the parcel occasionally moved and writhed.

When some one came along and asked him about the bundle, Joe lifted up the short sack and immediately there was a mighty squealing from within.
"Little pigs," quoth Joseph, smilingly.

"Now I tal yo' w'at I do," he said jocously, "yo' tal me how many little peeps dere be in date bag, and ba gar, I geeve yo' de whole 't'ree of heem."
"Well," said the other, "I guess there are three pigs there, Joseph."

Joseph was disgusted.
"Oh, ba gar," shouted he, "somebody gon' tal yo' about dat." They undertook to run down the capacities of Joseph's horse the other day and Joseph was mad. Somebody told him that the critter couldn't trot in 3:30. Joseph shook his head and voiced trepidation with suppressed feeling. He pulled out his wallet and wanted to bet. And as he talked he grew madder.

At last he said:
Now yo' look here, yo' don't know w'at yo' tal about. Dat hoss be all r-rat. He can jussas fas' as yo' want heem trot. I bat yo' I put heem on de barn and geeve heem handful of oats and quart of hay. I tak' heem off de barn. Den he go better dan ha'f pas' four or ba gar, I geeve yo' to heem."

A man with Canadian wool trousers and a peaked fur cap as the most prominent articles of his attire came into the Biddleford Post office the other day and stepped up to the window.
Said he with a bland smile:
"Prap yo' don't have notin's here for Joseph Mefrau, hey?"
"I donno," said the clerk. "What do you say your name is?"

"Mc-frau, Mc-frau—how do you spell it?"
The Canadian at the window looked through the bars at the clerk, and then with a disgust that I cannot put in words, cried:
"Is darin, yo' donno how spell Joseph Mefrau, yo' bater sal out dis plac' and go in some nodder busness."

YOU KNOW, YOUR HONOR.

Gentlemanly Prisoner Inclined to Leave it All to the Magistrate.

An elderly man, wearing an exquisite pair of Burnside whiskers and gold rimmed spectacles, was arranged in the Jefferson Market court on a charge of intoxication.
"What have you got to say to the charge?" the Magistrate asked. "Were you drunk?"

"Ahem!" replied the prisoner after some hesitation. "The question is rather embarrassing; but, of course, I do not want to appear to contradict the policeman, who, indeed, was very kind."

"How did it happen?" inquired the Magistrate.
"Some kind of new drink, you know.
Really, I don't know the name of it, but it was dreadfully mixed, and seductive. I am sure, your Honor, that you would know it if I could only describe it properly."

"I'm sure I wouldn't," the Magistrate replied. "I am no expert. But where did you get it?"
"Where?" the prisoner repeated in a surprised manner. "Why, you know, of course—right over here—it's peculiar that I can't remember the name of the street. But you know it, Judge, I am sure."

"I don't know the least thing about it," reported the Magistrate with emphasis, and his manner became severe.
"How many of these seductive drinks did you have?"
"Really, your Honor, I cannot tell, but I am sure you—"

The Magistrate brought down the gavel on the desk with a snap that made the prisoner jump.
"Beg your pardon, your Honor," the latter hastened to say, "but I only meant to say that you may safely presume that I had five or six, or maybe even seven or eight, or—"

"That will do," the Magistrate interrupted him. "I know one thing now, which is that I shall have to fine you $5, and I am sure you know that you have deserved it."
"Really, I don't know," the prisoner managed to say while the policeman dragged him out of the courtroom.
"But no doubt you know all about it."

How Birds and Animals Beat

When a man is tired he stretches his arms and legs and yawns. Birds and animals, so far as possible, follow his example. Birds spread their feathers and also yawn, or gape. Fowls often do this. Fish yawn when they open their mouths slowly till they are round, the bones of the head seem to loosen and the gills open.

Dogs are invertebrate yawners and stretchers, but seldom sneeze unless they have a cold. Cats are always stretching their bodies, legs and claws, as every one knows who has a cat for a pet.

Most ruminant animals stretch when they rise up after lying down. Deer do it regularly, so do cows. This fact is so well known that if a cow when arising from lying down does not stretch herself it is a sign she is ill.
The reason for this is plain—the stretch moves every muscle of the body, and if there be any injury anywhere.

The Sentiment of the Song.

"These songs of the sea are very impressive," she exclaimed when the full cheated baritone had ceased warbling.
"Yes," answered the young man who lacks poetry, "but they're misleading.
You get an idea that after a man has been in the navy a while he goes around singing about his home on the rolling deep when everybody knows that if he is lucky his home will be right here in nial and Get CUTICURA Homeo-dica. Cured in Seven Weeks.

My infant boy was afflicted with a terrible skin disease. The upper part of his body was one mass of bleeding sores, and his head, neck, and one of his ears was so affected that he thought it would drop off. His sufferings were beyond description, and he was kept constantly under the influence of opiates. Our physician did everything for his relief, but instead of the child getting better, the disease seemed to become more aggravated every day, until he became utterly discouraged. I could find nothing that would even relieve my child till one day my attention was called to a Circular Testimonial published by the CUTICURA Remedies, saying the CUTICURA, CUTICURA SOAP, and CUTICURA HOMEODICA. The result was that I bought a box of CUTICURA. After the third day the bleeding sores were discontinued, the child was free from pain and the terrible itching subsided. In a few days the skin began to grow again, and in seven weeks from the day we started on the CUTICURA remedies the child was cured, the sores falling off, leaving a clean, smooth skin, and his hair began to grow again.

CUTICURA REMEDIES have effected the most wonderful cures of torturing, disgusting, humiliating, and sometimes fatal skin diseases, such as eczema, scabies, and blood poisons, with loss of hair, overgrown, worn, and itching. Warn both with CUTICURA SOAP, followed by gentle soaps with CUTICURA HOMEODICA. It is a most reliable, permanent, and safe remedy, and is the only one that will cure the most obstinate, persistent, and all else fail.
Sold throughout the world. For Sale at A. J. McCall & Co., New York, Boston, and all other cities.

Beauty is born in the blood. Beauty is more than "skin deep," it is blood deep. When the blood is tainted by disease the flesh will feel it and the skin will show it. Sallow or muddy complexions, pimples, blotches, and eruptions are only the surface signs of impure blood. Face washes, lotions, complexion powders, may palliate the evils but they cannot cure the disease. The only cure is to cleanse the blood of the poisonous matter which is the cause of the outbreak in the flesh and skin. Impure blood can be absolutely purified by the use of Dr.
Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Its effect on flesh and skin is marked.
Sores heal and other eruptions disappear. The skin becomes smooth, and regains its natural color. The eyes brighten and sparkle, the whole body is radiant with the brightness and beauty of health.
"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant, and is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics. The use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assists the action of the "Discovery," by cleansing the system of clogging matter.

rosy cheeks, rich complexion. Only

A Machine to Water the Desert.

Several machines have been invented for making the heat of the sun produce steam or electric power, but a Washington man is the first to turn such a device to practical use.

William Calver is now about to set up one of his sun-power machines in Arizona, near Phoenix, and dig wells in the desert. His plan is to make the intense heat of that hottest part of the United States develop the power to pump up water enough to irrigate all the barren land.

Everybody knows what a transformation a little water makes on a desert, producing an oasis of tropical verdure, while all beyond this watered space is desolation and death. It is usually so expensive to drill wells and pump the water on a desert that it does not pay to reclaim the waste land. But, if the overabundance of sunshine on the desert can be utilized, the problem is solved.

Mr. Calver's machine consists of a set of big mirrors and lenses, by which he focuses the sun's rays as a boy does with a burning glass. The heat which is generated by Mr. Calver's machine is said to be equal to a turbine for a 500 horse power boiler.

With such a power as this available wherever one sees fit to set up his plant, it is easy to see how well drilling and water pumping can be done on a large scale. Geologists have found in recent years that our southwestern deserts have almost numberless subteranean streams flowing at depth varying from 25 to 350 feet below the dry, parched surface of the earth. So there need be no lack of water if the borings are intelligently directed.

The amount of arid lands which lie in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado is estimated to be at least five hundred millions of acres.
This is rendered useless by the need of water, and the reclamation of this land would add billions of dollars to the wealth of the country.

In many sections of Colorado and other States in which irrigation is used, the best farming lands in the country are those which were formerly worthless and are now artificially watered, and the very finest crops in the land are grown there.

ONE CENT A YEAR

Is the salary that Frank Lynch will receive from the Government.

Iowa County, Wisconsin, lays claim to having the lowest-salaried official in the employ of the United States Government. The Government hires Frank Lynch for 1 cent a year to carry the mail between Dodgeville, the county seat of Iowa County, and Mineral Point, nine miles distant.

It is the law that such employees shall be paid quarterly, but Lynch, although he has been carrying the mails regularly since last July, has as yet received no quarters of a cent or check for those amounts. The young man is not looking for any remittance on his salary until next July, when he expects a check for a whole cent. It is supposed this will be the smallest check ever issued by the Government and efforts have already been made to secure possession of it. The mail carrier has received several offers of $15 or $20 for the check, but he has so far warily avoided any definite entanglements.

Both Dodgeville and Mineral Point have railroads, but there is none between the two towns. The trip from one place to the other by rail is so roundabout that it is out of the question, so passengers and mail are driven across country. Whoever has the contract for carrying the mail feels that he is certain of all the passenger trade, for no one has yet had the courage to compete for passenger business with the United States mail carrier. For this reason the transfer of the mail is deemed a valuable privilege.

Every four years the post office department advertises for bids and the contracts to lowest bidders for transfer of mail sacks. Last year there was the hottest competition ever known for the Dodgeville-Mineral Point contract.
Several different men signified their intention of going into the contest, and the "talk" was kept up until each bidder knew he would have to go pretty low to get the prize, the man who then held the contract had been receiving about $40 per year for carrying the mail. It is said that when the bids for the new contract were opened in Washington it was found that the three lowest offers for carrying the mail per year were 1 cent, 39 cents and $1.50. Frank Lynch, being the 1 cent bidder, was awarded the contract for four years.

His First Client Never Came Back.
The legal lights were discussing disappointments with which they had met, and this is the story that one of them told:

"The greatest disappointment that I ever met with happened at the beginning of my career. I was young at the time and inclined to hold my parents responsible for this handicap which was keeping me from the fame and glory that I thought was my due."
"My bright new shingle was somewhat weather-beaten, and my office desk had two holes worn in it by his heels before my first client came."

"But come he did one day, charging into my office like a mad bull. Glaring at me and throwing down a roll of bills as large as my fist, he shouted:
"I want to see Mr. Blank!"
"I am Mr. Blank," I said, edging up to the roll.

"Good Lord, sonny," he roared, "I want to see your father, the lawyer!"
"I am Mr. Blank, the lawyer," I answered, with all the dignity I could muster.

"Oh, Christmas!" he yelled, as he seized his roll and put it in his pocket.
"What have I been retained on?" I asked, making a bluff at the roll.
"He stared at me for a moment and then said:
"See here, sonny, I've got an important engagement to meet. I'll be back in an hour. Here's your retainer," he added, throwing down a quarter.

"But he never came back!" I was looking at my picture the other day, taken about the time, and I cannot say that I blame him."—Detroit Free
