The Money Goes

SWIFTLY ENOUGH, of course; it's a peculiarity of money. But while it's going you can at least make sure that it is bringing you adequate returns. That's why you should trade here. You can get your money back if you want it, but you will most probably want the goods instead of the money:

Our Boys' Calf Boots from 11 to 2, at $1.50 are beauties. Just received a new line of Em-press Patent Colt Oxford. Call and see them.

A PACKING COMBINE

Chicago, July 6.—The Inter-Ocean says: A combination of the gigantic companies controlling the packing industry of the United States has finally been consummated, with John D. Rockefeller as the central figure in the financial part of the negotiations. Final arrangements have been made for the consolidation of the Swift and Armour interests, which have recently gained control of the other packing concerns throughout the country. The final step, which was taken today, requires merely the merging of the Swift and Armour interests. There are, it is said, one or two companies not yet under this control, but negotiations are pending with a favorable outlook.

KING EDWARD OUT OF DANGER

Happy Announcement Made by his Physicians—No More Evening Bulletins.

Many Messages of Congratulation Received at Buckingham Palace.

London, July 5, 10.12 a. m.—The following bulletin regarding King Edward's condition was posted at Buckingham Palace at 10 o'clock this morning:

"His Majesty had another excellent night. He is cheerful and feels much stronger. We are glad to be able to consider the danger of the King now out of danger. The evening bulletins will, therefore, be discontinued. (Signed) Treves, Barlow, Laking."

MADE GOOD PROGRESS

Although no more evening bulletins regarding the condition of King Edward are to be issued it was announced at Buckingham Palace this evening that His Majesty had made good progress since morning, and that he was much gratified with the accounts he received of the successful carrying out of the plans for the dinner for the poor in London. The King received many telegrams of thanks and congratulations from the scenes of these festivities, declaring that the pleasure of the occasion was vastly enhanced by the tidings that His Majesty was out of danger.

SUNDAY'S BULLETIN.

London, July 7.—The following bulletin was posted at 9 o'clock this morning at Buckingham Palace:—
"The King's progress continues to be in every way satisfactory. (Signed) Treves, Laking, Barlow."

KING EDWARD'S PROGRESS

to-night continues to be good. It is said that if his improvement proceeds at the present rate he will probably by the end of the month be well enough to be transferred to the royal yacht in Southampton water. After the morning bulletin was issued today Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria visited Marlborough House, where they attended divine service with the Prince and Princess of Wales. The Queen stayed within Buckingham Palace for the rest of the day.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Most of the churches in the United Kingdom celebrated the announcement that King Edward was out of danger with informal thanksgiving services, special music and the singing of the national anthem.

THE QUEEN TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Washington, July 5.—The President has received the following telegram from Queen Alexandra:—

"London, July 4.—The President, Washington.—The King is most grateful for kind sympathy. He is, thank God, getting on very favorably now. (Signed) Alexandra."

CHEERS FOR THE KING.

Travemunde, Germany, July 5.—After awarding the prizes to the winners in the North German Association Yacht races here today, Emperor William read a telegram from King Edward's physicians announcing that His Majesty was out of danger, and called for three cheers for the King, which was heartily given.

TRACEY ESCAPES.

Seattle, July 6.—Harry Tracey, the Oregon convict, has escaped from the vicinity of Seattle and crossed the Sound to Fort Madison, where he bound and gagged four people, cooked and ate a meal, shaved, changed his head-dress and impressed a man to row a boat. He departed in the direction of the Hood's Canal country.

BARN BURNED

Anthony Faubert's barn and cattle sheds on the Dover-Chatham Township town line was burned to the ground Saturday night. Neighbors succeeded in saving the surrounding buildings. The barn and sheds were out clean but the other buildings were untouched. The hard work of the neighbors was responsible for the buildings being saved. It is thought spontaneous combustion was the cause. Mr. Faubert carried very little insurance and will sustain quite a loss. The place is about three miles out and the sky was brightly lit up between ten and eleven o'clock Saturday night.

NEW PASTOR ASSUMES CHARGE AT PARK STREET CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Cobblestick Preached an Able Gospel Discourse—A Short Sketch of His Busy Life—An Earnest and Eloquent Speaker.

Rev. G. H. Cobblestick, M. A., B. D., who preached his introductory sermon in Park St. Methodist Church yesterday, is a man of medium stature and middle life and has an easy platform style of delivery, making clear his points and exhibiting a sequence of thought easy to follow. He is well known throughout Ontario as one of the leaders in young people's work, having been President of the London Conference Epworth League the last two years. At the International Epworth League Convention in San Francisco last summer he was the Canadian speaker in the mass meeting for civic righteousness.

The Sabbath School and Bible Class assembled in the church yesterday afternoon to greet their new pastor, and addresses of welcome were given by the assistant superintendent, Mr. Austin, and the teacher of the Bible Class, Dr. Thornton, to which Mr. Cobblestick replied, giving them as a motto, "The whole Church in the Church and the whole Church in the School."

The morning sermon was on Joshua vi. 13-14, on the subject, "The Light and the Shadow."

It is very instructive to note how all the great struggles of late years—the South African war, the Cuban war, the Philippines, are leading to one great event, and it does not seem probable that in the very near future all the kingdoms of the world will be brought within the pale of Christian law.

There is a vast difference between a church of saved men and women and one of saviours of men and women. This captain leads not an army of occupation, but of conquest. The great need is that each individual in the church shall have his vision.

The security against loss of soul for worldly ideals and things is prompt obedience to the heavenly vision. We are told how readily was Joshua's submission. No sooner had the man of vision revealed his identity than Joshua fell on his face to the earth and cried,—"What saith my Lord unto His servant?"

The man was before Joshua when he looked up. The silent presence of Christ is the great fact in the world today. He has come almost unobserved into the scene in every department of the life of our age. Already the competent judges have discovered that the deepest life of the century that has closed has not after all been in the advance of physical science and that comes to a good man on the path of duty," and was heard with deep interest by the congregation. At the close a large number welcomed their new pastor, expressing their pleasure in securing him, which at one time appeared doubtful. Following is an outline of the sermon:

Rev. Mr. Cobblestick divided his first sermon into three parts yesterday morning at Park St. Church.

While Joshua was out making a reconnaissance of the fortress, and brooding over his plans for taking it, his attention was suddenly attracted to a large, armed figure, which towered above him, in fighting attitude. It matters not whether we consider the vision to have been an actual appearance in physical form of a heavenly visitant, or a mental conception visible only to the eye of the mind. It is agreed that it was one of those divine manifestations of light and leading, which occur at intervals through Old Testament times, and are commonly supposed to have been anticipatory appearances of that later perfect manifestation in Christ. As Christ was not a man until born in Bethlehem there would seem good reason for thinking it was not a man, but the appearance of a man which Joshua saw. If God did condescend to use the physical, it was only as a means to reach the higher part of him to whom he spoke, and if he chose to approach direct to the part of man most akin to himself, there would seem no reason to regard it as any less real. One thing is clear, that we are not limited to our physical vision. The blind poet, Milton, saw more than other men with their sight.

It has often happened that the vision has not been understood at first. That which in Angelo's great painting, The Sistine Madonna, when seen from a distance appears to be clouds, proves upon nearer view to be angel faces. But whatever the appearance of the vision faith recognizes it as at least divine significance and seeks to understand it.

This was what Joshua did of the overshadowing figure. He asks, "Art thou for us or for our adversaries?" The most he hoped for was to find his visitor a powerful ally. Imagine his surprise and joy to hear the reply, "Nay, but as Captain of the Host of the Lord am I now come."

This takes the great responsibility of leadership off Joshua's shoulders, and pointing to this new era in our world's history as a crisis hour says: "Now shall the kingdoms of this world be made the kingdoms of your Lord." Too many people, I am afraid, are like the gentleman who, at the close of a service, approached Dr. John Hall, of the Fifth Ave. Presbyterian Church in New York and expressed his desire to unite with the church. Upon Dr. Hall's explaining to him that theirs was a working church and asking him in what department of its activities he wished to be placed, he was quite embarrassed and said in a half hesitant way, "I can't say I care for any special sort of work. I just wanted to join to attend the services and hear you preach."

"Well," replied the Doctor, "you have struck the wrong church; the one you are looking for is a little further up Fifth Ave. It is the Church of Heavenly Rest."

Before the last hymn Mr. Cobblestick said a few words of greeting. He said it was always an important day when a new minister came, for the people were naturally anxious to know what sort of pastor they were to have. They had lost, he believed, one of the best men in the conference. He did not expect to fill his place, but would just try to fill his own. He would ask their forbearance in his learning to associate several thousands of names and faces while they learned one. The affection and co-operation of his people.
