HAVE "WEATHER SENSE."

Australian Bushmen Have Gift of Prophesy as to Seasons.

One of the most remarkable instances of science learning from sav-agery and instinct is that which is of everyday occurrence in Australia.
The Australian natives are expert weather prophets. It is a gift that can hardly be called instinct, inasmuch as they form their judgment from a thousand and one signs about them, such as the average white would not notice. The appearance of the trees, the length of the stalk of certain reeds, the actions and doings of native animals, insects and reptiles and fish; in short, a thousand and one signs, the purport of which they have learned by long experiences of observation, constitute their stock in trade as weather prophets.

Years ago, in the days of the old Botany Bay settlement, the English learned to appreciate the "weather sense" of the natives and later, when the colony became civilized and weather stations were established here and there over the country, the best native weather prophets were employed as members of the staff.
Many stories are related of their wonderful powers of foresight.

In Australia the conditions are such that it would be desirable if the meteorologists could foretell the weather six to eight months in advance, something which no weather forecaster is able to accomplish, twenty-four hours being the longest period at which he can or will venture a forecast.

But the native weather doctors do not hesitate to predict what will occur six months to a year ahead, and what is most remarkable, they hit it correctly more often than one would expect.

There is a story current that several years ago the sheep farmers and winemakers in a certain quarter of Australia were much wrought up, thinking the year would be followed by a severe drought.

The Weather Bureau men held the same opinion, but would not, of course, venture any prognostications so far ahead. Yet, while the confident that the next year would bring death to the herds and flocks, an old native weather prophet attached to the station shook his head, declaring that he had serious doubts of such a thing happening.

Prevailed upon to set his wife to work, he gathered together provisions and set forth into the desert, saying he was going to consult the signs and would return in about a month. Where he went or what he did no one knew, but at the end of the month he returned, declaring that the white men were all fools and that, instead of drought, the next season would be unusually rainy. No one believed him, but, sure enough, when next season arrived more rain fell than had been experienced in years.

In dry, arid countries like Australia it is oftentimes easier to forecast weather than in others. Plant life has adapted itself to the conditions, and by studying the growth from year to year one might possibly in time learn the significance of the short or long growth of plants.
Doubtless, after leaving the station the old weather prophet went direct to some out of the way locality where grew some particular plant, where there was in no other part of the region, which during seasons preceding a wet or dry spell forecast weather events by some peculiarity of growth or structure not noticeable to a white person, but plain enough to the native.

Funs and Promotions.

Canon Melville, who died the other day in his ninety-second year, owed his earliest promotion to a pun, affirms a London paper. When the late Earl of Dudley, who knew Mr.
Melville sufficiently to remember that his Christian name was David, had a living at his disposal, he received a letter containing only the words, "Lord, remember David." The Earl's reply was no less terse and Scriptural: "Thou art the man!" Perhaps the earliest instance of ecclesiastical promotion won by a pun is that of a curate named Joseph, who was prompted by Swift to take this text for a sermon preached in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, before the Viceroy, "Butler, the Duke of Ormonde." "Yet did not the chief butler remember Joseph but forgot him." The Rev. Dr. Mountain, who was the son of a beggar, owed nearly every step of his successive promotions in great part to his facetiousness, and won the last step of all by a single jest. When he was consulted, as to the fittest person to fill the vacant archiepiscopal see of York he replied: "Sir, hadst thou faith as a grain of mustard seed thou wouldst say to this Mountain (archiepiscopally striking his breast), 'Be thou removed and cast into this sea' (see)." That George II. should so understand and appreciate the joke as to accept its suggestion is perhaps the strangest part of the story.

He Did Not Bite.

There is a new London story about Charles Darwin.
"Two English boys," said Miss Lester, "being friends of Darwin, thought one day that they would play a joke on him. They caught a butterfly, a grasshopper, a beetle and a centipede, and out of these creatures they made a strange, composite insect. They took the centipede's body, the butterfly's wings, the grasshopper's legs and the beetle's head, and they glued them together carefully. Then, with their new bug in a box, they knocked at Darwin's door.
"We've caught this bug in a field," they said. "Can you tell us what kind of a bug it is, sir?"
"Darwin looked at the bug and smiled slightly. Then, with their new bug in a box, they knocked at Darwin's door.
"Did it hum when you caught it?" he asked.
"Yes," they answered, nudging one another.
"Then," said Darwin, "it is a humbug."

What She Wore.

Travers—These goes Peterby's wife.
He's the fellow I played poker with the other night. Jagway—She looks pretty well dressed. Travers—She ought to be. She's got on my last week's salary.

The Difference.

One—Are you certain that you love the girl? Tuther—Certain? Why, I can't sleep nights for thinking about her. One—That's odd. I get the same effect from my tailor's bills.—Judge.

HOW'S THIS?

pation.

Conflicting Considerations.

"Don't you sometimes think you ought to give more heed to what po-terity will think of you?"
"My dear sir," answered Senator Sorghum, "it's risky. You are in danger of letting it absorb your attention and forgetting what the assessors and the voters and the political bosses may think of you."

PNEUMONIA IS FILLING THE HOSPITALS.

Every day we hear of some one being taken with pneumonia. The only preventive is to get strong and keep your body healthy. Take Ferrozone, which makes the rich, red kind of blood that nourishes and stimulates the entire system. "I was all run down and an apt subject for pneumonia," writes A. B. Charters, of Burlington, "when I tried Ferrozone.
I didn't believe it was possible for Ferrozone to build me up so quickly.
In a few days my appetite improved, my color came into my cheeks and I regained my old-time vigor through using Ferrozone." Try Ferrozone, it assures health. Price 50c.

A Dead Circus.

Grandpa—Well, Sammy, where have you been today? Sammy (just back

We've been to a dead circus.

FOOLS USE WASHES AND SNUFF.

Thinking perhaps they will cure Cattarrh, but no one ever heard of a genuine cure following such senseless frivolities. There is just one prompt and thorough cure for Catarrh, and it is fragrant, healing Catarrhazone, which goes right to the root of the trouble. It destroys the germs, heals the inflamed membranes and cures any case no matter how obstinate or long standing. I am experienced for years with Catarrh remedies, but found Catarrhazone the most rational and satisfactory," writes W. J. Mc-Eachern, of Waterville. "It cured me for all time." For a sure cure use only Catarrhazone. Complete outfit, $1.00; trial size 25c.

Wives of Russian Priests.

A White Russian priest must be married, but he cannot marry a second time. If his wife dies he must enter a monastery. Hence the Russians tell many stories of the extraordinary means to which the priests resort in guarding the health of their wives. If the priest's consort sneezes, a mild panic ensues in the household.

NEURALGIC HEADACHE IS US- UALLY

Attended with blinding pain, but relief comes quickly when Nerviline is applied, for it is the strongest pain-reliever in the world. "I consider Nerviline a most magical remedy for neuralgia. I am subject to violent attacks," writes Mrs. E. G. Harris, of Baltimore, but never worry if Nerviline is in the house. The prompt relief that Nerviline brings makes it priceless to me. A few applications never yet failed to kill the pain. I can also recommend Nerviline for stiffness in the joints and rheumatism." Try Nerviline yourself. Price 25c.

CORNS GROW BETWEEN THE TOES.

But can be cured without pain in one day by Putnam's Corn and Wart Extractor. This standard remedy never burns the flesh, it is entirely vegetable in composition and does not destroy the flesh. Use only Putnam's as it's the best.

ION HINTS.

Face Powder and Lavender Are Worn—Voles Checked and Plain.
A great deal of purple and of lavender are being used for street wear.
The fashions of the moment are not a little trying to the woman of generous proportions, but still she may have this consolation—the fullness beginning below instead of at the waist line rather takes away from the width of her hips and that also the plain front panel gives her a flat, straight front effect.

Plaid effects in voles are among the latest. Small pin checks are being imported in voles as well as in taffeta, and these are trimmed with rows of trimming in plain silk to match. A black and white checked vole seen recently was trimmed with chianti lace and made up over apple green silk.

The favorite sleeve of the moment is the half sleeve made in one piece with

TAILOR MADE COUTURE

the shoulder. This is worn with or without a tight fitting undersleeve, and the inside is lined with a lace ruffle.
The little loose gathered bolero of ample width, which has loose sleeves, is the smartest model for all this silk or mohair costumes. It is short enough to allow a wide belt to be seen. This is usually of a darker shade than the costume.

The cut shows a tailor made dress of lavender mohair trimmed with tiny black buttons and a white chemise.

NOVELTIES OF THE SEASON.

The Baby Hat—Long Shouldered Effects in Everything.

The baby hat made of lace ruffles has been so much copied in cheap materials that it will not be worn this summer by really smart women. In its place are semi-French sailor hats of shirred tulle lace and net combined with bands of tiny roses and French satin straw.
These come with an accentuated roll, which is greater on one side to allow for a feather, which is fastened under the brim. In some cases this feather passes over the crown and is then run through a slit in the brim, so that the tip rests on the hair.

The long shouldered effect is more conspicuous than ever and is seen even on shirt waist costumes. A recent ex-

CREPE DE CHINE WAIST.

ample in checked silk had the upper part of the sleeve run into a broad atop, which was then extended into the collar.

The cape effect has practically gone out of fashion, although a few modified forms are seen on imported gowns. principally, though in the designs of yokes stitched down to within an inch or two of the edge.

The Dutch lace cap for night wear is quite the latest fashionable fad, which must not be confounded with the nightcap of our grandparents. It is composed of silk brocade finished round the face with a ruching of ribbon, while the lower part has a frill of old lace, one of its special features being that it gives to the hair the subtlet fragrance imaginable, merely a suggestion of a perfume. The scent comes from a special oil, the preparation of which is a secret, and is laid on a specially treated thin material, which is placed between the two layers of silk of which this cap is composed.

The picture shows a waist made of Irish lace and bias bands of crepe de chine.
