SELECTING MEMORIALS

Man has always been a maker of memorials. He desires to be so in a manifestation of his innate craving for immortality. From the very earliest times he has aspired to keep alive at least the memories of great men, or of great deeds, or of outstanding events. The Greatest of Teachers did not neglect this elemental phase of human character and one of the most beautiful services of the Christian Church was founded as a memorial. With this end in view, too, men have created, often with a tremendous expenditure of labor, many different kinds of commemorative monuments. In most instances, these structures have long been of historic value. The pyramids and obelisks of Egypt, the sculptured friezes and other forms of architecture of the Greeks and Romans and the altars erected by the ancient Israelites, each and all proclaimed in unmistakable terms the character and spirit of the men who erected them; quite as much as they kept alive the memories of the objects they were designed to commemorate.

During the past six months, very much has been said and written about memorials that will most fittingly call to the mind of future generations the splendid deeds of sacrifice performed throughout the war. To do this in the fullest and noblest sense, the memorials should possess characteristics that will symbolize the spirit that animated the men who fought and died. It is left for those who sacrificed in a lesser degree, or sacrificed not at all, to determine how these characteristics are to be exemplified.

The greater number of the memorials so far suggested are designed with a view to their being of service to the communities in which they will be erected. The time when it was customary to place bronze effigies of soldiers on granite pillars as an excuse for forgetting deeds of valour is happily past. At the same time the building of hospitals, schools, halls, libraries, churches and other community institutions for memorial purposes should be more than expression of a materialistic age. Such institutions may be of deep and lasting service, or they may be merely utilitarian. Such structures can be memorials in any real sense only, if those who erect them have felt deep within them the spirit of service and have given adequate thought to the visible embodiment of that spirit. Further, there is a danger that these, of themselves, will in time lose their glamour. To prevent this it will be desirable to hold patriotic festivals in them on the anniversaries of the great battles of the war in which special attention should be paid to the spirit of service as well as to the memory of men and women who transcribed their conception of service in terms of supreme sacrifice.

It is essential that memorials, whatever their form, should convey something of the beauty and courage and love of country that inspired the heroic deeds. It is important that they should be well and truly built, so that centuries hence they will recall these deeds to men and women and create in them a desire to cherish the memories of those who died in a Titanic struggle for human freedom. In any case, it should be realized that future generations will be in a position to judge with unflinching accuracy whether the motives that prompted the building of the memorials were worthy ones or merely shame.—A.D.

MOTOR AMENDMENTS

The various amendments to the Ontario Motor Vehicles Act have become effective.

The new regulations include many important changes, with which every automobile owner should be well acquainted. The rate of speed is probably the most frequent infraction of the act by the motorist. Instead of the rate of 15 miles per hour, the amendment allows 20 miles upon any highway within the city, town or village, and outside the city limit, and towns at not a greater rate of speed than 25 miles per hour.

Provision is also made for reckless driving; muffling the exhaust; the use of a mirror; licensing chauffeurs; award on conviction of person stealing motor vehicles; prohibition as to letting or hiring; record of second hand vehicles bought, sold, etc.; prohibition as to buying where serial number is obliterated; report to Department as to where car is stored; onus of disproving negligence, etc.

Although you are a piano student join an orchestra or chorus. Attend vocal and violin recitals and concerts. Don't let yourself grow narrow, in a musical sense.

If you want a musical game try a "Scale Bee". It's like a spelling match. Two leaders choose up sides. Whenever one person fails to play the scale called for she is obliged to take her seat. The scales must be played evenly and accurately in both notes and fingering. The one who stays up the longest gets the prize.

Describing one of the Indian war dances a musician said it had the remarkable range of one note over two octaves, beginning on a high A and ending on a low G. Most of the intervals were falling thirds which historians tell us is the first intervals to be distinguished by the primitive mind.

MONTHLY MILK REPORT

The Following is the Monthly Office

Milk spoils very quickly. It should be pasteurized readily. It should not be placed in an ice box in an open vessel. Bottles containing the baby's milk should always be kept covered and should and must be kept cool; otherwise it will spoil. All Toronto's milk is pasteurized. The value of this process is well illustrated by an occurrence in Ontario. A dairy farm was shipping 60 gallons of milk per day to the city of Berkeley. Recently the head milkster on the dairy farm came ill with typhoid fever, yet went on with his regular work for a week before was so sick that he could give in. The ninety gallons of milk which the Richmond was bottled in that and delivered to customers, with being pasteurized and caused a typhoid epidemic. The 600 gallons shipped Berkeley were pasteurized and bottled and delivered in the usual way caused no cases of typhoid fever ever.

Here is a unique experiment human beings, accidental, of demonstrating conclusively that pasteurization gives milk consumer not only from typhoid but from other diseases as well. The milk dealers of Toronto shown a fine spirit in co-operation with the Health Department regarding the handling of milk the time it leaves the cow-unt comes to your doorstep. Because is true, the milk man leaves at home a bottle of clean, safe, cool milk. It is then up to the housewife to keep the milk as long as possible in as good condition as it was when she received it. Here are some things that you
