Colborne.

The Sunday School in connection with Bethel Church held a picnic at Foster's Flats, Oct. 4th. The weather was glorious, and the refreshments were home, after visiting friends in Toronto, Port Hepe, Cobourg, and Millbrook.

The barn and stables belonging to Mr. Duncan McLaren were on Thursday morning destroyed by fire and also con-siderable grain. Five horses in the stable were with much difficulty saved. We hear it was insured for six hundred them.

While working as the sawmill one day last week A. C. MacDonald had one of his fingers badly cut with a chisel. He is progressing nicely under the skilful care of our Sick Committee.

Alex. Donaldson, of Saltford, is attached to our architect's staff, who finished the Bethany church at Porter's Hill, left Thursday, the 17th inst.

Miss Mary McQuarrie, we regret to learn, was called to Bay City, Mich., on the 17th inst., to see her sister, Mrs. Thompson, who is very ill.

Rev. The lecture was both instructive and interesting. Of especial merit was the lecturer's description of the mammoth cave.

Talk about being 'busy as a nailer.'
Why: we are of the opinion that this phrase should be changed into 'busy as a tailor;' at least if all tailors are as busy as D. G. McBeath, of this place is, the latter phrase would the correct one, the latter phrase would be considered to the correct one, the latter phrase would be considered to the correct one, the latter phrase would be considered to the correct one, the latter phrase would be considered to the correct one, the latter phrase would be correct one. and would soon generate into a proverb. In fact Mac is so very busy and is kept so closely to his table, that it is beginning to tell seriously on the nethermost part of his unmentionables, but he don't mind that. His sole ambition is to turn out sults in the lastest style and best of workmanship, and the fact that he has a stack of orders on hand, and that many of the bloods of Ripley, and even Lucknow, come to him proves that he succeeds. Efforts have been made to get Mr. McBeath to move to Kintail, Ripley, and other places, but he thinks Ripley, and other places, but he thinks Canadian politics, apart from its excel-that more than sufficient is enough for lence as a local journal. Long may it anybody, and is therefore resolved to live and continue to prosper. - [Clio remain where he is.
