The Evening Chit-Chat

By MUTE CAMERON

"We received the news the other day that one of the prettiest and most charming girls of our acquaintance was about to announce her engagement. "I must say I'm disappointed in Gertrude," said the one who brought the news.

"Why?" we asked. "Why, to think she's going to marry him."

"What's the matter with him? I thought he seemed like a nice, clean chap when I met him and he certainly is good looking, and they say he has good prospects."

"Oh, yes," conceded the one who brought us the news, "I know all that, but what I mean is that he's been born and brought up right there in that little town and she's known him all her life."

"With all her education and her opportunities for meeting people, I thought Gertrude would marry some one from a distance, some one more out of the ordinary."

What a queer point of view. And yet what a common one! And incidentally not inherently modern. Listen to this from Middlemarch:

"Ever since that important new arrival in Middlemarch Rosamond had woven a little future of which something like this scene was the necessary beginning. Strangers whether wrecked and clinging to a raft, or duly escorted and accompanied by portmanteaus, have always had a circumstantial fascination for the virgin mind against which native merit has urged itself in vain. And a stranger was necessary to Rosamond's social romance which had always turned on a lover and a bridegroom who was not a Middlemarcher. "Apparently this prejudice against finding lovers in one's townsmen, one's neighbours whose lives one knows to be honest and straight, whose habits one knows are conformable to one's own, and whom one has cared for in a fine friendly way all one's life, is as old as feminine nature. And as foolish."

I am always glad when I hear that two people who have been good friends all their lives find their friendship merging into love, because I think there is so much more than the ordinary probability that they are going to be happy.

You see, there are so many less disconcerting surprises awaiting each of them. There are so few unexpected corners in temperament and disposition to which each will have to get accustomed. They have seen each other in the daylight of friendship before ever they entered the moonlight of love and have each that much better chance of knowing what they are taking "for better or for worse till death do us part."

"But such a love affair is so unromantic," you complain.

Ah, my dear, that just shows that you don't know what romance is. It seems to me that the highest, finest romance is not that of circumstance or situation, of strange coincidence or love at first sight. The most wonderful romance, to me, is the romance of a beautifully complete mating, the romance of a love so well grounded—so deep, tender, true and so well grounded in friendship—that it lasts. If I were a great artist and were asked to paint a picture to be called "Romance," I think I should paint two old folks with the love light still in their eyes."

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making material, condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM—it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in Plain English; or, Medicine Simplified, 1008 pages, over 700 illustrations, newly revised, up-to-date Edition, paper-bound, sent for 31 one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound, 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

Silver-gray is one of the most talked of colors at present in Paris, having representation in millinery, dress accessories and suit and dress fabrics. Afternoon tailormades will not be confined to velvets alone, as velour de laine, corduroy, peau de soies and whiplords are also modish and luxurious.

Black velour will probably be the most important fabric of the season in coats, because it will be used not only for street coats, but for evening wear.

Velvet long coats, or overcoats, as they are called by the smart modistes, are made in both the severe style and elaborated with braid and other trimmings.

ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS

And find out if you have kidney disorders—Also make this test.

Have you pains in the back over the kidneys?

Have you urinary disorders?

Do you suffer from severe headaches, dizziness or defective eyesight?

Is the skin dry and harsh?

Are you failing in health and strength and suffering from rheumatic pains or swelling of the limbs?

These are a few of the symptoms of kidney disease, and here is the test.

If the urine after standing for twenty-four hours is cloudy, milky or has particles floating about in it, or if there is a sediment in the bottom of the vessel, your kidneys are diseased.

There is no time to lose in beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They will help you more quickly than any treatment you can obtain, and that is one reason why they are so successful and popular.

Dr. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

cuff are striking features at the present time and doubtless will become even more pronounced as the season advances. Large collars in round, pointed or hood effects are much in evidence. These are usually finished off with long, narrow revers, ending below the waist line.

Fine handkerchief linen and batiste frills are shown with trimmings of Valenciennes. Very attractive effects are brought out in fine net, with point d'esprit ruffles. Accessories of this sort can be worn on both dressy and plain garments.

Undersleeves with one, two or even three sleeve ruffles are somewhat a feature. An attractive arrangement is to attach three frills of lace or net to a sleeve, two to hang down and one to extend upward, frequently with a ribbon band and bow between to keep it upright.

Brocades make the most luxurious evening coats of the hour.

Topcoats for motoring, travel and street wear are mostly of the double-faced fabrics that look so woolly and yet are so light weight that they tailor or most successfully into the new and graceful modes.

This season there is not one decided favorite in suit fabrics. Cheviots have been woven in such unique diagonal and basket weaves that these can scarcely realize that these smart suitings are of the cheviot class. Bouche cloth has also been woven in new and more fuzzy weaves. Indeed, some are quite like homespun.

The Largest Shop.

New Palatial Premises of Messrs. Whiteley, Ltd.

The largest shop in England—the new premises of "Whiteley's"—will be opened to the public on Tuesday, November 21. It is more like a palace than a shop. Four acres of ground fronting Queen's road have been covered. The extent of the new building may be gauged from the following figures concerning it: 24 passenger lifts, 164 flights of stairs, 800 telephone stations, 2,110 show cases, 1,050 arc lamps, 12,100 incandescent lamps, 115 departments, 5,000 employees, 16 acres of shopping space, 4 acres of storage space.

The heads of the firm have travelled through Europe, through America, and in Asia in order to obtain the best ideas for the new arrangements. For instance, the scheme of soft, shaded electric light comes from Paris; and an Italian roof garden is to be established. A playground for children will also be found on the roof.

Another feature of the new premises will be an information bureau where customers will be able to obtain answers to practically any question connected with modern life.

Fight With a Lion.

Major Powell-Cotton, the well-known English explorer, has had many exciting adventures, but his narrowest escape was from a lion on the banks of the Lassa River, near Lake Albert Edward. The country was infested by lions, who played round the camp every night, and always disappeared before daybreak, but one morning the explorer saw a very large solitary male making his way back to the jungle, and cutting him off, fired, wounding the beast badly.

The animal managed to get into the brushwood where it was almost hidden, and an hour and a half later Major Powell-Cotton, thinking the lion too badly wounded to move, approached, accompanied by some of his men, who threw mud at the beast. Suddenly the lion gave a loud roar, and charged, open-mouthed, at Major Powell-Cotton, who was only a few yards distant. The latter instantly fired both barrels, but failed to stop the lion, and turning to his bearer for another gun found that he had bolted. There was no time to reload, so Major Powell-Cotton hurled the gun into the lion's face and turned to run.

As he did so the wounded animal sprang, and, digging its claws into Major Powell-Cotton's back and legs, tore him to the ground.

While the explorer lay almost crushed under the animal, one of the porters rushed at the lion and hit him on the head with a stick, the Vaganda headman slashing the animal across the eyes with a whip. This diverted the beast's attention, and at that moment an Askari shot him dead. It was then found that Major Powell-Cotton had received seven wounds.

Why Not be Well and Strong

When weak and run down DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you back to health.

This letter tells of two women who have proven this.

Mrs. D. Stott, Cobourg, Ont., writes: "After recovering from typhoid fever I was left in a very low state of health. I was weak, nervous and not fit to do any work. A friend of mine, Mrs. G. M. Brown, had used Dr. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD and told me that it benefited her wonderfully. I took courage and began the use of the medicine. After taking the first box I began to feel an improvement in health and now after using four boxes I am completely cured. I now feel like myself once more and believe that I can attribute the cure to Dr. CHASE'S Nerve Food."

Life is too short to spend weeks or months dragging out a miserable existence of weakness and suffering. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by forming new rich blood and building up the system. You can depend on it to benefit you, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
