tention of reducing the attendance of the titled class. The order has been issued a long time in advance of the ceremony, in order to facilitate the arrangements for providing seats in the abbey and apportioning the space required for the peers and peeresses. Court officials insist upon having an early reckoning of the number entitled to witness the coremony the shift to witness the ceremony. The abbey authorities will have nothing to do with the seating arrangements, and even the ritual itself will be revised at court. Rumors that incense will be used and that various practices re-cently condemned by the archbishops will be introduced are premature. The influence of Queen Alexandra may be exerted in favor of some innovations, but probably the consecration service employed at the last ceremonies will be closely followed.

THE KING'S HEALTH. the King's heaith may not be groundless, but it is at least premature. He is in no immediate danger when a medical adviser has been summoned to treat him for lumbago or rheumatism. The court circular, when Queen Victoria was living, contained minute accounts of her daily drives and recreations, and her subjects could always judge for themselves whether she was well or sick. The King has quietly changed this practice without exciting much comment. The court circular is now a record of functions of state events, and visitors of exceptional importance, and it is published intermittingly, and contains little personal intelligence of the King's daily life. He has not considered it necessary to take his subjects into his confidence respecting the minor details of daily exercise and amusement. For this reason royalty is more closely screened from observation than it was during the Victorian reign, and rumor mongers have larger resources for creating alarm. The King is not believed to be seriously indisposed by those who have access to court or are in touch with diplomatic circles. At the same time it is probable that he has been nervous and apprehensive respecting his throat ailment, and that the physicians have found it difficult to rehas brought the government under the fire of political guerillas. The min-isters are reproached for taking holidays, neglecting their work and accepting with credulous facility assurances from their civil and military advisers that everything is going well in South Africa. Mr. Brodrick has been constantly at the war office, and has a passion for work and red fault with him for taking too favorable a view of the progress of the war, nor is it reasonable for them to infer that the ministers, by holding weekly councils, could have forestalled Gen. Botha's raid in Zululand and Commandant Delarey's return to the had been repeatedly cleared.

DEWET AND DELAREY. The two Boer generals have conceald their purposes and made effective demonstrations a fortnight after the expiration of the time limit of Lord Kitchener's proclamation, and a similar raid by Gens. Dewet and Steyn may be expected daily as an ironical reminder that the war which the Aldershot tacticians imagined would be a holiday parade has entered upon its third year. Criticism of Lord Kitch-ener, Lord Milner and the ministers for lack of foresight in forecasting Boer activity is futile. The Boer remains at the end, as he was at the beginning of the war, a unique adversary with terrible persistence, who succeeds in reversing every tradition of military experience, and brings to naught every prediction and calcula-

CHANCE FOR THE LIBERALS. If the Liberals were united, and not demoralized, there would be destructive criticism in the place of guerilla attacks upon Lord Kitchener, Lord Milner, Mr. Brodrick and Mr. Cham-berlain. As it is, there is ineffective fault-finding by the press, and noth-ing is accomplished. The military staff is reproached for not following up the shattered columns of Botha and Delarey after his defeats, and is bluntly told that what it is doing is neither war nor business. There is a feeling or widespread dissatisfaction in regard to the conduct of the war. The Unionist press, while reflecting it, cannot perform the functions of a wellled opposition. Mr. Kipling is more effective when he condemns with fine irony the acceptance of imaginary corps and imaginary generals as a serious addition to the national defenses, and interprets the recent appointment of Sir Redvers Buller, Sir Evelyn Wood and the Duke of Connaught as evidence that the army machine has been hauled back into the old ruts of impotence, pretense and

There is a well-founded conviction that incompetent generals have been cess of British arms and penitence protected by social influence and the for national sins, has been reprotected by social influence and the for Aidershot gang. But neither the min-listry nor the war office is imperiled by he openly suggests therein imitation istry nor the war office is imperiled by the present conditions of criticism. Buller has been attacked with great vehemence, but has not even taken the trouble to conceal his con-tempt for the newspaper warriors. The inaptitude of the war office is matched by that of the critics themselves, and he genuine reformers in the army consider the outlook for a radical reorganization hopeless. Some of them assert that royalty alone can bring about a permanent reform, and are hoping for the Duke of Connaught as commander-in-chief.

The most unexpected incident was the attack upon Mr. Kipling by the Bishop of Calcutta for creating the erroneous impression of the conduct of Europeans in India. The Bishop of London sprang promptly to Mr. Kipling's defense, and thereby earned the gratitude of the literary society, with whom his predecessor was deservedly popular. Bishop Weldon was a good schoolmaster at Harrow, but could hardly have learned India by a hasty cramming process in the course of two years.

THE RELIGIOUS EXODUS. A Paris correspondent says: "The exodus of the religious congregations that refuse to comply with the terms of the law of July 1, which came into application on Thursday, furnished in-teresting and pathetic spectacles at the railway stations, where groups of Carmelites, Assumptionists, Benedictines, Jesuits and White Fathers, in their picturesque mediaeval costumes The public apprehension respecting of white, black or brown, gather on the King's health may not be ground-Ninety per cent of the exiles have seected England as their refuge, and it s significant that these same recalcitrant congregations during the Dreyfus agitation nourished and fostered the most bitter outbreaks of hostile and offensive criticism of the English. They are now seeking and obtaining British hospitality. EFFECT OF WALDECK-ROUSSEAU LAW.

There can be no doubt that, not-withstanding the strong hold that Catholicism still has in France, the overwhelming majority of the French people approve the Waldeck-Rousseau law regulating the religious associations. It appears that out of a total of 16,468 establishments, 5,141 have applied for authorization, while 11,327 have made no application—that is to say, approximately one-third of all the religious establishments in France have found it quite possible to carry on their pontifical secretary of state. Baschiwork under the changed conditions, while the other two-thirds persist in an attitude of uncompromising resistance. Among the applicants for authorization are 1,045 establishments of Sisters of St. Vincent De Paul and 1,-352 other female establishments. These sisters carry on works of pure humanity and beneficence, and the 5,141 establishments which accept the law conform to their type. The position There is much irresponsible talk of the majority of the recalcitrant 11.about the King's failing health, but it may be attributed mainly to the dedissolution for non-compliance, such as spondency and pessimism prevailing in the Jesuits, Passionists and Assump-England since the outbreak of the Boer | tionists, is at the opposite pole; they war. FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

Regarding the financial situation in Russia and the Franco-Russian alliance the correspondent says: The collapse of Russian securities, failures of Russian commercial banks Western Transvaal after Magaliesburg and the industrial crisis now prevailing in Russia, which can no longer be concealed by the censorship, have had a marked effect in financial circles in Paris, where the feeling is setting in that, notwithstanding the strong sympathy with the Russian alliance a limit must soon be put on the amount of credit to be accorded even to a friendly and allied nation, and Count Tolstoi's drastic denunciation of the Franco-Russian alliance, published in the Revue Blanche, has undoubtedly made a profound impression in France, where for many years Tolstoi has been regarded as a literary idol, and his utterances have been accepted almost with the weight of law. As a straw shows the way the wind is setting, it is significant that songs ridiculing the Russian alliance are already being sung at Fursy's Boite, at Mont Martre, and its branch establishment, the Treteau de Tabarin.

Nevertheless, at present rate of ex-penditure, the deficit for the fiscal year will be £69,724,000, while the sixty millions of new consols, with which it was expected to meet the deficit, realized, at 941/2, £56,700,000, leaving a net deficit, which must be provided for by fresh appropriations, of £13,000,000. THE ANARCHISTS

One of Them Threatened the Lives of the Pope and Cardinal Rampolla.

Rome, Oct. 7.-Glavinovitch, an anarchist, who recently arrived here from Dalmatia, has been arrested. He had been heard to threaten the lives of the pope and of Cardinal Rampolla, eri, another anarchist, has been arrested in Milan.

Washington, Oct. 7.-Representative W. B. Shattuc, of Ohio, chairman of the immigration committee of the house, saw the president Saturday in regard to a bill which he will introduce on the reassembling of Congress, having for its object the suppression of anarchistic literature and speeches in this country. Mr. Shattuc said that the proposed measure would be drastic as possible, and a strong effort would be made to cecure for it the support of all parties.

London, Oct. 7 .- A fairly numerous meeting of anarchists was held yesterday in a hall in Tottenham Court road, London, to hear a lecture on the assassination of President McKinley by H. Kelly, of New York. The audience, largely composed of foreigners, applauded all reference to "saint' Czolgosz and his "meritorious" act. The speakers included Enrico Malatesta, the Italian anarchist, who described the assassination as "a deed of heroism." Kelly's lecture was a wild harangue in denunciation of Mr. McKinley's political career. He declared that they did not try to justify assassination, but rather to explain it as the outcome of "the oppression of workmen by capital." "If the killing of McKinley opens the eyes of the capitalists and induces them to treat the working people better," cried the agitator, "then great good will have been done."

THAT $25,900,000 LOAN. Seattle, Wash., Oct. 5. -- An effort was made here to obtain from Marquis Ito a statement regarding the an-nouncement from London that Japan was about to procure a loan of 50,000,000 yen—equal to $25,000,000 in gold. Of this sum it was ascertained that 5,000,000 yen was to be expended in Formosa. Marquis Ito was asked point-blank whether or not his visit to the United States was in connection with the proposed loan. To this Secretary Trudzuki, speaking for Marsuis Ito, replied: "This is the first I have heard concerning the alleged desire of Japan to float a lean in the United States. I am hardly prepared to credit the authen-

Adrian, Mich., Oct. 7 .- A terrible accident occurred at the west warehouse of the Page Fence works Saturday afternoon. A gang of men were employed piling coils of wire some three feet in diameter bound into a mass about the size of a stove-pipe, and weighing about 200 pounds each. The tier next the wall was sixteen feet high, the second tier was lower, the third tier half way up, and the fourth tier about four feet high. The force were piling on to the second tier, standing on the first, and one was on a scaffold piling on the third tier.

TWO WERE KILLED. Without any warning the wire of the first tier began slipping, and immediately toppled over upon the men. Willard S. Bowen and Thomas Bee were caught and buried beneath a mass of tons of wire, both crushed and instantly killed. Bowen's face was crushed, his neck broken, and he was terribly mangled. He was a young man, and for five years he was stamp clerk at the postoffice. He leaves a widow and one child. Mr. Bee was a widower and an old

He then lost conscious ness, and it was half an hour befor he could be resuscitated.

FOUR TRAINMEN KILLED. Logansport, Ind., Oct. 6.-Four Pan-Handle Railway trainmen met deatl near Onward, fourteen miles southeast of here, this morning, in a rear-end collision of freight trains. The bodies of three of the dead were taken out, badly mutilated, but the fourth was almost entirely consumed by the flames, which broke out soon after he wreck, before the wrecking crev could subdue the fire permanently in that portion of the wreck where the bodies were located.

The dead are: R. Elbert Greely conductor; Thomas H. Brosius, flagman; S. A. Galbreath, brakeman; John Jutchinson, fireman. Injured: Frank Patterson, engineer.

During the night Conductor Weaver, in charge of a section of a train, consisting of an engine and two cabooses left Hartford for Logansport. In the rear cab were Galbreath, Brosius and Greely, who had been working on the gravel train at Hartford city, and who were en route to this city to spend Sunday with their families. Mrs. Seeley Makes an Ascension-Woman and Parachute Fell Into Illinois River.

La Salle, Ill., Oct. 7 .- Mrs. L. A. Seeey, an aeronaut known as Lillian Lewho has been one of the street fair attractions here, made a balloon ascension in this city about dusk, and up to a late hour no trace of her has When the ascent was made, L. A.

Seeley, husband of the aeronaut, followed the balloon in a wagon. He lowed the balloon in a wagon. He claims to have seen his wife make the parachute leap successfully at a point south of the Illinois River, near the Illinois Central bridge. The parachute and his wife, he said, descended slow-ly behind a grove of trees. This vicinity was thoroughly searched in vain.

Late in the afternoon the balloon was found in a pasture in Oglesby, one mile south of here. Mrs. Minnie Pierce, of Oglesby, who claims to have been an eye-witness to the descent, says the woman and the parachute landed in the river. The river was dragged a distance of several miles with no re-
