Owing to the present exodus of star
"soccer" players from Britain, Scottish club managers fear still a further exodus of players to the United States.
There may be nothing to it, but it does seem strange that more than one player has held up his club for more shekels.

A golfer who must surely be the lineal descendant of Sandy McKellar, admittedly the most enthusiastic golfer who ever lived, is R. H. Rawson of the West Bowling Golf Club, England. Rawson has kept a tabulated list of his matches during the year 1922. In that period he piazed 294 rounds, which meant practically a round every day in the year with the exception of Sundays and holidays. That, however, is considerably below his normal average, as during 1921 he played 443 rounds, and in 1920 374 rounds.

Timmy Cooney, the Milwaukee shortstop, has been playing such sensational ball that the major league scouts are even now watching his work.

It looks as if Dundee Hibs and Leith Athletic will figure in the Scottish second division next season. Dundee, like Aberdeen, is one of the best paying centers from a "soccer" standpoint in Scotland, and last season the fans had to be satisfied with one big game every two weeks. In Fannadice Park Hibs have a ground they need not be ashamed of.

The Army and Navy's protest will be discussed at the City Soccer League meeting which is being held tonight in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30.

A big lot of interest goes into tomorrow's game at St. Thomas between the senior amateurs representing the local metropolis and the team which bears the thriving suburb's colors, as the league lead is involved, and also quite a bit of private feeling between the two cities.

The fact that Madame Criqui supervises her husband's training has struck a bizarre note to American ears. Yanks naturally jump to the conclusion it might be more for publicity purposes than for uninterrupted domestic comfort that the gallant little Frenchman transferred his home from France to a cottage on Long Island. Yet this simple home-loving trait is very common to a people supposed to be emotional and unstable.

However, the persistent idea that helped to put Napoleon on St. Helena will likely prevail in the betting odds, since Kilbane is originally Irish.

A drama was played out in the game last week between the Giants and Cardinals when Bentley and Toney opposed each other. All spring Toney had been working with the idea of beating the Giants in New York, where he believed he had been given a raw deal by McGraw, who cast him adrift. He begged for the assignment; he was fit, and he wanted one remembrance to take out of baseball with him—the chance of having given McGraw the laugh. Fate stepped in, though, and Bentley, the $65,000 beauty, who was on the verge of being billed a lemon after his previous futile efforts, triumphed, while Toney, pitching with a grudge in his heart, tasted the "MOOSE" McCORMICK.

"Moose" McCOrmick, one of the greatest of pinch-hitters, is making good as basebail coach at Buckneil, and the Lewisburg collegians are piling up victory after victory. Two conquests over Penn State on the State diamond, followed by a victory at Pitt, put the Buckneil nine on a high pedestal, and the student body is back of it strong. The star of Buckneil's pitching staff is Alan Tarr, the former West Philadelphia high school lad, who will eventually join Connie Mack at the end of his college career. gall of defeat.

Cicotte, according to Grand Rapids reports, was barred from pitching an exhibition game with the Detroit Clowns against a Grand Rapids colored team, to which Owner Morrisey had granted park privileges. Morrisey took the stand that Cicotte could not even play where organized baseball is played. Cicotte, once the idol of Chicago fandom, boo-ed and hissed as he keeps on earning his living by pitching in these exhibition affairs, hardly commands the respect he might were he to take to the pick and shovel Easy money toppled him, and its lure still has its grip upon him.
