There has been some revival in the stock market in the past few days. Golden Cache is stiffening considerably, owing to outside demand, and Athabasca is coming forward as a favorite. On the Athabasca the ore looks better than ever; the tunnel on the ledge is in 75 feet, and an average assay at that depth made yesterday ran $114.50. Open cuts have been run along the ledge for 600 feet, the ledge being well defined for that distance. In one of the cuts there are twenty tons of ore, running far above the average. The Alberta claim is at present snow-bound, but shows a well defined eight-foot ledge carrying free gold. No ex; tensive work has yet been done on this claim. There are six other ledges on the property opened sufficiently to prove ore in place, carrying gold in paying quantities. On Mr. Rand's return from the East, Athabasca stock which could be secured for 17 or 18 cents previously jumped to 25, and is held firm at that

A sad accident occurred near Elk river on the 18th. Joseph Mott was returning from Kalispell with a load of supplies, and in coming down the grade near his home lost control of the team and ran up against a tree, being thrown from the wagon under the horses' feet. He was found shortly afterwards by Captain Thomas Flowers, but life was extinct. Mr. Mott settled at Elk river in July, coming from Columbia Falls, Montana, where he lived and was much respected. He was born in Perth county, Ontario. 20.00@32.00
