If you are building or going to complete some unfinished rooms, let us show you some colored samples, illustrating the beautiful color effects obtained by using this material. It is a durable board for walls and ceilings in all classes of buildings.

We carry a large stock in assorted sizes.

MAIL ORDERS

We solicit out of town orders which receive our personal attention. The length of time taken to fill orders is governed very largely by how busy we are in the department of our factory in which the particular goods are made. While we have exceptional facilities for promptly turning out goods, it is important to place orders as far ahead as possible. Orders are filled by us in the rotation in which they are received, and customers can always depend on our doing everything in our power to give prompt despatch.

SOLDIER'S TRIBUTE

TO 26TH BATTALION

"There is no Stopping That Bunch When They Get Started," Says Pte. Tufts

"Canada can well be proud of her sons in France," writes Pte. Frank A. Tufts, of No. 2 Canadian Pioneer Battalion, to his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Tufts, of 123 Acadia street. The letter is full of optimism and cheerfulness, and he says that the 26th Battalion stops at nothing, always taking what they set out to get. The letter is as follows:—
"Dear Mother:—I was speaking to a number of St. John boys recently and they are all well. I do not know how the 26th made out in the recent big fighting, but I think their losses were light. There is no stopping that bunch when they get started. They have always gotten what they went after. The bombardment was terrible. The Prussian Guards seem to be more favored than the other units of the enemy, as they were all dressed in full uniform and much better dressed than the others. It was pitiful to see one little fellow with his leg shattered, laying on a German Bible. No doubt you have heard of the new kind of armoured cars of the Allies. They are queer looking but they have the Huns guessing. One went through a village that the Germans were holding, and they started to throw bombs at it. They might just as well have kicked at it for all the harm they did with the bombs. Nothing stops it short of a brick wall, and it can blow it down and go on at that."
"Canada can well be proud of her sons in France. Once again they have made a good big haul of prisoners since I started this letter."

THE UNBEATABLE FACTOR

"Life" (New York):—Scold Great Britain by all means; but oh brethren try to do it with intelligence. "Beat in this war," is she? You will find, judge, that she is not only unbeatable, but unbeatable. Called upon to be all things to all men and Nemesis to Germany, she has slipped up in some particulars, but she is not only going still, but going strong, and she is today the one unbeatable factor in the allied combination.

Lawyer—Have you been tried for speeding before? Motorist—Uh-huh! Fifty or fifty times. Lawyer—Oh, that looks bad. You must be about broke.

THE DEATH OF

CAPT. R. K. SHIVES

"Accidental Death" Was the Verdict of the Coroner's Inquest

The Canada Gazette, London, in its issue of Oct. 5, says:—
"An inquest was held at Thetford on the body of Capt. Robert Kilgour Shives, 25, a flight commander of the Royal Flying Corps, who met his death the previous day through a gun accident. A verdict of accidental death was returned. Capt. Shives' home was at Campbellton, New Brunswick, Canada, and he had been wounded in the air in France. The evidence showed there were three spent cartridges, and the explosion shattered his head."

PTE. STEWART ADAMS

The many friends of the late Stuart Adams as well as citizens generally, regret to hear of his death at the front. He was at first reported as missing after a battle between the 15th and 17th September. Afterwards his father and mother were notified of the fact of his death. This young man, one of our own boys grown up among us, was only in his 23rd year. He enlisted at first with the 55th and after keeping him for seventeen days, he was turned down as physically unfit. He afterwards underwent an operation to fit him for enlistment in the 26th, with which he remained during his life. Stuart was enthusiastic in his ideas of prosecuting this war and determined to have a hand in doing so, having stated on more than one occasion that he would pay his own way over to England and enlist if he could not get there otherwise. He was in the thick of the fighting up to the last and his letters to his mother expressed the fact that he was "so tired." He had never had a day off after his enlistment with the 26th. When he asked for a day off he was told that men were too scarce—that he was needed and that he could not be permitted to have leave. He enlisted with the 26th on the 26th April, 1915, and from that date until his death he never had one day's leave of absence. He was a short life, but it was crammed full of obedience to duty and he died at his post. As we look at it from the observer's standpoint, surely there was some one of the many who, at England, Camp Borden, Valcartier, Sussex, or at the picture shows, along the streets, or even in the places of business who might have been found willing to take a hand in this struggle. It seems that the few who are willing are required to make efforts, greater efforts than their strength permits. We wish to honour the memory of this young man who stood firmly and faithfully at the post of duty, and when the Supreme Call came he was found as one "faithful unto death." Such is the stuff that historians deal with and in after years men will read with admiration and love the lives of our noble dead—from Campbellton—and particularly of this happy young life surrendered at the Call of Duty.

Artist (pointing to his very successful picture, "A Donkey")—"What do you really think of it, anyhow?" "Enthusiastic! Lovely! Lovely! And you have put so much of yourself into it, too!"

TO RAISE FUNDS FOR

26TH BATTALION

Young Ladies of Tipperary Club Will Hold Tag Day Saturday, Oct. 21st

In response to the appeal of Lt.-Col. A. E. G. McKenzie for funds to purchase extras for his gallant boys of the 26th Battalion, the young ladies of the Tipperary Club are to hold a tag day on Saturday, Oct. 21st. We trust that our citizens will respond liberally to this worthy purpose. The young ladies hope to have the money forwarded in time to reach Col. McKenzie so that he may be able to supply a special Christmas treat for his battalion. Campbellton should at least raise $500.00 for this purpose.

So when the young ladies confront you on Saturday, dig down deep and pay, pay, pay.

CURZON'S GLOWING

TRIBUTE TO CANADA

London, Oct. 17.—Speaking at the Etonians' luncheon to the Duke of Devonshire, Earl Curzon declared: "If there is any among the dominions of the crown that has established for itself the right to rank among the great nations of the earth, it is Canada. If there is any part of the British empire that is assured of a dazzling, and almost illimitable expansion in the future, it is Canada. If in this war there are any of our fellow subjects who in superlative degree might be said to have shown loyalty of loyal and bravery of brave, those are our fellow subjects from the dominion."

The Duke of Devonshire, replying, said that Canada had played her part in the war. He felt proud to think that he would be able to hear a message to the people of Canada of gratitude and heartfelt sympathy for the assistance they had rendered to the empire in the great struggle.

HOSPITAL COLLECTION

AT JACQUET RIVER

Recently a collection was taken up by the Misses Winton and Mrs. D. McAllister for the purpose of supplying a bed in the Princess Patricia Hospital for Wounded Canadian Soldiers in England. The people responded very generously and the handsome amount of $87.05 was realized. The surplus over and above the amount required for the purchase of the bed will be used in buying hospital supplies and Christmas gifts for the wounded soldiers. SAD TRAGEDY AT

MONCTON I. C. R. OFFICES

Drink Crazed Soldier Shoots and Kills Clerk He Had Never Seen Before

Moncton, Oct. 17.—The news of a tragedy swept over the city of Moncton like a flash of lightning this afternoon, and the crime seemed so incredible, it was scarcely at the outset believed. So far as can be learned Mr. John Fletcher Rogers, a clerk in the Accounting Department of the I. C. R., went to the vaults in the basement of the I. C. R. General Offices either to file or procure some papers. Those who saw him leave and go down, never imagined for one moment that was the last they were to see of him alive.

About the same time the Ocean Limited Express arrived from Halifax, and it was being disconnected to form the usual two trains, one going north and the other west.

A passenger on that train apparently was a soldier officer, whose name is believed to be Lieut. John E. Merrill, whose identification card gives him as an officer in the 10th Battalion (King's Own Regiment) England. On the train he gave evidences of being crazed by drink.

On reaching Moncton, under the influence of drink, he left the train and found his way across the green in front of the I. C. R. General Offices.

Those acquainted with the building will know that there are stone steps leading to the main floor, and through there is a doorway entering into the basement. He must have passed through this doorway. On this there is no light at the present. All that is known is that he met this clerk, Mr. J. F. Rogers, and as a result of that meeting he drew a revolver and shot him, although a perfect stranger so far as known, and as a result of that revolver shot, Mr. Rogers died within a very few minutes. Such is the story in brief.
