The famous blue laws of Connecticut, enacted by "the people of the dominion of New Haven," were so called because print-ed on blue paper." They prohibited the ceremony of marriage being performed by a parson, on the strange ground that a magistrate might perform it with less soandal to the church. Adultery was pusised by desth. Wearing clothes trim-med with gold, ailver or lace above one shilling a yard, involved a tax on the per-son's estate of $15. "No one to cross a river on the Sabbath but authorized clergy-men. No one shall travel, cook, make beds, sweep houses, cut hair on shave on the Sabbath. No one shall kiss his or her children on the Sabbath or fasting days. The Sabbath day shall begin at sunset Saturday."

There will be leboat meing on the bay every day this week.
