A New Idea in Science.

A scientific genius in Europe has struck a new idea which may play an important part in astronomy and in every-day life as well. In the manufacture of telescopes the principal difficulty heretofore has been the making of the lenses. The largest lens yet made is some three or four feet in diameter. The difficulty of making a larger lens from a single piece of glass has been so great as to practically limit the size to that size. The genius in question proposes to make the lens in segments and to unite the various pieces into one whole by delicate steel work. In this way it will be possible to make a lens with a diameter of fifty, or even one hundred feet. A telescope with a lens of this latter diameter would bring the moon so near the earth that we could easily discern living objects if such there be on its surface. Another use to which it is proposed to put this lens is for collecting and focusing the sun's rays and thereby producing an intense heat which can be used for industrial and domestic purposes. The heat produced by a lens of 100-foot diameter would be something terrific. It would mean instant destruction to any sort of animal life that got within its focus. Metals would be fused under the powerful heat produced, and all kinds of domestic cooking, heating and the like could be effected by means of such an instrument, even in zero weather. This lens will be the first practical attempt to utilize the sun's rays as a substitute for coal. The amount of heat, light and power that is constantly slipping through our fingers is something enormous. We have no doubt that science ere long will be successful in tapping the source of all energy at its fountain head, which is common every-day sunlight. This lens idea seems to be a step in the right direction.

Speaking metaphorically, on Tuesday next a hundred foot lens will be turned on the man whom it is said Ontario cannot afford to dismiss. There will be a momentary sizing up of fat frying in the pan and a Government that has existed for twenty years will become a thing of the past. The garbage of 20 years' accumulation will be consumed like a scroll. Dishonesty in the expenditure of the public money, long cunning intended to deceive the people, nepotism, dualism, exhaustion of talent, incapacity and a heap of such like rottenness will be put under the all-consuming focus, and in the twinkling of an eye it shall all have passed away. And the medium by which the purification will be effected is the pure, unadulterated sunshine of public opinion.

The Trick Worked Well: Sir Oliver De-

The Globe has quoted a paragraph that appeared in this paper at the time Sheriff Mowat was appointed to his office to show that The World commended the action of Sir Oliver in appointing his son to the shrievalty of Toronto. We commended the appointment at the time because we had been deceived, like everyone else, in the belief that the appointment was being forced upon Sir Oliver Mowat by the leaders of the Reform party. Ostensibly the appointment was urged upon Sir Oliver in such a way that it would have been nothing short of an insult on his part had he refused to accede to the request of his friends. Sir Oliver Mowat is a cunning scoundrel as innocent Clergyman Milligan has little idea of. It was for the very purpose of getting the public and the press to speak favorably of the appointment that Sir Oliver Mowat adopted the clever ruse which has just been laid bare. The scheme worked like a charm. Every one was deceived. His very opponents had to admit that, in the face of such persuasion as the Reformers brought to bear upon Sir Oliver Mowat, he was not an alternative but to bow to the inevitable, and, much against his will, to appoint his own son to a lucrative Government position. It is therefore no defence for The Globe to cite The World as approving the appointment. On the contrary, the publication of our remarks only proves how cunning a politician Sir Oliver Mowat is. He deceived the whole province.

"A Political Scholmer and Whore."

It is unfortunate from a public point of view that the Lays' disclosures were not made earlier in the campaign. The public has not yet had time to take in the true significance of these disclosures. In addition to establishing the insincerity of a man who likes to pose before the public as a model Christian the correspondence reveals the fact that Sir Oliver Mowat has been playing the part of a dishonest steward in connection with the public money he has placed in his hands. He stands convicted by his own testimony of paying public servants extravagant salaries and of employing high-priced and unnecessary officials. A manager who ran any business in the same way that Sir Oliver Mowat has conducted ours would be discharged on the spot. Ontario needs a premier who will conduct its affairs according to business, not party, ideas. The World has endeavored to criticize this Lays' episode from an unbiased point of view, and we are glad to see that our estimate of it is just about agreed with that of The Week, a thoroughly independent journal. We reproduce The Week's criticism:

Giving the Premier, as we gladly do, the full benefit of this explanation, and then admitting, though this is not proved, that he did not initiate the movement, the damaging truth remains that Mr. Lays undertook to engineer the sham not only with Sir Oliver's full knowledge, but at his personal request. And yet everybody who has any recollection of the affair knows that the business was made to take on the appearance of a spontaneous movement of the party leaders, with Sir Oliver taken by surprise, more or less stupidly objecting for a time, and finally giving a reluctant consent under pressure. In this ground the appointment has always been defended, and Sir Oliver, by acting his part in the farce or even tacitly assisting to it, has placed himself on the low level of the political schemer and wire-puller and left a lasting blot upon his record for straight-forward and above-board dealing. * * *

A suggestive picture of the uses and abuses of Government patronage have we in the fact that this registration has been kept open for four or five years simply in consequence of the inability of the Government to summon courage to make an appointment! If the office could be left vacant so long without detriment to the public interest, why not for an indefinite period, or perpetually? If we remember aright, too, while the interests of individuals and of "the party" are truly referred to in the Lays' correspondence, the word public scarcely occurs. The cursory reader would hardly get the idea that the filling of either of the offices was regarded as a public trust, a duty to be discharged with an eye to nothing but the public interests. We have before spoken of the possession of the power of filling such appointments as a serious temptation to any Government. In the light of what has now been revealed, the undesirability of permitting any party government to have the power of appointment to positions so attractive must be evident to the most thoughtless. Surely there must be a better way.

Small Business.
The city has acted in a small way in regard to closing the gate of the Toronto Ferry Company to summarize it it did yesterday. The little corner of the ship used as a passageway was injuring no one and was a public convenience. The proper notice was not given, and altogether it looks as if the city's action was in the interest of a rival ferry concern rather than to protect public rights.

The whole Explanade situation is muddled, and the sooner the corporation and its counsel and the C.P.R. and the Toronto Ferry Company sit down together and work out a friendly adjustment, fair to all, the better for all. Going to law, tearing down fences and calling names will not bring about a satisfactory settlement.

The Central Prison and Binder Twine.

Some time ago, when the Legislature was investigating the binder twine operations of the Central Prison, The Globe undertook to make good the evidence of Inspector Noron, that there had been no depreciation in the value of the "kind of Manila hemp" purchased by him in June, 1893, for that institution.

Wiman's Downfall.

(From The Monetary Times.)
Review the evidence as we will, make what allowances we may, recall the career of the man, many do, there is no longer room for the best friends of Erastus Wiman—and he has many—to doubt that he has for several past years been living a false life. His vanity and love of notoriety ran away with him. He has been posing as a millionaire when he was really in financial difficulties and making overdrifts of the money of the Mercantile Agency. He has been lecturing communities on their political duties when his own duties were being neglected. His vulgar vanity has been such as to raise doubts of his perfect sanity in the minds of not a few. His plunging into a great variety of outside ventures (in some of which money was sunk) while he should have been looking after a business that yielded him profits of $1000 to $1500 per week, do not indicate a well-balanced mind.

The British Association invited to Torono.

The adjourned meeting of citizens was held at the Canadian Institute last evening. Mr. J. C. Hamilton, vice-president of the Institute, presided. It was announced that the City Council had voted $5000, the Ontario Government a like sum, and the promise of aid had been given by the Dominion Government, also by private individuals. Letters were read from the city members in the Dominion Parliament and others endorsing the proposal as one of importance to the City. The meeting, therefore, resolved that an invitation be forwarded to the British Association requesting them to come to Toronto for their meeting in 1897, and that Professor Ramsay Wright, W. H. Ellis and Mayor be instructed to present the invitation to the British Association at their meeting next August in Oxford.

Penitentiary Park Hotel.

The advent of continued hot weather brings up the question of where the best and coolest place to spend the summer holiday season. To anyone who has been to Penitentiary Park Hotel and knows of its many advantages, both as regards the scenery and the natural beauty of the Park and surroundings, strict attention to the comfort and convenience of guests and the delightfulness of the atmosphere, even in the hottest days of summer, this question is easily answered.

Physicians recommend the bracing air and pure water of Lake Simcoe, not only for those who are ailing, but for everyone. The hotel is very carefully managed, has a million of the personal supervision of Mr. M. McConnell, the proprietor, whose reputation it is to ensure the best everything for his guests. Table unsurpassed. For rates apply 46 Colborne-street. M. McConnell.

The Anglican Synod.

The intense heat tends to expedite the business of the Anglican Synod, not only for those who are ailing, but for everyone. The hotel is very carefully managed, has a million of the personal supervision of Mr. M. McConnell, the proprietor, whose reputation it is to ensure the best everything for his guests. Table unsurpassed. For rates apply 46 Colborne-street. M. McConnell.

Deep Waterways Joint Committee.

The joint committee of the City Council and Citizens' Committee met at the City Hall yesterday. Present: Ald. Dunn, J. L. H. Frankland, Graham and Messrs. Brown, Boyle, Bell, Goss, Steele and McIntyre of the Citizens' Committee. The object sought by the latter body was to obtain $5000 preliminary expenses for the proposed convention. The aldermen wished a detailed statement of the expenses, and for its production adjourned till Wednesday next at 2 p.m.

The Police Bicycle Brigade.

The police bicycle brigade is now in operation and bids fair to be successful. The brigade consists of P. C. Egan (No. 2), P. C. Archibald (No. 3), P. C. Armstrong (No. 4), P. C. Fidler (No. 5), P. C. Twigg (No. 6). Their duties are somewhat similar to those of the mounted police, each man being assigned to a certain beat.

One of two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's move dyspepsia and drive away that extreme tired feeling which causes so many of our business men and persons of sedentary habits. Mr. W. E. Ellis, Druggist, 100 King-st. West, is selling well and giving good satisfaction.

A Peculiar Larceny Case.

Hugh Miller and James Mills, both of Grand Valley, came to the city yesterday, bringing with them three cattle to sell, the two men being partners. Mills sold the cattle, but when he went to deliver them he found that the Miller had also sold them. As Mills had made his sale first he considered that it was his deal and had Miller arrested charged with stealing the cattle.
