Varsity v. Hamilton. Plan at Nordheimers

An Explanation.

Referring to the advertisement of the Conger Coal Company in yesterday's World, a serious typographical error occurred, by giving the price of grate and egg coal at $5 a ton, and the price of No. 2 nut at $4. This was entirely a mistake of the printer, as he failed to obey the instructions givento erase the prices from the old advertisement. The World regrets the mistake. An Explanation.

Buffalo, Oct. 24.—On Tuesday night a handsome young woman arriven in this city from Canada and went to the boarding house of Mrs. Blanchette in West Huron-street. She gave the name of Mrs. Lee. Yesterday Dr. Harper was called in to attend her and this morning, where at 9 a.m., an enquiry into the recent incendiary fires in Trafalgar and Nelson Townships will be opened.

The principal suffer has been Mrs. Walker Smith, three barns and a brick house belonging to this lady having been set on fire and destroyed, the fires occurring on August 17 September 4, and September 27. The barns of William Peacock and the school house, a short distance away, were also burned.

The fires on the Smith estate were undoubtedly of incendiary origin, and a strong chain of circumstantial evidence has been welded against the suspected firebug.

WILL THE CATTLE KING

Many Interesting Buyers Taking Advantage of Dineens' Bargain Day.

To-day is the second of a series of bargain days which Dineen will hold each week. In every large store there are certain lines of goods which, while not out of fashion by any means, it pays to offer at a reduced price rather than carry them over. Sometimes the space is needed for other goods, sometimes a certain line becomes sold out all but a few sizes or shapes and these all but a few sizes or shapes and these are put on the bargain counter. In yesterday's paper our article read, speaking of bargain day: and loses a ttle on the day's business.

This was a slight typographical error and should have read: loses little on the day's business. While the reductions to-day will be genuine and low prices was a second or the day will be genuine and low prices. tions to-day will be genuine and low prices may cause a loss on a few lines, it is not pretended that there will be any loss on the day's business, but rather that so much business shall be done as to make up for the exceedingly small profits. On mink neck ruffs there will be no reduction, simply because they have been sold right along at $2.50, $3.50 and $5, or a quarter of the results ruffs for the these along at $2.50, $3.50 and $5, or a quarter off the regular price, so that they cannot be figured any lower. All ladies who are out shopping are invited to look over the bargains at Dineens to-day, where they will be courteously treated, whether buying or not. The following prices are an indication of what may be expected: Astrachan Capes, 30 inches long, wide sweep, $15, were $20, and capes, in other furs in same proportion; Long Fur-Lined Circulars, $10, were $18; Three-quarter Length Fur-Lined Wraps, $16.50, were $20; Alaska Sable Muffs, finest quality, $10, were $12.50,
