HARRIS & CO. PROPRIETORS WATFORD, DECEMBER 25, 1914.

"Doesn't Believe in War"

We know a farmer who would give nothing towards the Patriotic Fund "because he does not believe in war.'

When bugs attack his popatoes he does not hesitate to sprinkle Paris Green on the vines. He does not believe in bugs ravaging his potato patch and so he goes out to kill them.

If the army worm arrived at his farm he would not hesitate to make trenches and dig holes that he might mobilize the enemy and then burn them. He does not believe in the army worm destroying his crops and so he would stop at nothing to destroy the army worm.

But if an enemy came to attack himself personally, his family, his race or his nation, he would change his logic and tactics at once. He would say, "I don't believe in war, therefore, I shall not take a hand in or encourage it in any way. I shall not even help those who go out to fight for me." That is to say he will not do for himself what he would do for his potatoes or his wheat.

He docs not believe in potato bugs or the army worm and therefore he kills them to save his potatoes and grain.

He does not believe in war, therefore he will not kill anyone to save himself and his country.

Perhaphs we are mistaken in saying he lacks logic. A man like that is not of as much use to his country as his potatoes and wheat are. They will help the saviors of our country and that is more than he will do.

He "doesn't believe in war." Neither does Kitchener or Asquith or Joffre or the Czar of Russia. Neither does anyone else except the Nietschkes or Trietschke and their disciplines, who educated a generation or two of Germans to believe in it. It is the men who know most

Exceptional Puterestoods Values. FORMAL ALA IT IS CHRISTMAS AGAIN

THE hour when the whirring machines will be hushed is drawing near; when the busy work-a-day world will lay down its tools, its cares and forget.

Silently across the snows of memory-in the singing voices of little children-the little gusts that sift the snow in cottony drifts across the roof-in the crackle and snap of green logscomes the spirit of Christmas, ages old.

It has come to make us conscious of the Old Year's blessings, of a fate that has smiled so kindly upon us, a year that has been good.

It brings us prospects of another year. It brings joy and gladness to our hearts-our homes and lives. It makes us feel better towards our fellow man.

We are glad. We wish there was some medium through which we could send you the Good Will Thoughts as we think them ourselves-to make you feel the spirit of Christmas-tide as we feel it-and to give you your share of all goodthings of this Lovable Old Season.

And so, good friends, amid the tinkle of bells, the hustling crowds and the smiling faces hurrying homeward, laden with kind thoughts for others and loying hearts and hands that wish you well, may our good wishes too, find you and make the occasion all the happier.

Accept then our Bountiful Wishes. May they be harbingers of the Merriest Merry Christmas ever and the Happiest New Year you have known.

Your Comrades in Good Cheer,
